Announcement For Double Wedding on June 21st.

"Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Simpson request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughters, Annie, to Edward Rankin McNeely, and Gladys to Earl Wright Vickers on Sunday, June 21, at 5:30 o'clock, First Christian church, Greensboro."

This announcement is of more than passing interest in this community.

The brides-to-be are the granddaughters of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Crawford, whose residence was the old Crawford home about 200 yards east of Travora Mills and on the north side of the road from Graham station to Haw River. Here the mother of the girls was born and spent her young girlhood days.

In the early 90's, after Elon College was established, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford built a home there and moved there to live. There their daughter (Mary) was educated. Mr. Crawford died there and was buried at Providence of which he was a member and a deacon for many years. He reared a large family at the above mentioned home, owning a large farm northeast of Graham—part of it in the corporate limits of the town.

After the marriage of the daughter, Mrs. Crawford went to Greensboro and made her home with her daughter till her death, several years after the death of Mr. Crawford.

Mr. Crawford was twice married. Seven of his sons, John, Fran, Walter, Preston, Baxter, Curry and Thelbert, went west, some locating in Tennessee and some in Texas. At least two, perhaps more, are known to be living—Preston, a druggist, at Dimmitt, Texas, and Curry, farmer and merchant, at Williston, Tenn. There are two other sons, Virgilus of Greensboro and Dr. Ed. A. of Mebane. Another daughter, Mrs. C. C. Cheek, lives at Sanford.

Henry C. Simpson was born and grew to manhood in Morton township, northwest Alamance. He was educated at Elon College. Afterwards he located in Greensboro and engaged in business there.

There are only a few persons now in this community who knew the Crawford family, all of them having moved away almost forty years ago, and this will serve to inform some that there was such a family, and to remind others about old acquaintances.

Mr. Edgar Long and Party Off On Extensive Western Trip.

Early Tuesday morning a party, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Long, Mr. and Mrs. W. Ernest Thompson and daughter, Sara Bell, and Miss Lila Bell, left by auto for an extensive Western trip which will cover a period of four to six weeks.

They are going by Asheville, thence to St. Louis, to Kansas City and to Denver, Colo. Along the route they will take a look at places of interest in city and country.

At Denver they will visit Mr. Long's cousin, Mrs. D. K. Wolfe, who is a daughter of Dr. Daniel Albright Long. Mrs. Wolfe was born in Graham, we believe, and spent her childhood here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe went to Denver for the health of their son, who is now a prominent lawyer of that city, and Mr. Wolfe is a department store merchant.

After spending a while in Denver, the party will visit the wonders of Yellow Stone National Park, a few hundred miles Northwest of Denver, in the State of Wyoming. If they should want to visit the land of the Mormons, Salt Lake City, they can do so by going west and from there north to the Park, or from the Park south to Salt Lake City.

By the way, Denver sounds a long way off, but it is only a little more than half way from here to the golden shores of California. These United States is a vast domain.

Maybe, they will want to look in on the divorce mill at Reno, Nev. That noted spot is a thousand miles almost due west of Denver and right near the California line.

Somewhere in the region of Reno they will enter California and tour southward, then eastward through Arizona and New Mexico into Texas, and somewhere on this lap, for a rarity, they will dip briefly into the land of the Aztecs. Back in Texas, still a long way off, they will plod homeward by the southern route, touching points of interest as they feel inclined.

We did not, in starting, purpose to map out their itinerary, and if we had so intended, it will be of little help to them, as they will know nothing of it until they get back home.

In conclusion, let us join with their friends in wishing them a most delightful trip and a safe return home.

Providence Memorial Exercises.

The 29th annual memorial exercises were held at Providence Sunday.

Early Sunday morning many came with a profusion of flowers and placed them on the graves of their loved ones. The cemetery had been put in neat condition for the occasion.

The exercises in the church consisted of appropriate songs by the local choir and others, and scripture reading.

At 11 o'clock Rev. Dr. J. Edward Kirby of Raleigh delivered a very entertaining memorial address to a large audience that filled the church.

After the morning exercises a delightful dinner was served on the grounds in picnic style.

A business meeting of the association was held in the afternoon, when the old officers, Junius H. Harden, president, Mrs. W. H. Holt, secretary, and McBride Holt, treasurer, were reelected.

Plans for another year were talked over in the meeting, looking to the identification of graves which appear to be unknown to most of the younger generation.

The cemetery is well kept and, if the unknown graves could be identified and marked, the interest in the cemetery would be greatly increased.

It was noted that a goodly number were present from other towns and communities, also that once familiar faces, now passed on, were missing.

It is the purpose of the association to so keep and care for the sacred spot that coming generations will return with increasing interest to the "silent city" where the ashes of their forebears repose.

County Court is still in session this afternoon.

Sam T. Johnston is making good progress on his new service station on the point where E. Harden street enters E. Elm street. He has moved the old garage across to a lot recently purchased on the east side of the street. This he will convert into another kind of building. The new station is of brick construction and will be modern in appearance and equipment. He has leased the station to the American Oil Co. for a term of years.
