The Primary Ballot.

That innovation known as the Australian ballot will be used in the primary on Saturday. There are certain rules and regulations about voting that will be made known to the voter when he offers to vote.

The names of the persons to be voted for will be printed on a sheet which the election officers will furnish the voter.

We have obtained from Dr. Will S. Long, Jr., Chairman of the County Board of Elections, the names of those who have filed notice of their candidacy.

The following is the Democratic list of candidates:

For House of Representatives:

- Roba B. Newlin
- W. L. Spoon
- J. Dolph Long

For Register of Deeds:

- William V. Winningham
- J. G. Tingin
- W. S. Harris

On the Republican ticket there is but one candidate for each county office, and they will not vote in the county primary.

There is a ballot for township officers where more than one candidate has filed.

In the congressional primary are A. F. Sams and Frank Hancock, Jr.

For U. S. Senator are Josiah W. Bailey, F. M. Simmons and another.

For Corporation Commissioner, Geo. P. Pell and J. H. Holloway. The Republican candidates for U. S. Senator are Geo. E. Butler, George Pritchard and Ivan Tucker, and will be voted on in the primary.

The last news of the state campaign is cheering. Unless hundreds of observant citizens are badly fooled, there is scarcely a doubt but Mr. Bailey will be nominated Saturday for the United States Senate.

We are not surfeited with admiration for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., but when he as good as told that Senate probing committee that, so far as his political activities were concerned, it was none of their business, he was just about right. The country is tiring of inquisitions.

"Painting and Whitewashing on the Farm" is the title of Agronomy Information circular No. 50 now available free of charge to farmers of North Carolina on application to State college.

Caswell county tobacco growers report a probable reduction of 15 per cent in the tobacco acreage this year due to lack of plants and the campaign for more food and feed crops.

The Senatorial campaign is practically over and Saturday's voting will decide whether F. M. Simmons, present incumbent, or Josiah W. Bailey will be the Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate. It has been an unusual campaign—the Simmons managers have struck at Bailey from every angle in their effort to wring declarations; Bailey has kept quiet and apparently unmoved by their baiting, observing the old proverb that "whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad." It has been a personal attack hard to endure, but has brought forth nothing in kind. It is Mr. Simmons' last fight and he is dying hard.

Mr. White of Mebane Is Urging Economy.

Below is a letter which Mr. W. E. White of Mebane wrote to the Burlington News and sent The Gleaner a copy with request to publish.

Mr. White is a sound financier and talking on right lines, and we are pleased to publish his views.

Mr. White says: I have just read your editorial in your issue of May 27th "We Must Cut Expenses."

I agree with you fully, that it is absolutely necessary for our county officials, also, our board of education to economize in every way possible.

I agree with you that Gov. Gardner will probably go down in history as the "Economical Governor."

If Gov. Gardner, with the help of the officials of our state institutions, both educational and charitable, can reduce 20 percent, then it seems to me that our board of education and county officials can do the same.

There is no one who wants to injure our schools or to do anything to injure our roads, both should be kept up to their present standards.

There are going to be one or two propositions that are going to be put up to our county officials very soon, both of them, no doubt worthy and if conditions were normal, I do not believe that there would be much opposition to either one of these propositions, but under the present conditions, when the people of Alamance county, and especially the farmers, and I might also say the manufacturers, are now unable to pay their present taxes and they cannot stand any further burdens.

You only have to pick up the newspaper, published in any county in North Carolina and you will see page after page of farms and other real estate advertised for taxes.

I note that a good many lands of our very best farmers in Alamance county are advertised for taxes. This will not do, and it is simply up to our county officials and those of authority to begin now to economize, otherwise, the people are not going to submit to further expenditures that can be averted.

I note from the press, such wealthy counties as Wake, Durham, Guilford, Forsyth, Mecklenburg, Buncombe and other large counties are reducing their budget everywhere they possibly can, and they have made some great reductions in these budgets for the year 1930-31.

Our board of education and our county officials, I believe, are in sympathy with the taxpayers of Alamance county, and I believe that they are going to do everything in the world that they possibly can to reduce their budget and to reduce the taxes. We note for the past twelve months that there has been considerable reductions made, and there should be more.

I trust that the other papers of Alamance county will fall in line and join you in urging our board of education and our county officials to do everything in the world that they possibly can to reduce these burdens.

Yours truly,
W. E. WHITE.

W. C. Carter for County Commissioner.

W. C. Carter of Mebane announces himself candidate for county commissioner subject to the action of the Democratic primary. He is a native of Southern Alamance and a Democrat all his life. He feels that he can be of service to the county and therefore is asking for support. His large experience in road building fits him to help in that line especially.

Rev. McKendree Long Makes Memorial Address at Providence.

Last Sunday was a perfect day and a large assembly gathered at Old Providence church to pay a tribute of hallowed reverence to the memory of those who sleep in the old churchyard. The people gathered from near and afar to renew their devotion to the sacred shrine.

