—A group of Alamance 4-H club members left Monday for a week's encampment at Swannanoa. Miss Anne Benson Priest, home demonstration agent, accompanied them. The party numbered about twenty-five.

—Ed. R. Hanford, the runner-up in the primary for Representative in the legislature, has asked for a second primary, to be held on July 4th. Staley Cook, who received the highest vote in the June 6th primary, will fight the battle over again.

—It's been nearly twenty years since the youth of America answered the "call to arms". Most of them are now past 40; not old, but time has left its imprint. If you see one of them stepping a little quicker, a little more erect, and with a pleased expression on his face, a guess that he has a "Baby Bond" in his pocket won't be wide of the mark.

—In an effort to get some quick-growing corn for Alamance farmers, who were unable to plant on account of early spring and summer weather conditions, County Agent N. C. Shiver has written to South Dakota for seed corn. It is claimed that corn from South Dakota, where the season is short compared with the season in this latitude, will mature here if not planted later than July 10th or 15th with a favorable season. If he succeeds in getting it it will be a boon to those who are short on their plantings. If Irish potatoes planted about the same time make a crop of fall potatoes, there is every reason to believe that corn will do likewise under favorable conditions. It has been tried in a limited way with favorable results.

County Court Next Monday.

There has been no county court since the 13th of April, when the late Judge W. H. Carroll held his last court, no one having been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Carroll.

On last Monday at an adjourned meeting the County Commissioners elected Hon. Cooper A. Hall to fill the vacancy, and it is learned that the court will convene next Monday with the new judge presiding.

It is learned from the Clerk's office that there are as many as 125 cases now on the docket to be disposed of when the Court convenes.

Home Should be Wired Only by Competent Men

Adequate, safe, and convenient wiring of the farm home is considered one of the most important aspects of the rural electrification program.

To be sure that the wiring is done properly, said Miss Pauline Gordon, extension specialist in home management at State College, employ only contractors known to be reliable and competent.

The contractor is responsible for doing the job so that the wiring will be adequate and safe, but the home owner should determine where switches, lights, convenient outlets, and branch circuits are to be located.

Miss Gordon suggests that home owners draw floor plans of their houses and locate switches, outlets, and lights where they will be most convenient. Then go over this plan with the contractor.

If the cost of wiring according to this plan is too high, the contractor will assist the home owner in making adjustments.

Above all else, she warned, do not try to economize by using wire too small to carry the load that will be imposed upon it.

In planning the wiring circuits, lights, and outlets, take into consideration the uses to which electricity will be put in each room. If a radio for example, is to be operated, provide a convenient outlet in the wall close to the place where the radio will be located.

Do not plan only for the fixtures and appliances that will be used at first. Make adequate provision for various devices that may be obtained in the future, Miss Gordon urged.

Plenty of convenience outlets should be placed in the walls of the dining room, living room, and kitchen. A double convenience outlet placed in each wall of the bedrooms will be a big help.

Confederate Pensions; Semi-Annual Payments.

Clerk of Court E. H. Murray has received and is delivering Confederate pension vouchers this week.

The number of old soldiers has been reduced to three, John H. Euliss, J. S. Gibson and Alfred L. Newlin. These receive $365 per year. The payment is made in semi-annual installments. The "unpleasantness" between the North and the South ended on the 9th of April, 1865, 71 years ago. These three veterans were young men then.

There are ten Class A widows who receive $300 per year, paid in two installments. Also there are 34 Class B widows who receive $100 per year, paid in two installments.

There were two colored pensioners, servants who went through the war, namely, Will Liggins, Buck Parker, both of whom, by unusual coincidence, died on the 18th of May.

HOLC Ends Activities; Saved 1,016,142 Homes.

In accordance with the provisions of the Home Owners Loan Act of 1933, the refunding of distress mortgages of the HOLC ended at midnight June 12, three years from the date the act was signed by President Roosevelt. No more loans will be made by the organization.

