Ingenious Nawab

About 30 years ago in Rajkot, India, the Nawab of Junagadh held a reception during which, for the first time, he never moved from his throne. The guests were suspicious, yet he constantly smiled at them and seemed to be enjoying himself. And he was. He was asleep. Having had too much opium before the reception, he had had his court artist paint a gay, happy smile on his face so he could be present and still take his much - needed nap. - Collier's

In fields but lately seared by summer's drought, Where famine seemed to lay its withering hand, A miracle has come to still our doubt And spread a glad Thanksgiving through the land.

Unseen beneath the drab brown coat she wore, The soil grew rich to nurture other seeds. Then autumn rains released the hidden store In verdant growths, to fill our winter needs.

So, God of Wisdom, may we learn to build In quiet faith, through even darkest days; Assured our destiny will be fulfilled Through Thy inscrutable and wondrous ways.

Dwight Pennington, in Kansas City Times

HREE times a year, at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, the people of the United States advance upon a certain huge golden bronze fowl, cut its throat, strip it of its plumage and convert it into a savory dish which fairly makes the old table groan under the extra burden. Since we have raised this bird into a national significance which parallels to an almost equal degree that of the eagle, symbol of the govern-ment itself, it has a special interest to all Americans. Although many folks may still be "as poor as Job's turkey," says a writer in Pathfinder cannot afford it.

In years gone by those families who could not afford turkey turned to chicken, duck, beef, rabbit, or

Thanksgiving, whether they can or even pork and were glad to get it. But now let's get back to the question of why we have or try to have or would like to have or imagine we would like to have turkey for Thanksgiving dinner. The answer of course is that the turkey is strictly an American bird and serving it at feasts of thanksgiving is an old and ancient American custom. Some authorities will tell you that we eat turkey on Thanks-giving day because after the first harvest in the fall of 1621 the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth set aside a period for feasting and offering thanks. To provide food for this feast hunters were sent out by Governor Bradford and they returned with a large supply of game. Hos-pitality was extended to the Indians, 91 of whom attended the festival which lasted for three days. Conspicuous among the game on the tables were numerous wild turkeys, then common in the woods of Mas-sachusetts. From this circumstance, they say, arose the popular association of these birds with thanksgiving days.

This of course is the true origin of the custom so far as white man has been concerned with it. But the origin of turkey fearts goes back much farther. The millions of families who plan on enjoying hearty Thanksgiving turkey dinners this year will in reality be observing a custom that prevailed ages before the Pilgrims first gathered around grims did According to Smithsonian records the turkey of the aboriginal Indians more nearly approximated the

When the Festive Bird Goes Into the Thanksgiving turkey of today than the scrawny wild fowl felled by the blunderbuss of the Pilgrim hunts-man. Most of our domesticated varieties of turkeys today are really descended from the Mexican wild turkey that ranged over Arizona, western New Mexico and southern Colorado — virtually the dooryard of earliest American civilization. The Pilgrim turkey was merely the wild variety of the same bird which roamed the eastern part of the United States.

Just as the turkey was exclusively an American bird in the time of the aboriginal Indians, so it is today. No fowl from any foreign country approximates it. In fact, wherever turkeys are raised today, and they have been introduced to many foreign countries, the ances tral stock came from America. And so far as is known turkeys are never imported to this country Contrary to popular opinion the turkey did not get its name from Turkey (the country of that name). The first turkeys taken from the New World (America) and sold in Spain were handled largely by Hebrew merchants. Since the turkey was frequently confused with the peacock it was quite natural that the Hebrew trades should apply to it their name for the pea-cock, or "tukki." More or less common use of this name followed, which easily became in English our

THE JUDGE SAYS:

"T HAN K S GIVING 18 approaching - it's time we told ourselves over and over again the thing: about which we should be thankful. There are plenty of those things. But, most important of all, I think, is the chance given to make ourselves happy again."—Judge Harry B. Keidan.

