PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT made a hurried trip to Chicago and delivered a stirring speech at the opening session of the American Legion convention. Wildly cheered by vast throngs of citizens on his arrival in the city the President sped to the Stadium and before 30,000 veterans made his appeal for full support of his efforts to bring about national recovery, and for national unity to ensure national safety and credit, Mr. Roose

President Roosevelt velt said in part: "Industry cannot be restored, people eannot be put back to work, banks cannot be kept open, human suffering cannot be cared for, if the government itself is bankrupt. We realize now that the great human values, not for you alone, but for all American citizens, rest upon the unimpaired credit of the United States.

"It was because of this that we undertook to take the national treasury out of the red and put it into the black. And in the doing of it we laid down two principles which directly affected benefits to veterans-to you, and to the veterans of other wars.

"The first principle, following inevitably from the obligation of citizens to bear arms, is that the government has a responsibility for and toward those who suffered injury or contracted disease while serving in its

"The second principle is that no person, because he wore a uniform, must thereafter be placed in a special class of beneficiaries over and above all other citizens. The fact of wearing a uniform does not mean that he can demand from the government a benefit which no other citizen receives. It does not mean that because a person served in the defense of his country, performed a basic obligation of citizenship, he should receive a pension from his government because of a disability incurred after his service had terminated, and not connected with

"It does mean, however, that those who were injured in or as a result of their service, are entitled to receive adequate and generous compensation for their disabilities. It does mean that generous care shall be extended to the dependents of those who died in or as a result of service to their

"To carry out these principles, the people of this country can and will pay in taxes the sums which it is necessary to raise. To carry out these principles will not bankrupt your government nor throw its bookkeeping into the red."

In closing the President said: "You who wore the uniform, you who served, you who took the oath of allegiance to the American Legion, you who support the ideals of American citizenship, I have called to the colors again. As your commander in chief and your comrade, I am confident that you will respond."

ON HIS way to Chicago President Roosevelt came to final decision as to direct federal aid for the jobless during the coming winter, assuming that the plan would be speedily worked in co-operation with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and George Peek, agricultural adjustment administrator. The acpractically establish the dole in the United States. The Immediate object of course is to avert suffering.

But the plan has the secondary purpose of the utilization of the great surpluses of food, fuel and clothing. These things will be purchased by the government with the $330,000,000 of the public works fund not yet allocated, and congress will be asked to appropriate more if necessary. The announcement by Stephen Early, the President's secretary, said

"The President announced he has Instructed Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, to take the leaderthip in prompt organization of a nonprofit corporation, of which Mr. Hopkins is to become chairman, for the purpose of buying the necessities of life and distributing them among the beedy unemployed. . . . "In order to assure speed and effec-

the officers were killed and 17 wounded, which probably was an underesti-mate. The losses among the soldiers were officially stated to be 9 killed and 27 wounded. Correspondents said the total dead in the day's fighting numbered at least 44. Among the non-con-testants killed was Robert Lotspeich, an American, assistant manager in Havana for Swift & Co. When the hotel which is owned and managed by Americans, was practically wrecked by shell fire, the officers surrendered. As they emerged under a white flag, unarmed and under guard of soldiers, they were again attacked and a number of them massacred. Apartment buildings near the hotel, in which many Americans resided, were frequently hit by machine gun bullets and shells from the Cuban cruiser Pa-

INTENT on gaining from the NRA the greatest possible advantage for organized labor, the American Federation of Labor opened its annual convention in Washington. In a prelim-inary statement President Green said that since the enactment of the national recovery act the federation had increased its membership by 1,600,-000, the total being now approximately 4.000,000

Nailed to the masthead of the federation, Mr. Green said, is the slogan: "Organize the unorganized in the mass production industries," with a membership of 10,000,000 as the next goal, and after that 25,000,000, "which will bring the majority of Americans genuinely and actually within the trade union family."

Among the important pronounce ments of policy and recommendations for action placed before the delegates by the executive council were: 1. The 30-hour week of five days' work, six hours a day. 2. Increase of minimum wages provided in the codes.

3. Increase of wages for skilled workers, as well as unskilled. 4. Representation of labor in every stage of code making. 5. Public works must be speeded up to supply masses of the idle. 6. Congress, upon convening, must provide adequate relief appropriations.

SAFETY FIRST AND COMFORT NEXT

F ANYONE should ask Jerry Musk-I rat how to build a house the advice he would give would be something like this: "Build it for safety first and comfort next." There isn't one of the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest but will say that this is the best of good advice. Even Peter Rabbit will say so, though as everybody knows he doesn't live up to it. If safety means hard work Peter will take a chance with danger every time. Even when his own con fort is concerned Peter will avoid the work if possible. Isn't it funny how lazy and shortsighted some people

But Jerry Muskrat isn't one of these. Oh, my, no. No, indeed. When he dug those tunnels from the cellar of his house down under water over to the bank and to the deepest part of the Smiling Pool he was thinking of safety and preparing for it. And safety was his first thought as he built the walls above water. He knew that when Jack Frost should come and cover the Smiling Pond with ice it would be an easy matter for Old Man Coyote and Reddy and Granny Fox to get to his house. If the walls were thin and poorly made they might be torn open. Then, too, the cold might creep through and freeze him. For some reason, just why he didn't know he had a feeling that the coming win ter was going to be extra cold.

So Jerry made those walls extra thick. He chose the stoutest cattails and rushes he could find and dug up the biggest roots he could manage. He went a little way up the Laughing Brook for sticks. All these things he towed across the Smiling Pool to the new house and worked into the walls, He dug up mud and worked it in with the rushes and cattalls and sticks in a way that only he and Paddy the Peter Rabbit, watching from the bank, turned up his nose. "It is nothing but a pile of rubbish," said he. In truth Peter wasn't to be blamed for saying so. That is what it looked like-just a great pile of rubbish. What Peter couldn't see was that in the center of it was a nice big roomy chamber, one big enough for Jerry and two or three friends to sleep in in comfort. Not only this, but it was high enough to be dry even though the water should rise quite a lot in the Smiling Pool. And this nice dry chamber connected with the water cellar beneath, from which led tunnels to the bank and to deep water.

So, while in his tunnels and thick walls Jerry was looking out for safety, in the nice, big, dry bedroom he was looking out for comfort. If he couldn't have had the safety with the comfort he would have chosen the safety. But as long as he could have both he intended to have both.

Higher rose the walls and presently the bedroom was roofed over. As had been the case in the old house, tiny spaces were left for fresh air to come in and bad air to go out. No one knows better than Jerry how necessary fresh air is, no matter how cold the weather. So he took care not to seal the top of his roof with mud, that the air might pass through. Many nights Jerry worked and when at last he laid the last stick and the last bulrush in place he felt that his new

GRAPHIC GOLF

FLAT LIE PREVENTS TILTING WRISTS

S TEWART MAIDEN, who piloted Bobby Jones along the paths of golf skill and is one of the foremost instructors of the present day, lieves that the club with the flat lie is an easier club than the upright to play. His reason is that the player can thus address the ball with the hands in a natural position and a straight left arm. With the upright suitable position for the clubbead This position is almost impossible to maintain on the downward sweep of the clubhead with any degree of exactness and power. Naturally the ile to use is that which the player can most easily adapt himself to. In the majority of cases and particularly for the player of average height or less, the flatter lie will be found more suitable. 6. 1933. Bell Syndicate.-WNU Service