Up to May 28, HOLC had closed 1,016,142 loans on urban homes throughout the country to a total of $3,081,893,559 and practically every eligible application for relief received was completed as a loan. The original past-due mortgages of the borrowers were taken up by the Corporation through exchange of its bonds with the former mortgage holders.

Except for the first 290,000 borrowers, whose loans cover a period of 12 years, the remaining 726,000 loans, under the act as amended, extend over a 15-year term, repayable at the rate of $7.91 monthly per thousand dollars, including principal and interest at 5 percent. This amounts to $24 per month on the average loan, which was $3,023. The long term and low rate makes these loans the most liberal and convenient ever granted to home owners up to the time the HOLC began its activities. HOLC mortgages give the borrowers an annual saving of 60 million dollars in the reduction from the interest rates they had paid on the loans taken over and in the elimination of renewal charges.

Under the pressure of acute need HOLC stopped the wave of home foreclosures which had reached the record of 1,000 daily when the Roosevelt administration took charge.

Sudan Grass and Millet Yield Summer Hay Crops

Thousands of North Carolina farmers face a serious shortage of grazing and early hay crops this summer as a result of the hot, dry weather this year.

However, if the drought is broken any time soon the situation can be remedied by planting rapid growing hay crops, said P. H. Kime, plant breeding agronomist.

Sudan grass and millet grow rapidly and are usually ready to cut in 45 to 60 days after planting. They give good yields of palatable hay, and will grow on a wide range of soil types, Kime pointed out.

Sudan grass, best adapted to loam or sandy loam soils, should be seeded at the rate of 25 to 40 pounds per acre, drilled in or broadcast, and covered to a depth of one-half to one inch. The amount of seed to use depends on the fertility of the soil.

When the seed heads begin to show, the grass is ready to cut. The hay will be tender, leafy, and nutritious, and will cure easily.

German millet, or Golden millet, gives larger yields than the other varieties, but the hay is rather coarse. It requires a fertile soil and plenty of moisture.

Common millet is more hardy than German millet, although it produces a smaller growth. It makes a better quality hay, and is more suitable for thin, dry soils.

Millet should be seeded like Sudan grass. When the heads are about one-fourth out of the "boots," about 50 to 60 days after planting, it is ready for cutting. Unless mixed with other hay millet should not be fed continuously to work animals.

Apparently this is one year when side applications of nitrate of soda should pay well on cotton and corn, say farmers who have suffered from continued dry weather.

Timely Farm Questions Answered At State College

QUESTION—Is it economical to carry pullets to the hen year for production purposes only?

ANSWER—This question naturally reverts back to the breeding of the birds. Heavy producing pullets of good breeding can be carried over, but all except the known heavy producers should be replaced by pullets. As a usual thing, hen year production is about 25 per cent less than that of the pullet year and the bird must also be fed through a three months moulting period which makes it unprofitable to carry any but the heavy egg producers to the hen year.

QUESTION—When should I begin feeding grain to my young calves?

ANSWER—Small amounts of both grain and hay should be offered the calf at about two weeks of age or when the change from whole milk to skim-milk is made. Only a small handful is given daily, but this amount can be gradually increased as the calf grows older until it is receiving around three pounds a day at six months of age. Feed only as much as the calf will clean up. The grain should be fed just after the milk and while the calf is still fastened to the stanchion.

QUESTION—What is the best control for tobacco bud worm damage?

ANSWER—The application of poisoned corn meal bait is the best medium for controlling this damage which is caused by the corn ear worm. One pound of arsenate of lead thoroughly mixed with 50 pounds of corn meal and applied at the rate of one peck, or twelve pounds to the acre will give satisfactory results. The applications should be made early in the morning when the tobacco bud is open. A small pinch of the poison should be dropped in the center of the bud. Begin applications about ten days after the plants are set and repeat every week or ten days until the plants are topped.
