News and Views.

The growth of the rayon and knitting industries, coupled with the diversification of the cotton manufacturing industry, has created a demand for intelligent young men who have been thoroughly trained in the manufacture and finishing of textiles. Formerly the South manufactured coarse cotton yarns for sheetings, hosiery, gingham, etc. Today she has turned to fancy cotton and rayon fabrics, fancy and full fashioned hosiery which are the equal of any produced in America. Dr. Thomas Nelson of State College says that there is an increasing demand for the Textile School graduates, and since June he has received many requests for men, but all the last graduating class had accepted positions before commencement. Here is a very inviting opportunity for young men.

The Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, of Greensboro, one of the South's strongest business institutions, on July 1 had total assets of $50,813,000 and insurance in force in excess of $370,000,000 as shown by reports of officers at the semi-annual meeting held last Monday.

President Julian Price declared conditions warrant the expectation of better business in the immediate future than ever before. Angus W. McLean, former governor, member of the board, said North Carolina has sound financial and business institutions and is ready to go forward in all lines, and Charles W. Gold, vice-president and treasurer, reported collections better than last year.

First Boll Weevil Control Demonstration Held in County.

Calcium Arsenate Only Remedy So Far Developed.

Fifty-two men and a number of boys met at the farm of J. G. Braxton near Saxapahaw to learn how to control the boll weevil. Extension entomologist, C. H. Brannon, gave the group a very interesting talk on the spread of the boll weevil, its life history and control measures. Mr. Brannon stated that dusting cotton with calcium arsenate is the only satisfactory control measure which has been developed. Mr. Brannon explained that although there is some cost involved, that it is much better business to invest that much more money in the crop and save it than to run the risk of losing the entire crop.

A large number of dusting machines, varying in size from the large power machine, which will carry a strip eight or nine rows wide, to the small hand duster were demonstrated in Mr. Braxton's field. Those present carefully examined the machines and took their turn in trying out the various makes and models.

This demonstration was arranged by County Agent W. K. Scott and R. H. Hutchison, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Eli Whitney high school. Mr. Scott stated that this was the first demonstration of methods of boll weevil control to be held in Alamance County. A number of the farmers present bought dusting machines and are preparing to apply the calcium arsenate dust in order to protect their cotton.

By installing a hydraulic ram at his spring 817 feet away from the house, J. L. Long of Yadkin county now has a plentiful supply of running water for his home and barns.

"Farm Credit in North Carolina—Its Cost, Risk and Management," is the title of Bulletin 270 recently issued by the North Carolina Experiment Station. Copies may be had free of charge by citizens of the State.

J. B. Fearrington of Star Route, Pittsboro, Chatham county, had the five highest producing cows in the Alamance-Chatham Herd Improvement Association in June.

The red clover fields of Rockingham county have practically dried up with the clover only three to five inches high, reports Fred S. Walker, farm agent.

When W. F. Pittard of Orange county decided to reduce his tobacco acreage this spring he planted two acres in tomatoes. He has now engaged 1800 dozen cans at market prices to local stores.

The first sweet potato curing house in Catawba county was built in 1888 by J. L. Ingold of Hickory, route 3. Mr. Ingold has produced an average of 300 bushels of sweet potatoes per acre. He sold 60,000 slips from his plant beds this spring.

Tariff-Farmer.

Editorial Expressions on the Farm Relief Failure.

"The farmer, we are told, was to be saved by the tariff. A duty of 30 cents a bushel was placed on wheat. The price dropped. The duty was boosted to 42 cents. The price dropped again. Today, under a 42-cent tariff, wheat is selling at the lowest price in 16 years, commanding less than 70 cents a bushel at many western points.

The tariff incantation didn't work. "The Farm Board undertook to rescue the farmer. It announced that the price of wheat was too low. So it purchased wheat in quantity at $1.18 to $1.25 per bushel in an effort to raise the price. It still holds some 50,000,000 bushels of last year's crop, tying up over $50,000,000 of public money. When it sells, the taxpayer will have to stand the loss. This magic also failed.

"The board now says that agriculture co-operatives will have to depend on private credit to finance the holding of this year's crop. Its former policy has been abandoned. It confesses to the error of its way. Now we learn that the policy of three Republican administrations was futile.

"Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge have been surprisingly frank in telling the farmer what Grundyism is going to do to him. It is a pity they could not have spoken sooner."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch. (Ind)

"The powers of the board were virtually limitless; and its financial backing was on the same ultra-generous scale. For a year this organization has sought, supported by an almost unbelievable patience on the part of the public as a whole, to apply first aid to the suffering wheat farmer. First, it lent him money to carry and market his surplus crop; then, this device proving a failure, it openly entered the grain market and bought wheat to support the price of that commodity. This second experiment has been no more successful than the first, and wheat touched the lowest level reached in sixteen years.

