FORGIVING DEBTS

A merchant, W. H. Cole of Oldsboro, went about relieving oppression in a very practical way last week. He had been a business 17 years and had an accumulation of charge accounts aggregating $20,000. On Friday morning he started over on a cash basis with nothing due him on old accounts— he had marked all accounts paid a full. He could have collected half of it by law, but he referred good will and friendship to money. Notable among the items cancelled was an $800 mortgage owing by a man who had recently died. The widow of Mr. Cole said she did not see how she could pay him, and he replied that she did not owe him a cent.

Mr. Cole deserves being forgiven his debts as he has forgiven his debtors.

We read recently of another merchant and a faithful old doctor who did as Mr. Cole had done.

"It is more blessed to give—"

Representative J. W. Gilliam, Jr., of this county in the General Assembly has introduced a bill to restrict and curb obnoxious. If his bill passes, a locket will be prepared and the names of those employed as promoters or opponents of any proposed legislation will be entered therein. A penalty is provided to which those not of record are subject. Such an act would, perhaps, materially limit the number of those scheming for legislation favorable to themselves and putting the Legislature on notice. And, too, it may or should prevent log-rolling and procuring the passage of laws in a dark corner and of dubious import. If the act does not completely cover the situation, it should be amended to that end.

There are those in plenty who hope all the talk about reducing government expenses will come to naught—these are they who are receiving the bounty. It is not, we believe, in an unfriendly spirit that law making bodies in Washington or in the states and throughout the country, are clamoring for economy and the reduction of expenses, but simply because government costs have wiped out surpluses and depleted public treasuries. It is a stern reality that all governments, National, State, County and town, are face to face with a condition that demands, for the salvation and safety of the government, drastic reduction of government costs along all lines. These things are now uppermost in the minds of thinking people, for they know of a certainty that the tax-payer has gone to the limit in sacrifice to meet the demands for taxes.

Lock White of Sherrill's Ford traps the rats out of his meat house by covering the dirt floor with a layer of fine sand. As fast as the rodents dig holes into the house the sand fills the burrows. This plan works, says Mr. White.

Alamance county turkey growers sold over 100,000 pounds of birds at a price of 13 to 17 cents a pound during the recent holiday season.

Former president Calvin Coolidge was buried Saturday amid his native hills and the scenes of his childhood at Plymouth, Vermont, and the nation stopped to drop a tear and pay reverence at the funeral hour. His burial was without ostentation—as he had lived so were the last rites in keeping with his avoidance of pomp or show. His sincerity in life is a heritage that will be treasured by the country that honored him.

News Notes of Week on Alamance Farms.

By N. C. SHIVER, County Agent.

Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation at Raleigh Now Functioning

The office of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation at Raleigh is now open and is ready to serve the farmers. Of especial interest to the farmers of this county is the fact that loans can be made for the purpose of seeding pastures, poultry production, dairying. A brief outline of the nature of these loans is given below.

Eligible Borrowers: The classes eligible to loans are limited to experienced private farmers and stockmen, partnerships, and corporations engaged in the business of crop production, raising, breeding, or fattening livestock. Poultrymen, whose chief income is from the poultry production are classed as farmers.

General loan purposes and classes: These loans are for the purpose of defraying the cost of seed, fertilizer, and harvesting of crops, and for livestock breeder loans, feed lot loans and dairy purposes.

Poultry loans are largely for the production of broilers, and layers and maintenance of laying flocks.

General security requirements: All loans must be "fully and adequately secured". First crop liens, or liens on livestock and poultry together with chattel mortgages on personal property such as work stock, equipment, other livestock, and in some instances, other collateral.

Size, interest and maturity of loans: There is no limit set to the amount of loans. Interest at 5-12 percent annum and 1 percent per annum for covering certain costs. Crop loans are to mature at the approximate date of sale of crop, but in no case later than December 1st. Livestock loans for range or breeder purposes mature in one year, pasture loans one year, or earlier, if the stock is marketed earlier. Loans for feeder purposes are not longer than eight months. Loans for dairy purchases are for one year paid in monthly installments.

By special permission, loans for purposes other than feeder can be extended. Loans for producing broilers are not more than fourteen weeks, and are to be repaid as chickens are marketed. Loans for producing layers are for not more than nine months, with at least 40 percent to be repaid when chickens have reached the broiling age.

Applications will be made on forms: Can be secured from this office.

The procedure in submitting applications will be made as follows: Application will be made on forms supplied by this office and properly signed by the applicant and his wife and executed by a notary with signature and seal. The chattel mortgage and crop lien and note forms will be furnished by this office, will be made out and signed by the applicant and his wife and executed by a notary with signature and seal. These papers are made out in the county agent's office or by some other designated person. The application, mortgage and crop liens and note will be submitted to the local Advisory Committee for its recommendation and with their recommendation will be sent to this office. If in proper form and the request seems reasonable, the inspector for the territory will be asked to inspect the personal property covered in the mortgage and the farm and send his report to this office. The application will then be passed on by the loan Committee of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation. If approved, the papers will be sent to the local attorney for search of record, and if found to be in order, will be recorded and returned to Raleigh. The check will then be mailed to applicant or to the person who is designated by the borrower to receive it.