O DOUBT the same old queshave so often heard - what have we to be thankful for? question is foolish, almost as foolish as the attempts to answer it. Thanksgiving means gratitude, and there is probably no man alive who does not hold ingratitude to be one of the blackest sins. Of course, there can be no gratitude except as it is shown not only for something but to some one. Therefore, observes a writer in the Indianapolis News, it is that the thought of Thanksgiving necessarily implies the existence of a Divine Giver and Benefactor. So we are bidden to return thanks to Almighty God as "the Giver of every good and perfect gift." When there seems to be a scarcity of gifts one is tempted to ask the question, why be thankful? And that is a question which every one must answer for himself, and it will be answered as it always has been, in different ways. It is futile to catalogue what we know to be blessings and what we believe to be anything but blessings, and set off one list against the other, and be thankful in proportion as the good exceeds

Carlyle long ago showed us the folly of the bookkeeping method as applied to things spiritual. Probably most people get out of life about what they deserve and in proportion to what they put into it. It seems to be true that the most thankful people are those who have the least. On the other hand, those who are surfeited with good things take them as matters of course, as their due, and so calling for no gratitude. The

has a thankful spirit, which surely is something to be greatly desired. Without it, man is less than man Even beasts are grateful. Practically, the question suggested by the day touches character. There is nothing mechanical or formal about it. One can not pump up thankfulness, and the setting apart of a day does not suggest that there should be such an attempt. The day is rather a recognition, less of a duty than of an opportunity which it would be or might be fatal to neglect. "Be ye thankful" is an apos tolic command. It ought to be easy to obey. Those men are nearest the truth who feel that in this life nothing is due them, and that whatever ing is due them, and that whatever they get is in a very true sense a gift, and one which may be far beyond their deserts. So we are called to keep another Thanksgiving day, which should bring an outpouring of not only thankful but kindly hearts. Appropriate to the day is Pope's well-known verse:

Teach me to feel another's woe, To hide the fault I see; That mercy I to others show, That mercy show to me.

What We Live On I live on hope, and that I think do all who come into this world.

OOD stuffing for Thanksgiving bird is of prime im-portance to the success of the yearly feast. It must, first of all, be well selected, a delicately fla-vored stuffing for the roast chicken and turkey, a more strongly fla-vored one for the roast goese or duck, writes Helen Robertson in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Second, it must be perfectly seasoned. Not too strongly to over whelm the deliciousness of the bird. nor yet so bland in taste as to be uninteresting. Third, it must be of the proper consistency, not too moist, nor yet too dry. And fourth, there must be chough.

Bread being the usual foundation used in the dressing providing the white bread predominates. Cold biscuits, pieces of corn bread, slices of toast, slices of whole wheat and of rye may all be used. Use part crust too, as well as the crumb. The bread should be dry and if part or all is lightly toasted, so much the botter. And bread cut into small cubes makes better dressing than when crumbed.

For the very large turkey, upward of eighteer or nineteen pounds, two and one-half to three pounds of bread will be needed for the dressing, while for the smaller bird of around ten pounds, one and three-fourths to two pounds of bread may be used. And for the smaller bird, one pound and under should be sufficient.

Celery, oysters, mushrooms, chestnuts, the other ingredients you will use are of course dependent upon your own personal tastes and upon the bird you are serving. Here is a basic recipe for dressing for the twelve to fifteen-pound bird.

Bread Dressing

Prepare bread, sprinkle with sea-sonings. Pour over them melted butter and enough boiling water or stock from cooking giblets and neck to moisten. In adding butter and stock, toss the ingredients together lightly with a fork. Never press them together.

Chestnut dressing is usually liked. To make it, prepare one-nalf pound chestnuts, chopping them rather fine. Mix with bread.

Sausage dressing is another favor-ite. One-half pound is sufficient for this amount. Cook it over a low fire fifteen minutes before adding to the
