Clean System Clear Skin
You must be free from constipation to have a good, clear complexion. If not eliminated, the wastes of digestion produce poisons and the skin must do more than its share in helping to get rid of them.
So for a clear, healthy skin, remember the importance of bowel regularity. At the first sign of constipation, take Black-Draught—the purely vegetable laxative. It brings such refreshing relief, and tends to leave the bowels acting regularly until some future disturbance interferes.

Scotland Once Led in Witch Burning

Palm Given to Northland in Revived Discussion.

London.—Although several antiquarians have presented evidence in London papers giving the American colonies a clean bill of health in regard to repeated accusations that alleged witches were once actually burned there, a mooted question still remains and its discussion has mounted to fever attitude: What part of the United Kingdom was most culpable in this respect, England, Wales, Ireland or Scotland?

Scientific opinion is making out a good case for Scotland, with a record of 4,000 executions, although one writer declares that strangulation (worryit), and not fire, was used as a means of exit at the stake. Another writer, however, while admitting that strangulation was sometimes used, declares that the stake with fire was a much more popular form of execution, and he writes: "Rev. Dr. Lauchlan MacLean Watt, Glasgow, tells that in 1658 a warlock, duly condemned, was 'worryit' (strangled) at the stake on the Castlehill of Edinburgh. But in that same year four women were burned to death in the same place, all confessing their covenant with hell, while presently nine witches from Tranent all went the same way, with confessions in their mouths.

School Master Done to Death.
"Then there was the noted case of Dr. Fian, school master, Salt pans, 1591, who was first strangled, then 'put into a great fire' and burned on the Castlehill of Edinburgh.

"Or we may take what is known as the whitest representation of a witch trial in the English language—the sketch, 'The Devil to Pay' in the 'Table Talk of Shirley,' by Skelton. There the minister of Cudestone declared that the witch on trial had no title to be burned alive. She was not, he said, a first-class witch. She must be 'worryit' first. But even there, out of ten old women, although two were strangled, eight were burned to death.

"From the official records—and many are available—it is clear that of the 4,000 so-called witches burned in Scotland only a fraction underwent the minor horrible death by strangulation before the burning at the stake.

"But I shall confine myself to the case of Aberdeen, a dreadful example, where the records are clear and full, and where, in 1596-97 alone, 22 women and 1 man were burned to death. Says Kennedy, the annalist: 'They were, of course, condemned to the flames, and in order to make a due impression on the minds of the people their sufferings took place at short intervals at the Castlehill.'

Last Execution in 1722.
"These shocking occurrences went on in Aberdeen well into the Seventeenth century, although the last person to be tried by a lord of justiciary was brought up at Dumfries Circuit court as late as 1709 and the very last person to undergo trial for witchcraft in Scotland was an old woman who was brought before the deputy sheriff of Sutherland and condemned, at Dornoch, in 1722.

"Not everybody in Scotland was pleased by the cessation of witch burning, and the repeal of the statute of King James authorizing the same, 1735.

"In 1743 the Associate Presbytery of Scotland—the noted Erskine Seceders from the Church of Scotland—declared that 'the penal statutes against witches have been repealed by Parliament contrary to the express law of God'; and more singularly, even in 1815 Rev. James Paterson, M. A., minister of the Associate Congregation of the upland parish of Midmar, Aberdeenshire, felt it necessary to issue a pamphlet, 'A Belief in Witchcraft Unsupported by Scripture.' It was printed by Chalmers, of The (still existing) Aberdeen Journal, a strange production, very rare, but an item in the local collection of this library."

The tourist motoring in Ohio will have his attention frequently directed to a sign attached to the rear of a large truck and bearing this inscription: "Blow your horn — the road is yours." The truck is owned by one of the large oil companies in Ohio, and the driver has been instructed to turn to the right the moment he hears the horn of an approaching car. "The road is yours." One seldom sees a finer expression of courtesy. Courtesy seems sadly lacking on many of the highways we travel. A driver will frequently park in a position that leaves little or no room for the car in the front or the rear to move out. "Just so I have room" is the common practice. Consideration for the safety of the public is of little concern, so long as one keeps within the law. Scores of automobile accidents can be attributed to lack of courtesy—which is simply a lack of respectful consideration of others. More courtesy on our highways will mean less accidents. "Be courteous" is a good motto to hang on the dash board of every car.

