Col. George E. Butler of Clinton is prominent as a Republican candidate for U. S. Senator.

Owen J. Roberts, prominent and well known lawyer of Philadelphia was named by Pres. Hoover for the vacancy on the U. S. Supreme Court bench two days after the rejection of Judge Parker by the Senate.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., Methodist prelate, who raised so much "cain" in the 1928 presidential election against Al Smith, is still being talked about.

Plant Velvet Beans To Improve The Soil.

Velvet beans are especially adapted for use on poor, sandy soils as they make a rich, abundant growth and gather much nitrogen on soils that will hardly sprout other legumes.

Mr. Blair states that tobacco always responds well to the plant food furnished when this crop is turned under but that this is not always true when soybeans are turned under.

Velvet beans are also very valuable for winter grazing of cattle. A good crop will furnish grazing for a herd of cattle from the first frost until February and there will be sufficient vegetation for turning under.

Save Best Hens For Next Year

Selling the good breeding hens at poultry cars when the hatching season is over, undermines future success with the farm flock.

approximately 20 cents a month to feed each hen thus leaving a profit of 65 cents for the five and one-half months.

Mr. Seese says if the hen is sold for meat in the spring, she will bring about $1.68. If she is kept until September and sold, she will bring about $1.32, giving a loss of only 36 cents in the meat price, but in the meantime, she will have made the profit from the eggs produced.

But there is a far greater factor to be considered, says Mr. Seese. Many of the troubles with baby chicks, heavy pullet mortality and lowered vigor in general are caused by continued breeding from pullets which have been pushed for high egg production.

Mr. Seese says it is unquestionably a good practice to dispose of all females which molt before September first. Good poultrymen have improved their flocks by selecting their breeders from the hens which molt in September and October.

Proper Care Needed in Growing Good Roses.

There is no secret in growing good roses but there are certain definite cultural methods that must be practiced in order to secure best results.

"In the first place the soil should be carefully and thoroughly prepared before setting the plants," says Glenn O. Randall, floriculturist at State College.

Another aid to successful rose culture is that of placing a strawy manure mulch around the plant when mid-summer comes. This is especially recommended for outdoor roses as it will keep the soil moist and cool and develop a healthy root system at the time when the soil temperature is too high for many varieties.

Finally, states Mr. Randall, the successful rose grower must follow very definite practices of insect and disease control. At this time of the year many growers are troubled with plant lice that appear on the buds and tips of the growing shoots.

Did You Ever Stop To Think

By Edison R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla. L. Ames Brown, President of Lord & Thomas and Logan, Inc., Says:

That newspaper advertising today has become as timely, as dramatic, and as informative of the world's progress as the news columns of the paper you read.

New inventions, betterments in household and scientific products, fresh ideas in fashions, more efficient business methods, as well as novel amusements are presented to the public by newspaper advertising.

Great newspapers are guided by men with the ability to know what the public wants to read. Advertising campaigns that are most profitable are guided by men with the instinct of unearthing what feature about a product is most interesting to the most people.

It is not only the advertising man's job but his duty to inform the public of progress. He must seek the "news" of the latest developments in meritorious products and the current improvements in useful services of every sort.

From a standpoint of public information and welfare, modern newspaper advertising plays a part as important as the reporting of the daily human drama. It not only records daily happenings in the world of industrial progress but anticipates the public need and forecasts the nation's progress.

America's Most Amazing Preacher

This remarkable preacher runs the biggest business, so many folks say, in the city where he has his church. This preacher has a church membership of 6,000—a Sunday school enrollment of 7,000—a women's auxiliary of more than 3,000 members.

You will find the amazing story of this amazing preacher in the current issue of the New CHRISTIAN HERALD and in the revitalized Christian Herald you will find interesting, exciting contributions from Honroe Willis Morrow, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Margaret Sangster, Stanley High, Dr. Charles H. Sheldon and a dozen other "star" writers.
