DOING THINGS

President Roosevelt has accomplished much in the 20 days of his administration.

The banking situation was the first thing to be put in shape to prevent a collapse. That is being worked out. Banks in sound condition have been licensed to open and confidence, in large measure, has been restored.

Some of the State banks are not yet open. They, the same as the National banks, must be shown in sound condition before being licensed to open.

The act, giving the president authority to reduce Federal government expenditures a half billion dollars, is now law.

The beer bill was passed and will go into effect April 7th. It allows 3.2 percent alcoholic content. It is estimated that it will produce from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in government revenue, and help that much in balancing the budget.

The President and Congress are busy at work on the Farm Relief, Unemployment Relief and Refinancing Farm Mortgage bills. These are expected to be completed by the end of the week, or within a few days.

Congress has also extended relief to the California earthquake sufferers, and the Ohio river flood sufferers.

Mr. Roosevelt started his program for improving conditions the day he entered office and there has been no let-up. He has given the special session of Congress plenty to do and think about.

The Legislature has struggled for the past week with tax-raising, appropriations, salary and school bills. But these are still unfinished. There will be taxes, of course, likewise appropriations for government costs. Salaries will be reduced, it is certain. The State supported schools will have to get along on less, but instead of placing all the burden on the teachers, the overheads could be materially trimmed without impairing the efficiency of the schools. It will be well if the State can, under present conditions, hold the schools at what they now are until things improve.

The Legislature is running on over-time now—and paying its own expenses so far as the members are concerned. But it has not finished the needed legislation. It cannot afford to lay down on the job. State pride and personal pride will keep the members in Raleigh till they pass all necessary legislation—that's patriotism.

The trend of business, according to reports from the larger cities, is upward. That is encouraging. It would be a miracle if business became normal in a few weeks. It has a long hill to climb and it will take months for it to get back to a pre-war status. A steady, though slow, advance will keep the country in good heart.

Shipments of broccoli are going forward from Scotland county by express until the crop matures to the extent that the carlot shipments can be made.

Alamance County April Farm Calendar.

By N. C. SHIVER, County Agent.

Plant plenty of cotton seed to secure a good stand. Plant all crops, and especially cotton, on a well prepared and firm seed bed.

Disc and turn under all winter crops at least two to three weeks prior to expected planting date.

Plant plenty of feed crops, and summer legumes for summer soil improvement.

Harrow that rough field, once more before planting.

Plant enough viable seed per acre to insure a stand. If uncertain test for germination.

Horticulture

Sow onion seeds for growing sets, the latter part of this month.

Sow asparagus seeds for roots to be transplanted next fall.

Bed sweet potatoes early this month.

Fertilize fruit trees early if not already done, and start cultivation.

Apply first Bordeaux spray to bunch grapes before the buds open.

Spray plums, peaches and apples by authorized schedule.

Remember that for a good fall garden the seed of many of the vegetables will have to be sown in the spring.

To avoid injuring fruit trees, muzzle work animals and wrap trace chains.

Entomology

Begin spraying apples to control codling moth, and peaches to control curculio.

See that spray materials are on hand and that the machines are in working conditions.

Look forward to the boll weevil work you may need to do this summer. It is thoroughly proven that proper dust poisoning pays.

If aphids (or plant lice) become abundant in the garden and flower bed, use commercial tobacco preparations by directions on label or spray with one pound of tan dry soap dissolved in four gallons of water.

Spray Irish potatoes with poisoned Bordeaux mixture to control the bugs and reduce blight.

Transfer bees and condense where necessary.

Requeen any queenless colonies.

Plant cotton promptly when the season is right as an aid in control of boll weevil and cotton root aphid.

Animal Husbandry

Plant soybeans in late April for summer and fall grazing.

Castrate pigs when six to ten weeks old.

Treat sheep for stomach worms and apply tar to the nose to prevent grubs in the head.

Market the un-productive sows.

Clip horses and mules that have not shed their long hair. Prevent sore shoulders in horses and notes by having collars that fit properly.

Tag all sheep before shearing so that the wool will be cleaner.

Shear sheep if the weather is warm enough, and disinfect skin cut. Treat the flock for stomach worms.

Plant soybeans for summer grazing.

Dairying

See that the salt boxes in the pastures are kept well filled.

Continue to feed liberal grain rations to cows in milk especially. Fresh green grass is very watery and contains little food value.

Plant plenty of corn for ensilage and grain feed for next winter.

Set aside enough land to grow plenty of soybeans or peavine hay for winter use.

Keep cows off pasture the first two weeks in April, and thus allow them to get a good start.

See that all manure and rubbish are removed from the barnlots and from the premises. Flies will begin to breed rapidly now.

Remove cows from pastures infested with wild onions at least three hours before milking to prevent bad odors and flavors to milk and cream.

Poultry

Plant crops for green feed: oats, rye, barley, rape, lettuce or cabbage.

Treat flock for lice. Spray the house for mites. Provide clean houses, clean water, and clean feed for young chicks. Feed growing chicks liberally for rapid growth. Watch young chicks for coccidiosis. Use every egg possible at home. Cull the flock and weed out the non-producers.

Market the broilers early in April. Hatch light breeds such as Leghorns and anonas this month.

Remove roosters from the flock as soon as the hatching season is over.

Gather eggs often, keep in cool place, market at least twice each week. Watch for lice on young chicks if they are with the hens.

Fatten the broilers for market.

Agricultural Engineering

Purchase a two-horse cultivator now and use it all season.

See that planting and fertilizing machinery are adjusted so that fertilizer is properly distributed and seed planted to insure a good stand.

Investigate the Duplex hopper suitable for some planters to enable you to plant corn and beans at the same time.

Disc the land before you plow it wherever there is any danger that the land will break up cloddy or wherever there is any considerable amount of green stuff on the ground.

Keep a sharp plowshare. It is a sinful waste of time and horse-ash to plow with a share after it is worn out.

Follow the plow at once with a harrow. One harrowing of fresh plowed ground may be worth two or three after the soil has dried out.

Whitsett, March 13, 1933.

The Whitsett P-T association met in regular session on Wednesday evening in the school auditorium with the largest crowd of the year present. The topic for the meeting was music in the school, and a number of most excellent musical selections were given by the various grades of the school under the direction of the principal, J. In the business meeting that followed the exercise, several matters, looking to the progress of the school, were discussed by several of the patrons who were present.