Courtesy may express itself in respectful consideration of others, no matter what the surroundings may be. In one large store in a prosperous section of a certain city the men remove their hats in the elevator when ladies are present. In another store less favorably located in the same city, the removal of hats is tabooed. Why this discrimination? Is not a lady always a lady regardless of the particular elevator in which she rides? The principle of courtesy should hold true and prompt a man to rise when a lady enters the room, whether the room be palatial or humble. Is courtesy dependent upon prosperity or poverty for its expression?

How much of the courtesy in our daily contacts is real; how much is artificial and conventional? The answer to this question reveals both true and false courtesy in nations as well as in individuals. Courtesy between nations is of paramount importance in producing mutual understanding and good will. Its natural use expresses a hopeful esteem for others and a fundamental regard for the opinions of others. Courtesy is the conscience of diplomacy and the covenant of perpetual peace. The gift of the Statue of Liberty by France was an act of sublime courtesy. The same element was entirely forsaken when nations fought with nations in the last great war. Let us have more of the kindly spirit of courtesy in our international relationships.

Courtesy is not dependent upon education or inherited culture. It is a matter of self-discipline and innate development.

Loghouse Quilting Fashions This Cherished Coverlet.

THE name American patchwork was given by the English to a certain type of piece patchwork evidently originated on this continent. It is a name unfamiliar to most Americans, although credit for the beautiful work is given to the women in the United States and Canada. American patchwork found its way from this continent to England in the latter quarter of the last century, somewhere about 1875 or 1880. In Great Britain it was attributed equally to the United States and Canada, both countries being in America, and there being an uncertainty about just which section was responsible for the distinctive patchwork.

The name of loghouse quilting was given the design abroad. It has an odd sound to us for log homes are termed log cabins in America. Here the pattern has been known through the century as the log cabin pattern, but the name loghouse quilting has a fascinating ring to it. The patchwork was, and is, one of the hand-somest types of all. Its special feature was its use of ribbons for patches and also silk and satin (and sometimes velvet) cut into strips of ribbon widths.

The strips are positioned in ever-widening rows about a small square or one of the materials. In each row strips overlap one another. Ends are straight, that is they are not dovetailed or mitered. The ribbon-like strips can be sewed to a foundation square or be seamed together. In the old work the ribbons were sewed to a foundation, with a square of silk sewed on the exact center of the foundation square. After this the rows were set in order about it. Edges slightly overlapped so no lining was visible. The method of arrangement of colors is definite. One diagonal half of a square is of dark colored pieces, the other of light ones. When squares are sewed together dark comes against dark and light against light, producing a fascinating sequence of ever widening squares of light and dark. When colors are artistically combined, the quilt with its rich materials is superb.

Uncle Phil Says:

Where He Wants to Be
A man generally shuns an invitation. Why? Simply because accepting, knocks him out of the dull, stupid rut he is always complaining of.
The man who has affection for you may be under an illusion, but, oh, let it never be dispelled. I slept, and dreamed that life was Beauty; I awoke, and found that life was Duty.

Can't Fool 'Em
Don't argue to young people that the world is all wrong. They know better.
Strong, solid unbreakable friendship is the greatest thing in life. It's rare.
Two great talkers will not travel far together.
A chronic knocker is angry when everybody agrees with him and he has to dry up.

Little at a Time
Everything is to be accomplished bit by bit.
Civilization as it develops, becomes more intellectual, but it must not forget to consult the human heart.
A word to the wise may be sufficient, but the wise frequently ask for further enlightenment.
Two perfectly useless complaints are of the weather and the fashions. Both are inexorable.