"To talk at this date of buying more wheat is to ignore this lesson, learned at the cost of a year of painful experience and many millions of dollars in public money."—N. Y. Herald-Tribune (Rep.)

"He (chairman Legge) is trying to make a bad law work."—N. Y. Evening Post (Rep)

"The farm board's scheme of propaganda may prove to be little better than its earliest systems of market control. It certainly offers little encouragement to general business at a moment when general business is badly in need of cheering up."—Phila. Evening Ledger (Rep)

"When the government is spending money to make agriculture pay on land now under cultivation and to get American farmers a price for what is now produced it has been also induced to spend money to make the desert arable and add more crops to production now looking for consumers."—Chicago Tribune (Rep.)

"The price of wheat is in inverse proportion to the promises of the politicians to bring relief to the farmer."—Baltimore Evening Sun (Ind. Dem.)

Did You Ever Stop To Think

B. M. Bloodworth, editor of the Decatur (Alabama) Daily, says:

That despite the fact that this is the time of the year when we all grow, more or less, about payment of the income tax, it remains one of the fairest forms of taxation we have. Sometimes I wonder if it would not be better to eliminate all other forms of taxes and use income tax solely to obtain revenue for national, state, county, and municipal expense.

Consider the case of two mechanics. Both are employed in the same shop, both draw the same wages. One is thrifty and saving and accumulates property. On that property he pays taxes. The other mechanic is shiftless and fails to save anything. He pays little or nothing in taxes.

Under the present system we penalize thrift. Is that good for the community? Does that encourage better citizenship, or doesn't it?

Ward Mayborn, publisher of the Temple (Texas) Telegram, says:

"Advertising makes necessities out of luxuries, raises the standard of living by popularizing products, creating mass demand, developing mass production and making possible more jobs, more wages, more consumption and a greater, happier nation.

"We used to cut wages and lay off men when production overtook consumption—now we pay the same wages, use all the help possible, improve and increase our advertising and what happens?"

"Consumption increases and the crisis is met in the new way—The advertising way."

DEATHS.

Allen S. Pendergraph, aged 59 years, of Swepsonville died last Wednesday morning in a Raleigh hospital, following an illness of six weeks. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Salem M. P. church near Swepsonville.

Wm. K. Ross, aged 82, died in Chapel Hill Tuesday, death resulting from a stroke from the heat. He was making his home with his daughters, Misses Daisy and Ruby Ross. He was formerly a citizen of Alamance and Burlington. Until lately his home was in this county. He was well known and highly esteemed. Two other daughters and a son survive him. His funeral was held from the Lutheran church in Burlington and the burial was in Pine Hill cemetery.

To secure a variety of canned fruit and vegetables this winter, each housewife needs 45 cans of a variety of fruit and 57 pints of a variety of vegetables for each member in the family, estimates Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon.

Bank Bandits Active

The greatest number of bandit raids on American banking ever recorded in the figures of the protective department of the American Bankers Association were reported during the six months ending last February. Bank members of the association reported for investigation 311 forgery cases, 107 holdup robberies, 16 burglaries, 2 sneak thefts and 8 mortgage swindles while non-member banks, numbering less than half the total enrolled in the association, suffered 86 holdup robberies and 9 burglaries, non-members being burglarized or held up once for every 89 banks, as compared with once for every 164 member banks. The association detective agents caused the arrest of 143 of the 236 bank criminals apprehended during the period covered.

The association's report on these conditions urges support of the movement to provide city police departments with radio-equipped cruising automobiles which have proved particularly effective in Cleveland and Detroit in the broadcasting of alarms and the closing in on criminals immediately after or even in the midst of the perpetration of crimes. Last year the average time elapsed between the receipt of radio calls by these cars and the 1325 arrests which followed was one minute and forty-two seconds, the report says.

Is Canadian Liquor Regulation Successful?

The wets of Canada—like those of the United States—advocate "regulation" in the interest of "temperance." Now it is the wet game to conceal the fact that Canadian "regulation," as a temperance measure, is a tragic failure. It is doubtful if a more careful or more striking inventory of that failure has been written than this article by the Associate Editor of the Toronto Globe—probably Canada's greatest newspaper—which appears in this week's issues of the New Christian Herald.

This is only one of the series of red hot prohibition articles appearing in Christian Herald. Henry Ford, Senator Borah, Lady Astor, Thomas A. Edison and a score or more other prominent Americans have written a ringing series of articles that are being published in Christian Herald.
