

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes the acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water neutralizes instantly many times that much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go, get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made especially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name:

ONLY ONE OF THEM HAS RIGHT TO SMILE

It's hard to tell whether the turkey is showing fright, or whether that funny look is an attempted emulation of the broad smile his capturer is wearing. But if it is a smile it won't last long—Thanksgiving day is at hand.

Day's True Spirit Not Ourselves Alone, Is Thanksgiving Motto.

Grow fat along with me The best is yet to be, The last of life for which the first was made;

Stand pat, get fat, nor be afraid! Poor vaunt of life, indeed, Were Turk but made to feed On corn alone; to seek, to find and feast,

When feasting ends, to howl Is this the end of fowl? Irks care the crop-full bird? No doubt we'll soon be fleeced.

Rejoice we are allowed To grow and yet be proud To grace the festal board, be stuffed to burst, Be turned upon the spit Till we have browned a bit, Then eaten up one fell swoop, that's worst.

So take and eat thy Turk, Save carcass that may lurk Amid the gravy's lure; pick clean the bones. Next day, pray eat us cold, Then hash us in a mold. Soup comes at last, thanks be, to hush our moans!

—With Many Apologies to Browning.

Like the turkey and the epicureans, we are prone to eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die. We must have a particular day appointed in which to give thanks, lest we forget. We take so much for granted, accept all the good things of life without stopping to count our many blessings, or to name them one by one, as we were admonished in Sunday school so long ago.

We enjoy years and years of health, forgetting what a wonderful gift it is until illness lays us low. We accept our friends who strew our path with roses and cheer our way with kindness until one is gone, and we realize how much more we might have been to him. We think we love our children, but when they have all left the nest, how gladly would we have them back that we might show them how much more we could prove our love.

John's Mother Praises Doctor

There isn't a mother living who won't agree that no half-sick child should be the subject for an experiment with medicines of uncertain merit. When your child is bilious, headachy, half-sick, feverish, restless, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, you know that nine times out of ten it's a sign his little stomach and bowels need purging. And when you know that for over fifty years leading physicians have endorsed one preparation for this condition, there doesn't seem to be any reason for "trying" things.

Rich, fruity California Fig Syrup clears the little stomach and bowels gently, harmlessly and in a hurry. It regulates the bowels, gives tone and strength to them and to the stomach; and helps to give your child new strength, energy and vitality. Thousands of Western mothers praise it. Mrs. Joseph W. Hill, 4306 Bedford Ave., Omaha, Nebraska, says: "I'll never forget the doctor who got me to give my baby boy, John, California Fig Syrup. Nothing else seemed to help his weak bowels. That was when he was just a baby. He suffered a good deal before I gave him Fig Syrup, but it stopped his trouble quick. I have used it with him for colds and little upset spells ever since. I consider him a Fig Syrup boy."

Insist on the genuine article. See that the carton bears the word "California." Over four million bottles used a year.

POISON in Your bowels!

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels, cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The difference it will make in your feelings over night will prove its merit to you.

Dr. Caldwell studied constipation for over forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need to make their bowels help themselves. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the most popular laxative drugstore sell.

Ellen Meets Peggy's Brother

By RUTH ARNOLD

ELLEN BURKE, sitting in her chair in the pullman as the long train drew into the station at Philadelphia, tucked Peggy O'Connell's letter safely in her handbag. Ellen and Peggy had met on shipboard going to Europe a few months before with their respective parents, and had formed an enthusiastic friendship. This was helped along because Mr. and Mrs. Burke and Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell found each other congenial.

On the way home—for the Burkes and O'Connells had purposely returned to America by the same ship—Peggy had exacted a promise from Ellen to visit her as soon as she had unpacked her trunks. Ellen lived in a New York apartment. Peggy lived in a country house outside Philadelphia. And the two girls planned many good times in exchanged visits.

