

THE GLEANER

GRAHAM, N. C., JAN. 5, 1933.

Local News.

Graham School opened Monday and the county schools opened today.

There is a noticeable lengthening of the afternoons as the days grow longer.

"Flu" is quite prevalent in this community, but the type is not malignant.

Graham Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy holds its regular meeting with Mrs. Will E. White this afternoon.

The weather man forecasted six fair days for January—rather a gloomy outlook, and milder. We have had four of them and today is near-fair.

It is noticed that many passed here this morning headed for Raleigh to be present at the inauguration of Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus at high noon.

The policy holders of Alamance Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Association will have their annual meeting at 11 o'clock a. m., January 14th, at the court house in Graham.

Most of the young people who were at home from school for the Christmas holidays have returned to their tasks again. Some are detained for a few days on account of sickness and will return later.

The depression is reflected by a fall-off of about ten percent in the number of marriage licenses issued in this county, comparing 1932 with 1931, as appears from the records in the office of Register of Deeds J. G. Tingen.

Among the Sick

Mrs. Curtis Wyke who has been sick is much improved.

Miss Cora Emmaline Henderson is confined to her room with flu.

Mrs. J. E. Wicker and daughter, Jessie, are much improved from an attack of influenza.

County Commissioners in Session Tuesday.

The Board of County Commissioners was in session Tuesday for its regular monthly meeting and adjourned to meet again at 2:30 Friday afternoon.

Some matters of routine, not of much general interest, were attended to.

It is noted that the per diem of the members and the salary of attorney are to remain as heretofore—$8.00 per day and mileage for the members, except the all-time chairman at $3.00 0.00 per year, and the attorney at $500.00 per year.

A jury was drawn for the court term of the Superior Court which will convene on January 30th.

Billy Scott has returned to school at Rome, Ga.

Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson spent the week-end at Apex.

Miss Mabel Moore has returned to her school work in High Point.

Mrs. Minnie Floyd of Rock Hill, S. C., spent the holidays here with her sister, Mrs. Jerré Bacon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovick H. Kernodle and Lovick, Jr., of Danville visited relatives here last Saturday.

Graham Garden Club Pays Tribute to Mrs. Kernodle.

Graham Garden Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. Dolph Long. A short business session was held, after which the following paper was read:

ATRIBUTE TO MRS. J. D. KERNODLE
By Mrs. Don E. Spott

With saddened hearts over the vacant place in our midst, with overwhelming memories of her many lovely traits, we, her sorrowing friends, pause this afternoon to pay a loving tribute to her whom we loved and admired—Mrs. Kernodle.

Our little town was shocked and inexpressibly saddened early Christmas morning to hear that in the early morning hours, shortly before the light of dawn, the beautiful spirit of her whom we loved had quietly taken flight to her Eternal Home.

A sudden dropping of burdens,
A sudden ceasing to sigh,
A sudden hush of a dear, dear voice.

A sudden song on high,
Suddenly into the glory,
Suddenly face to face,
Suddenly past the mystic veil
Into the heavenly place.

A joyous Christmas morn dawned for her, Carols softly and gloriously rang must have welcomed that beloved and faithful one home, while we who loved her best stood with dimmed eyes and aching hearts in the loss of our dear friend.

And now we can only look back with deep thankfulness that it was given us to see the full beauty of this life that touched our own at so many points, enriched as it was by deep spirituality, a power of intense affection and interest in others, a purity of soul, absolute unselfishness and an adherence to truth that could not be shaken, to a refined and cultivated intellect.

A cheery, companionable disposition, were united a degree of delicacy and tact always noticeable. Gentleness, kindness and grace marked her manner. The strengthening influence of a sincere religious belief hallowed the natural loveliness of her character and made her place in our community a greatly esteemed one.

An earnest and willing helper in all the worthwhile activities of the town, consecrating her services cheerfully and willingly, she was particularly happy in this group where she added greatly to the success of its attainments. Her place was rarely vacant, a real lover of nature, she contributed to the club her experience and knowledge of flowers. We shall long remember her coming in with daintily arranged flowers—most often the violets, sweet peas, lilies-of-the-valley; roses were her selected favorites. Long before Garden Clubs were formed she spent many happy hours in her own little garden in appreciation of God's gift of flowers. She realized with Wordsworth—

"God made the flowers to be beautiful
The earth and cheer man's careful mood,
And he is happiest who has power
To gather wisdom from a flower."

Somewhere, not long ago, I was impressed by reading an answer to a query put to an official in the Catholic church—"Why do members of your church have images of saints in your cathedrals for worship?" He answered, by saying, that they did not worship the saint images or their pictures but used them in adorning the churches to inspire to greater spiritual development and to more sacrificial acts the members who worshipped there.

