GOLD.

A new high-water mark for newly mined gold registered $32.26 per ounce yesterday—the highest the world over. What Mr. Roosevelt proposes to do with the gold, buying and permitting none to leave the country, does not yet appear. He may be keeping his plans well under his own hat. If buying continues, it would be an easy matter and safe to return to the gold standard with plenty of the precious metal to back a vastly larger issue of currency.

The buying of gold has had the effect of stimulating gold mining, and it is reported that Alaska has more than fifteen million dollars' worth to market. The price in London is trailing pretty closely the American price, and the advance should have the effect of helping mining the world-over.

The price of gold has also had some effect on silver which is showing a slight advance in price, one to 1 1-2 cents per oz.

But why should the country buy gold with money gathered from the sale of interest-bearing bonds and hoard it?

"Our platform," says advertiser in a magazine that comes to our desk, "has this plank in it—Do unto others as you would have others do unto you. We strive to give better value because we like to get it when we buy anything.

Promptness pleases us—so why shouldn't it you?

We quote 'right' prices to you because—well, if circumstances were reversed, we'd like to know the price was 'right'.

Golden Rule methods pay you—they pay us."

The above is just an enlargement on the Golden Rule and is sound teaching. Its application to business and every day living would help everyone and hurt none.

Greek judge refuses to extradite Samuel Insull, Chicago industrial racketeer, not convinced that Insull had committed a crime. No crime to defraud, cheat and steal millions! In the light of the judge's ruling, Greece may become the rendezvous for the class to which Insull belongs, and a little later, if they pursued the Insull methods, the Greeks would be without a country.

Henry Ford is still dallying with NRA. He has partially complied with the code, but not to the extent of entitling him to display the Blue Eagle. It is charity to hope that he will see the error of his way and finally turn in full fledged. But it is a sorry display of citizen loyalty to not help put the country squarely on its feet when there is nothing to lose.

The farmers strike in the West is still on, but not so rampant as a few days ago. The farmer is the country's most conservative element, but that is not a reason for imposing on him. He is bearing and forbearing and yields readily to decent treatment. If the gamblers will permit him to make a margin on his outlay he will take it almost uncomplainingly.

ELECTION NEXT TUESDAY

On next Tuesday the citizens of North Carolina will hold a referendum election on the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, commonly called the Prohibition amendment.

Repealists and anti-repealists have been very active during the past ten days or more and will continue so till the sun sets next Tuesday.

While it seems a foregone conclusion that enough states will vote for repeal to change the constitution—33 states have voted without a break for repeal, lacking only three of the fifteen yet to vote to make repeal effective, the anti-repealists in this State are nursing the hope that North Carolina will not follow the other thirty-three. This is possible, but not probable.

The sentiment for repeal throughout the country, as indicated by the votes taken, is overwhelming. The Amendment has never been popular. It was a "noble experiment," but the country at large, regardless of political affiliations, feel that it has failed to measure up to expectations with no improvement hoped for.

After it is over with the states will manage it for themselves, and the way will be open for a temperance work that many expected to be done by the Government.

A high official of the Russian Soviet government is on his way to America to talk over with President Roosevelt about the recognition of his government. There will be terms, no doubt; not just opening the door and walking in in a free and easy way. There are records in Washington of loans of some twenty millions to Russia during the World War which the Soviet government repudiated. May be, and it would not be an impropriety, Mr. Roosevelt will call this to the attention of the Russian government representative. An adjustment of that little balance in some way would make Russia look better to America.

Federal internal revenue receipts in North Carolina for the four months period beginning July 1st, this year, are $12,213.45 more than for the same period last year. October receipts alone aggregated $19,215,079.46, which is an increase of $4,650,818.10 over the same month last year. Here is another substantial indication of improvement in business conditions. Slowly, but surely, the country is rising from the depression in spite of the doubting Thomases.
