CORN MORE PROFITABLE THAN TOBACCO AND COTTON

Corn properly supplemented and fed to hogs in 1930 will be more likely to return a profit than will cotton and tobacco.

—The cost of producing four acres of corn is but little if any greater than the cost of producing one acre of cotton or tobacco," says W. W. Shay, swine extension specialist at State College. "This corn, when fed to good hogs, will certainly stand a better chance this year of paying a profit on the venture. Therefore instead of planting cotton and tobacco with less than the needed amount of fertilizer and therefore working two acres to get the amount that one should produce, try putting in several acres of corn this season to be hogged down in August and September." Thousands of acres of corn should be planted for hogging down, he believes Mr. Shay. Other thousands of acres of corn should be planted to meet the requirements of the half-starved hogs which are not profitable now but which could be made so if they were properly fed. Unless the amount of corn in North Carolina is increased, some of the hogs now on farms should be decreased. During 1929, eleven county farm agents assisted 45 farmers in keeping complete records on the feed eaten by 918 hogs during periods of time averaging 83 days. The hogs ate 6,852 bushels of corn which was charged to them at the current local market price of $1.09 a bushel. After paying for all other feed, including 92 bushels of wheat for which they paid at the rate of $1.36 a bushel and 135 bushels of barley for which they paid $1 a bushel, the hogs then paid $1.50 for each bushel of corn consumed. Mr. Shay says that these hogs sold at an average price of $11.54 a hundred pounds and that market conditions are equally as satisfactory during the coming year.

CORN YIELD CONTROLLED BY STAND SECURED

The number of stalks of corn growing upon an acre of land will be one of the important factors controlling the total yield of grain secured from that acre at harvest. G. M. Garren, cereal agronomist at State College, says that the number of stalks the acre will support depends chiefly on the fertility of the soil and the rainfall during the growing season. One may fertilize well and yet not have a good stand and thus fail to make a good yield. Usually, fows of corn are planted four feet apart and the hills kept from 12 to 24 inches apart on the row according to the soil fertility. Mr. Garren says that the best yields secured in tests made by the North Carolina Experiment Station were obtained when the rows were four feet apart and the corn planted 24 inches apart on the row. Such a distance will give 5,445 stalks to the acre when a perfect stand is secured. Usually with a perfect stand of 5,445 stalks to the acre and each stalk averaging one good ear, the yield obtained when figuring it takes 125 ears to shell one bushel of grain, will be 43 bushels to the acre. When a prolific type of corn is used, at least 60 per cent of the stalks will bear two ears and thus the yield will then average about 50 bushels to the acre. Fifty bush-

PASTURE IS BASIS OF LIVE STOCK FARMING

Permanent pasture is the foundation for profitable and successful livestock production. "Probably the greatest source of revenue in many of the more favored counties of western North Carolina is the large area of sod which annually produces an abundant yield of valuable grazing," says Sam J. Kirby, pasture specialist at State College. "It is necessary that the value and possibilities of pasture be more fully appreciated that the crop will receive more care and thus be able to pay the highest profits." Mr. Kirby says that pasture furnishes an abundance of feed at low cost; prevents soil erosion or washing; builds the fertility of the soil and beautifies the landscape. On eighty-eight farms where records were kept last year, pastures ranging in age from one to four years, produced from $16.50 to $38.50 worth of grazing an acre or an average of $28.82 an acre when measured in feed replacement values. When pastures are properly managed and grazed, they will pay a good annual return. It is nearly always necessary to seed the pasture. Waiting for a good sod to come voluntarily is a long and almost hopeless task. In many instances the best grasses and clovers do not appear in the sod under these conditions. It is best to seed and to seed liberally. Limestone and fertilizers help to establish the sod. Weeds may be controlled by obtaining a good stand of the nutritious grasses and clovers. In Mr. Kirby's opinion the planting of good pastures, especially in eis an acre is the standard set for corn growing in this state. To get such yields, Mr. Garren urges growers this year to plant only on a thoroughly prepared seed bed, to plant plenty of sound seed, to use only mature seed and to use those varieties which have proven best yields in the local neighborhood. When these suggestions are followed and the corn fertilized and side-dressed as it should be, one should more than measure up to the standard of 50 bushels an acre on each acre planted.

the upper piedmont and mountain sections will help to build up an industry which will yield a farm revenue far in excess of anything being done at the present time.

County Agent's News Items

In speaking of farm activities of Alamance county recently, W. Kerr Scott the county agent reports:

We cleaned and treated 75 pounds of tobacco seed for Alamance county farmers this spring. There are approximately 500,000 tobacco seed per ounce. This makes a total of 600,000,000 tobacco seed that have been treated against disease for the county.

The Divine command to have a garden, "And the Lord God took the man and put him in the garden to dress it and keep it."—Genesis 2:15.

The income from the dairy industry in Alamance county for the year 1928 was $848,749.50.

The capital behind the dairy industry of this county represents approximately $2,600,000, which is a growing industry.

A co-operative poultry shipment was made Wednesday and Thursday of this week from Graham.

Fish meal for poultry and hog feed is being ordered. Freight rates on less than car load lots make it almost prohibitive to buy that way.

A poultry school will be held at the courthouse in Graham on Thursday, March 20, all day. Mr. C. F. Parrish, poultry specialist, Dr. Dearstyne, poultry disease specialist and Mr. L. C. Salter, marketing specialist for poultry will be present.

Anyone having diseased poultry are requested to bring infected birds on that day. Nearly 40,000 pounds of improved pasture mixtures and Lespedeza will be sown in Alamance this coming spring. Sowing as late as April 20 is generally satisfactory. If you haven't tried Lespedeza for soil improvement, try it on a small patch this year. We will help you locate seed.

When better automobiles are made most of us will still be paying for the ones we now have.

Randolph farmers purchased 30,000 pounds of Lespedeza seed and large quantities of other clover and grass seed this spring.

Because of bad weather cutting the acreage to small grain last fall, piedmont farmers have planted more spring oats than usual.

County Agent T. J. W. Broom of Union County has begun a dairy club with the importation of 17 heifers and four cows as foundation stock.

Onslow farmers are removing stumps from their fertile lands. A special campaign for this purpose was recently begun in the county by the farm agent.

Four-H club boys of Yadkin county are caponizing their cockerels and selling them at good prices. E. E. Gough received $124.27 for one shipment.

One good tobacco grower says that using dolomitic or magnesium limestone under his tobacco has paid him between $50 and $75 a year for the last four years.