It is a beautiful custom,—this communing with the loved ones who have stepped beyond the veil,—this opening of memory's page and living over again the treasured experiences of the by-gone.

The fine song service of the morning hour was a fitting preparation for the chief event of the day.

The President of the Memorial Association, Mr. Junius H. Harden, presided and announced the items on the program. The time arrived for the introduction of the speaker, the Rev. McKendree Long. Mr. Harden's association and acquaintance with three generations of the Long family fitted him for a task which his emotions would not allow him wholly to complete, but the audience and the speaker understood.

Mr. Long, of fine stature and a countenance whose lines indicated depth and breadth of classic culture, captivated his audience when he arose.

He had every incentive to pour forth the choicest speech—a splendid audience, the memory of noble-souled ancestors, worthy of his finest tribute, sleeping nearby. These inspired him. And he gathered together the best from the realm of literature and wove it into a memorial chaplet for the occasion. For fifty minutes he was heard with the tensest interest.

We would not detract from the keen enjoyment afforded his audience by attempting to outline his address, preferring to leave the gems undisturbed in the hearts and minds where he placed them.

The church services over, family groups and friends went upon the grounds for a delightful mid-day meal.

In the early morning a wealth of bright and fragrant flowers had been placed on the mounds over the ashes of loved ones.

In the afternoon a business session of the Memorial Association was held, but we forego an account of it till our next issue for lack of space at this time.

Alamance Jersey Breeders' Banquet

One of the greatest events to ever take place in Alamance county for the promotion of the agricultural interest, and especially the dairy industry, was the Alamance County Jersey Breeders' Banquet held on Thursday evening, May 29, at 7:00 o'clock, on Melville dairy farm no. 2, owned and operated by W. Kerr Scott, county agent of Alamance.

The tables were set in the new commodious dairy barn of Mr. Scott. There were more than 200 people in attendance despite the inclement weather. There were farmers, county agents and business men in attendance from all parts of Alamance and adjoining counties, and from various sections of the state as well. The members of the Mebane Kiwanis Club attended in a body.

Mr. E. P. Dixon, Principal of the Eli Whitney School, of south Alamance acted as toastmaster. The principal speakers of the evening were Dr. H. B. Arbuckle, professor of chemistry at Davidson College and president of the North Carolina Jersey Breeders' Association; Mr. A. C. Kimrey, extension dairy specialist of State College; and Mr. Ward C. Snarr, field representative of the American Jersey Cattle Club for North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. Mr. W. E. White, of the White Furniture Company, and Mr. C. B. Martin, of the Durham Dairy Products Company also spoke briefly. All the speakers spoke mainly in the interest of dairying. Dr. Arbuckle mixed quite a number of good jokes with his speech which the crowd enjoyed very much.

In the beginning Mr. E. C. Turner, former county agent of Alamance, gave an address of welcome. In closing Mr. Dixon, the toastmaster, gave a brief tribute of honor to the agricultural leadership of the late Hon. R. W. Scott.

The banquet was prepared by the ladies auxiliary of the Hawfields Presbyterian church of the community and was splendidly prepared. It could well have been called a "live-at-home" banquet, since practically everything served was produced in the community.

The crowd was entertained with plenty of good string-band music given by the south Alamance string band.

Everyone present seemed to enjoy the occasion and went away well pleased. The banquet was held the evening preceding the Alamance

Lines by Dr. Daniel Albright Long, Octogenarian.

I'm so glad! I'm so glad! for all that is bright,
The sun by day, and the "Songs in the night."
The companions of youth, the friends of old age,
As I read God's dealings, on every living page.

Yes, let us thank God today and tomorrow,
In mercy He sends the blessing and sorrow;
It is never unkindness, and never in vain,
His mercy permitted a sorrow or pain.

O Father, we can trust Thee, for days yet to be,
We know they will bring us still closer to Thee;
When all tears have vanished, through Thy boundless love,
We will spend our eternity in the mansions above.

The foregoing lines by Rev. Dr. Daniel Albright Long, 108 N. Quarry St., Florence, S. C., who was 86 on May 22, 1930, were received some few days ago, and well worth publishing. It reads to us like good poetry, regardless of what critics might say, and if it has potential defects they are completely overshadowed by the fine sentiment.

Dr. Long needs no introduction to the middle-aged and older people of this community. He was born and reared at the old Long homestead, about 2 1/2 miles East of Graham, and he taught and preached here until the early 80's, when he became President of Antioch College, Ohio. He filled that position for more than a quarter of a century, when he returned to his native state. In the meanwhile he was President of the American Christian Convention, the supreme council of the Christian Church of America. For more than three-score years he has held a prominent place in his church. He is a great preacher, orator and fluent speaker. And with all a Confederate soldier. May his years yet be long in the land, and may they continue to be years of usefulness.