"Twenty Hints For Tobacco Growers"

1. Plant tobacco only on the best suited lands.
2. Use only those varieties which produce the largest yields of best quality tobacco.
3. Use fertilizers of the kinds and analyses that are best suited for the production of quality tobacco on the soils of each farm.
4. Use suitable crop rotations with the tobacco which are designed to supply the soils with moderate amounts of well rotted organic matter from non-leguminous plants and at the same time promote the growth of the highest quality tobacco.
5. So handle the crops and the soil that the crops will not be reduced in yield and quality from nutritional troubles.
6. Practice only the best cultural methods.
7. Space the crop in the field to best fit the soil and fertilizer treatment.
8. Harvest, cure and handle the crop in marketing to get the most for it.
9. Carefully field select and save seed for planting purposes from year to year.
10. Put in and handle the plant-beds so as to get strong healthy plants for transplanting.
11. Each grower should keep down his acreage of tobacco to what can be handled properly.
12. Select good soils, well protected, with a southeast exposure, for growing plants.
13. Fertilize the seed bed liberally. Scatter uniformly over it 30 pounds of wheat, rye or oat straw as soon as the bed is planted 100 square yds. and then cover with the best grade of canvas with 25x25 strand to the inch.
14. Seed one ounce of good reliable seed to 100 square yards of bed.
15. Care should be taken not to carry trash tobacco in the seed beds in any way.
16. Exercise great care in using only healthy, well graded plants in transplanting to the fields.
17. Space and top so as to encourage maximum yields of cigarette types.
18. Grade according to government grades before offering, on markets.
19. Grow enough food and feed crops for use of all people and livestock on the farm.
20. Require tenants to plant a garden and produce pork, poultry, potatoes, peas, etc., in sufficient quantities for home use.

Information Regarding Tobacco Blue Mold

1. There is not a satisfactory control measure known for blue mold.
2. Observational results indicate that certain practices may be worked to an advantage in obtaining plants despite the prevalence of the disease.
3. Since it is not known where or how the disease lives over from one year to another, it would seem advisable to select new plant bed site each year, and to burn or sterilize the plant beds.
4. Warm areas for plant beds apparently maintain conditions that favor the quickest and greatest recovery of plants.
5. The seeding of two or more plant beds at intervals of two to four weeks seems advisable as offering opportunity to escape serious infections in all beds at critical times.
6. Where growth is normal and plants do not need stimulation, nitrate applications, in addition to the regular applications of fertilizer, are not advised. However, where plants have been seriously injured by the disease, waterings, at four day intervals with two to three pounds of nitrate of soda in 50 gallons of water to the 100 square yards are advocated as a means for facilitating recovery. This application should be made early in the morning so that the water will dry quickly from the leaves.
7. Experience showed that in 1932 it was best to allow the diseased plants to recover in the beds before transplanting into the field.
8. Blue mold or downy mildew of tobacco is caused by a specific fungus that attacks the under sides of the leaves only.
9. This fungus is air borne and the spore seeds are readily carried from one bed to another and from one area to another by air currents.

10. Approximately ninety percent of the plant beds throughout the state showed blue mold infection in 1932. These beds were in a variety of locations and the plants were growing under many soil and climatic conditions. Despite these facts, the disease developed.

11. It is conceivable that various types of fertilizers were used throughout the state on these plant beds. There seemed to be no relationship between the kind and amount of fertilizer used and the development of the disease.

12. Bordeaux mixture could control the disease if it could be well sprayed on the under side of the leaf. However, many growers reported that Bordeaux mixture seriously injured the plants and for that reason, we hesitate to recommend its use.

Tobacco growers in Durham county will use the research results at the Tobacco Branch Station near Oxford in handling their crop this year, reports county agent W. I. Smith.

News of Whitsett.

Whitsett, N. C., Jan. 9th.

Rev. James Phipps delivered an interesting address on Sunday evening before the Christian Endeavor Society of this place, and numbers of visitors, on the topic "God's will as to human affairs." He spoke of God's revealing His will through Nature, through our experiences, and especially through the revelation of God as contained in the Bible. The address was followed by a special offering for the benefit of the Children's Home of Greensboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold L. Holt and son of Burlington were here yesterday with relatives.

W. T. Whitsett, Jr., returned this morning to McLeansville where he is a teacher of English and French in the McLeansville High School. Dr. and Mrs. Rex Sink who were married on Dec. 21th in New York City are making their home at 4000 N. Front street in Philadelphia. Both are natives of Winston S. and have been frequent visitors here. Dr. Sink is connected with a Philadelphia hospital this year as resident physician.

Jay Nuckols has entered school at Elon College for the Spring term. The teachers were all present for the re-opening of the Whitsett public school to-day after a vacation since Dec. 15th.