"As soon as you reach Broad street station," Peggy had written, "you telephone my brother John." And then she had given his telephone number and his office address. "He'll be expecting you, and will pick you up at the station and bring you out here in his car. As I've told you, I'm sure you and he are going to be crazy about each other."

Ellen had heard much from Peggy. In their many talks together that summer, about her brother John. And it must be admitted that part of her excitement at again seeing Peggy was that she would meet this paragon of a brother.

Ellen knew something of Philadelphia. And when there was some delay in getting John's office telephone, she realized that she was only a few steps from his office.

"I'll just pop around and wait there," she thought. "It will save him trouble, and I'm early. I'd rather wait there than here." So, carrying her small suitcase and matching hat box, Ellen walked the square or two to John O'Connell's office. She hesitatingly opened the door labeled "John O'Connell, lawyer," then she entered the small waiting room. The room was full of girls, girls about her own age, girls younger and girls a good deal older.

"I'll just wait here until Mr. O'Connell is free," she said to an office boy, who grinned in answer.

Ellen wore, of course, sheer, light silk stockings. She wore gray suede shoes, trimmed with bands of snake-skin. Her hat was of soft gray velvet, that was lovely above her fair hair and blue eyes. Her frock was of gray crepe de chine.

Just as she had taken in all her surroundings a door marked private opened, and a homely, thirty-year-old woman, dressed in blue serge, serviceable and plain, emerged.

Behind her came a young man. Ellen's heart skipped a beat. It was John—she knew from a photograph Peggy always carried with her. "You can all go now," he said to the other waiting girls. "The position is filled."

The other girls went out of the room. Ellen flushed and half smiled at John.

"What are you waiting for?" he asked crisply. "Here, come in here a minute."

"But," stammered Ellen, "I'm—" She followed him into his office. "I know, I know. But the job is filled. And just for your own good, let me tell you you'll never get the kind of job a nice girl like you wants if you dress in duds like those. Did you see that girl I hired? Plain and reliable. The kind of a woman a man likes to have around all day. Not ugly, but just not noticeable and sure to have her mind on something besides clothes. Now you—anybody'd know you were thinking more about your looks than your work—and that doesn't do in an office."

"Don't feel offended," said the young man. "I'm just trying to give a bit of advice."

"But you're so stupid," said Ellen, as the door marked "Private" closed. And she picked up her two pretty little gray bags and walked back to the station. There she boarded the next local train to Peggy's home and explained to Peggy, when she got there that she hadn't been able to get her brother on the telephone. So Peggy promptly telephoned her brother not to wait.

When Ellen and John met that evening, John's eyes were openly admiring. Ellen, in pink tulle, with bare arms and no hat, did not at first recall the vision of gray that had disturbed his office that afternoon.

It was not until the next day when she and Peggy had luncheon with him at a hotel that he recognized the again gray Ellen as his office visitor.

"Well, by jove," he said, in the middle of a mouthful of grapefruit, and he flushed and stammered more than Ellen had done the day before. "Why—what must you have thought?"

Ellen, by this time was sure that John was all that Peggy had claimed for him—and more—smiled shyly.

"Well, what I thought then—doesn't matter—any more than what you did, does it?" And then they both laughed and told Peggy the joke. And all three knew, though they said nothing of the knowledge, that Ellen and John, would laugh all their lives together over their first meeting.

Modern Girl Has Small Knowledge of Thimbles

Charley Chaplin, the world's funniest film star, is not credited with many amusing stories. His forte is pantomime. It is related, however, that he recently addressed a girls' industrial school on the fringe of the London slums and regaled them with bits of Hollywood life.

But Charley laid stress on the domestic ignorance of the average modern American girl, exclaiming: "Why, most of them don't know one end of a needle from another."

"I know a charming young lady who, on graduating from a celebrated 'finishing school' speedily got engaged and as the wedding day approached, was showered with gifts. Among them was a nest of gold thimbles. When she looked at the tiny
