OUR SOLONS IN RALEIGH

To keep up with, or even in sight of, the numerous things proposed for action upon in the Legislature, one must be swift-footed and alert. But you can wager your last "copper" that anything to affect in any way, adversely, this or that group will not escape the argus-eyed. Most of us are wide-awake enough to look after things of a personal interest.

One thing that has been talked about some, but without any crystallized proposal, is a consolidation of counties in the interest of economy. This is a chasm that will be hard to span. Such a thing might greatly reduce government expenses, but the inconvenience to the public would provide a sizeable item as an offset. Then, too, there is a sentiment that would be almost insurmountable.

There are other ways to effect economies than by county consolidation—we are not free of the sentiment for maintenance of our county units. County departments can be consolidated to work efficiently. Useless or unnecessary jobs can be eliminated; salaries can be pared down in keeping with present economic conditions. Thereby a saving to the taxpayers could be effected that would well nigh match any sort of county consolidation.

The Senate has passed a bill providing for transfer of a 11 county prisoners, whose terms are 30 days or more, to State highway camps. The upkeep of such will lessen the county load and increase the cost of the highway department.

The job of reorganizing the State government by combination and elimination of departments and commissions is a pretty big task and the Solons are in for a good deal of opposition, especially from those whose stipend will be interfered with.

The matrimonially inclined will not have to go out of the State now to escape the health certificate. The Legislature has wiped that off the slate, as well as the notice of the intention to apply for license. These will leave more of the fees at home and give less to the border states.

The "lame duck" amendment, the 20th, to the constitution of the United States was ratified by the General Assembly on Monday, making North Carolina the 36th State to ratify and at the same time provide the necessary three-fourths. Under this amendment henceforth, after March 4th, presidents will be inaugurated on January 20th and congressmen elected in November will take their seats on January 3rd.

The State's educational system is in for some drastic changes, that is, the administrative part of it. Economy is seen in doing away with county superintendents and boards of education in 100 counties whose expenses the State pays. Here a saving of near a half million is seen. In their place it is proposed to establish 30 districts to have charge of the schools.

Here's a rock wall the Legislature will have to scale, for the combination of educational heads is one of the strongest combines in the state, but the power is with the Legislature if it has the courage to use it.

The contest of George M. Pritchard, Republican, for the seat of Josiah W. Bailey for the U. S. Senate was dismissed by the Senate committee yesterday. Senator Bailey, according to the returns, was elected by an overwhelming majority, and no doubt there were some irregularities—few elections pass without some, but from the start there was not a ghost of a chance to turn up enough to oust Mr. Bailey. Mr. Pritchard must have had some other motive for filing his contest other than the hope of displacing Bailey. However, if there were other motives, they went glimmering with the results of the last November election, but he did get some notoriety.

To increase the volume of money as a help toward economic recovery, some propose starting the printing presses to make more paper money, otherwise to inflated the currency. Others propose coinage of silver. Of the two evils, if they are evils, we would take the limited coinage of silver, which would at least have the virtue of intrinsic value. Another element in favor of silver is that it would give silver mining a boost and help, to some extent, get away from unemployment.

Vicke Baum, a playwright and author of fiction, says "hard times" is a state of mind. True, no doubt, but it must have a start somewhere—a cause and an effect. Perhaps an empty purse is the cause and the effect hard times. This observation makes one wonder what effect the hard times has had on the sale of his products. If the sale has been slow he can charge it up to "a state of mind."

Col. Luke Lee and Luke, Jr., both sentenced to terms in the State's prison for their part in the Asheville bank wrecking, have failed to report to the court in Asheville. Accordingly a requisition has been sent to Tennessee for them, which they are resisting. Their bonds for $50,000 have been declared forfeited. This is their last stand, as the courts have ruled against them in every other move.

Major Edney Ridge of Greensboro is being urged by his friends for appointment as U. S. Marshal for the Middle District when the Democrats come into control. For eight years he was part owner and business manager of the Daily Record in Greensboro. He was a soldier in the Mexican border campaign under General Pershing, and served in France in the World War with distinction.

President-elect Roosevelt is spending a while at the "little whitehouse" at Warm Springs, Ga., and is incidentally holding numerous conferences to line up his official family and map out legislation that it is conceived will be helpful and necessary to keep the government on its feet and afford relief in these distressing times.

Former Senator F. M. Simmons passed his 79th mile post on the 20th (last Friday.) After serving 30 years in the U. S. Senate, he was defeated for re-nomination by Josiah William Bailey in 1930.

Last Thursday was Lee-Jackson Day, set apart to the memory of Generals Lee and Jackson, two of the most outstanding generals of any time or any country.

News of Whitsett.

Whitsett, N. C., Jan. 23, 1933. Rev. P. L. Shore and family were here yesterday for a visit with friends. He is now the pastor of the Methodist church at Proximity, having been placed in charge of this work after some time spent as pastor of the Belmont M. E. church in Charlotte.

Miss Emily Hinchshaw will be the leader for a session of the Whitsett Christian Endeavor society next Sunday evening when the topic of the work of the church will be under discussion.

Mrs. J. W. Taylor is confined to her room this week by an attack of influenza. Her son, L. Beamon Taylor, after a week's sickness is again able to be out.

Prof. J. H. Joyner spent Monday in Greensboro attending a session of court.

Several schools held sessions last Saturday to make up for time lost during the recent snow.

The members of the Friedens Missionary society are busy with preparations for their two study sessions to be held at 2 p. m. on Wednesday, the 25th, and Sunday, the 29th. They will complete the study of two books that are prescribed for the course in missions this year.

The balmy days for the past week have turned the attention of the farmers to preparation for the spring work, and some are already breaking land.

As the result of an automobile wreck on No. 10 highway just north of here last week, two persons were carried to the hospital, and one car was badly damaged.

L. T. Barber, a former county commissioner from this section, is now making his home at Palmetto, Florida.

Mrs. T. L. Fitzgerald who has been suffering for some time with an injured foot is still unable to be out, but has made some improvement during the past few weeks.

The thirty foot highway, No. 10, from here to Greensboro has been recently marked off into three driveways, making it much safer for automobiles. The center driveway is for cars wishing to pass others.

Friedens Lutheran church decided on last Sunday to make special contributions on each fifth Sunday for the benefit of the Lowman Home for the aged and infirm at White Rock, S. C. This is a home established some years ago for the special benefit of those of that denomination needing its care. Dr. W. P. Greever of Columbia, S. C., has been chairman of its board until his recent election as secretary of the church which will cause his early removal to New York city which is general headquarters of the church year. He succeeds the late Dr. M. G. B. Scherer as secretary.

The mail facilities have been improved so that now the Burlington News-Times is delivered here daily at 6 p. m., while the Raleigh dailies at same hour, while the Greensboro Daily News comes in as usual by truck at 5 a. m. This gives the place a fine service.

Edgewood tobacco growers will conduct field demonstrations with E. Y. Floyd, tobacco specialist at State College, during the coming season.