The priest asked—"Do we not have inspirational figures to every phase of our lives?" "In the Nation's life we have our Washington; his portraits hang in public buildings all over our country, urging others to climb to greater heights. The South has her Robert E. Lee. His likeness in the open places and in the private homes reveals a strength and beauty of character which tends to mold and help the youth of the country.

I think this is so true in every community—there are some persons who, because of their high character, their noble qualities, their unswerving principles for right and the true aim in the ordering of their lives, wield an influence and make a pattern for other lives around them. Most often these people go modestly, steadily on unconscious of the bearing they have on others—such a one, I believe, was the member of our club who has recently gone from us. For this one—for her goodness, her faithfulness and strength of character throughout her association with us we are deeply thankful and this afternoon mourn her loss. We shall miss her. We shall miss her warming smile, her gracious and refining presence. We shall miss the unflinching light of sympathy and good will so often offered us. But though we were led to give her up the sweet fragrance of a beautiful life lingers within always.

"They never quite leave us—
Our friends who have passed
Through the shadows of death
To the sunlight above;
A thousand sweet memories
Are holding them fast
To the places they blessed
With their presence and love."

Mr. and Mrs. Clapp Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 28, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. R. Clapp celebrated their golden wedding—the 50th anniversary of their marriage, and all these years they have lived in Alamance. Their home has been in Graham for around half of that time.

It is not given to many couples to live and strive together for a half century, but they are among the fortunate ones.

Present for the occasion were all the members of their family: Mr. and Mrs. Will Thompson and their three sons, William, Aubrey and Edwin Thompson, of Spencer, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shoffner of Burlington; Mr. John R. Owen, son-in-law of Baltimore; Miss Ida Clapp, and little grandson, John Owen, Jr., who lives with his grandparents.

At the home on N. Maple street the 50 or more guests gathered at 5 o'clock to celebrate the occasion and to wish Mr. and Mrs. Clapp many more years of happy life together.

The home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. In the hallway pretty ferns were used effectively, where Miss Ida Clapp, a daughter, attired in yellow satin, received the guests.

In the gift room, where Mrs. C. A. Thompson received and displayed many beautiful gifts, red carnations and poinsettias provided the decorations. In the living room, in addition to an illuminated Christmas tree, yellow roses were used elaborately. In the dining room the guests were seated to a table parliamentary arranged. Here all the decorations were in gold, harmonizing with the celebration of the golden wedding. At the head of the parliamentary-arranged table, an arch was constructed with a lighted golden background, covered with green trailing cedar, mottled with yellow narcissi, which made a beautiful celestial covering over the seats of the bride and bridegroom of 50 years past. A most beautiful wedding cake occupied a central place on the table, against a background of the bride and bridegroom and the decorated arch. The cake was made in three tiers, upon the uppermost one was mounted a miniature bride and bridegroom standing before a background of orange blossoms. Tall yellow tapers in crystal holders and bud vases of yellow narcissi extended the circuit of the table.

Aubrey C. Thompson, second grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clapp, was master of ceremonies during the evening while a delicious and tasty four-course dinner was served. During the first course of the dinner McBride Holt toasted the bride, who was charmingly robed in a gown of black chiffon combined with lace and wearing a shoulder-borsage of yellow and white rose buds and lilies of the valley. John R. Owens, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Clapp, addressed the occasion on "The Symbolism of a Golden Wedding." At the conclusion of the second course of the dinner H. W. Scott made a short talk complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Clapp on the celebration of their 50th anniversary. Mr. Scott also read several telegrams received during the evening congratulating the bride and bridegroom. At the beginning of the last course Dr. W. C. Goley made a short talk on the lives of the bride and bridegroom.

The celebrants and guests were entertained throughout the evening by Miss Louise Moore at the piano, playing many of the old favorites of Mr. and Mrs. Clapp.

Mrs. Chas. B. Irwin Dies in Fayetteville.

News was received here in the early afternoon of the death of Mrs. Chas. B. Irwin about one o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. Banks Williamson, in Fayetteville. She made her home here more than 15 years and had many devoted friends here who will be deeply grieved to learn of her passing. Her husband died here around fifteen years ago.

Only a few weeks ago, in the early part of December, Mrs. Irwin was at Duke hospital for treatment and sufficiently improved to return home. A number of her friends here visited her at the hospital.

Besides Mrs. Williamson there were two other daughters, Mrs. Crichton of Atlanta and Mrs. Post of East Orange, N. J., both of whom, we believe are still living. There are also several grandchildren.

Funeral services will take place in Fayetteville Saturday morning and the burial will be here in the afternoon beside her husband in Linwood cemetery.
