

THE GLEANER

GRAHAM, N. C., JULY 22, 1937

Local News

Holt's "Crack & Joe" Stores, Graham and Haw River, will hold a "Money Saving" sale Friday and Saturday that will be of interest to the thrifty.

The 4-H Club boys and girls of the county will hold their annual picnic at VFW Lake Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be more than 100 present.

A hot spell of weather came to a close Tuesday and yesterday for the time being, after being showery for a day or two, and yesterday a little artificial heat was not uncomfortable.

Beginning today, Graham Dry Goods Store is putting on a 10-day clearance sale at drastically reduced prices. Among the many things they will sell at sacrifice prices are 3,000 pairs of shoes. For the ten days this store will be a regular bargain-hunter's paradise.

A Correction—Speaking of the Bost Furnishing and Dyeing Co. moving its plant to Graham, The Gleaner said the Esther Hosiery Mills was dissolving and liquidating, when it should have said Ashur Hosiery Mills, which had leased the Esther plant, was dissolving and liquidating. The Bost company has leased the Esther plant, has moved in and is operating there.

The First Baptist Church in Burlington, on Sunday morning, July 25th, will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary and dedication. It is remembered that before the Baptist people had a church organization in Burlington Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Cates, pioneer citizens of the city and devout Baptist, attended regularly the Baptist church in Graham, and perhaps, also, were members. They were also among the first to move for the organization of a branch of their church there. A history of the church would not be complete without the recital of the prominent part J. Wesley Cates and family have had in its establishment and maintenance. The children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Cates are still among the leaders of the church, and this particular church has kept pace with the growth of the city in every way.

Among The Sick.

Timely Farm Questions Answered at State College

Question: When should the laying flock be culled?

Answer: Since efficient production comes through continuous selection some culling may be needed each month in the year, but the most rigid culling should be made toward the end of the laying period. This usually comes from July to November and the flock should be watched carefully during July and August for early molters. Hens that molt in June, July or August should be taken from the flock and disposed of as soon as molt appears or production ceases.

Question: How long does it take to properly cure a barn of tobacco?

Answer: The time required varies from 84 to 96 hours depending upon the rapidity of the various curing processes. After hanging the weed maintain a temperature about ten degrees higher than the outside temperature until the leaf is fairly yellow. The heat is then raised 4 to 5 degrees an hour until a temperature of 120 to 125 degrees is reached. This temperature is held until the tips of the leaves are dry and then raised to 140 degrees. This will dry out the entire leaf. The temperature is again raised to 180 to 190 degrees and held until all parts of the stem is dry in all parts of the barn.

Question: Should a dairy cow be given a grain ration during the dry period?

Answer: If there is plenty of good pasture available and the animal is in good flesh no other feed will be necessary, but the animal should have free access to a good mineral mixture unless the grazing is legume crops or hay is being fed. If the pasture is short or the cow in poor flesh enough concentrate should be fed to put the animal in good flesh before freshening. However, all high protein grains and corn is usually removed from the grain ration about two weeks before freshening. A good grain mixture to feed during this period is composed of equal parts of wheat bran and ground oats.

Shaking Hands Unknown in Some Distant Lands

The handshake is by no means universal. Inhabitants of bleak Tierra del Fuego welcome the rare strangers who come there with a bear-hug and a back-patting, meanwhile jumping up and down, the New York World Telegram says. An African west coast negro, on greeting a friend, may fling himself to his knees and kiss the ground three times. Israelites of old bowed themselves to the ground seven times.

Andaman islanders blow into one another's hands with a cooling sound. Indians on the Gulf of Mexico blow into each other's ears. Africans of the French Colony of Dahomey twist their finger knuckles until they emit a loud crack. Eskimos rub noses. They are bewildered by the sight of handshaking, assuming it to signify that when your right hand grows tired your friends help you hold it.

A Mohammedan, according to ancient custom, may shake hands with you with thumbs up, then touch his breast, forehead and lips with his hand to signify that you are cherished in his heart and thoughts, and are entitled to a bit of osculation.

ARCTIC AIRLINE TO SPAN ASIA, ALASKA

Routes Outlined Now Await Official Approval.

San Francisco, Calif.—As the result of soviet Russia's development of arctic aviation, Alaska and the Aleutian islands are destined again to become the bridge between Asia and the United States, the Institute of Pacific Relations believes.

In something of the same manner in which this route in prehistoric times permitted the peoples of Asia to find entrance to the American continent, the institute is convinced that the same route, only this time by air, is to become the bridge between the two continents.

According to an institute survey, the soviet already has in view two alternative routes for its aerial services to the United States. One of these is from the most eastern tip of the soviet north, Cape Chukhotsk, across the Bering Strait to Nome. The second follows a more southern course, leaving soviet soil in Kamchatka and following the course of the Commander of the Aleutian Islands to Steward, Alaska.

U. S. Permission Not Obtained

From these points it is assumed that permission can be obtained from the United States for extension of lines to Seattle, although it is believed no negotiations have been started to date relative to terminal and landing facilities in the United States.

In the meantime, however, the institute has ascertained that the soviet has been pushing the development of arctic aviation to a point where it is certain that Alaska easily can be made the "drawbridge to Asia."

Reports which the institute have received from the soviet's northern sea route administration show that during 1936 planes engaged in polar flying during the navigation season traveled 1,398,750 miles with 12,900 flying hours.

The number of passengers carried was 5,400 and the freight transported weighed 1,980,000 pounds.

Regular Service Established.

In February of this year the soviet took one more advanced step in the development of arctic aviation by establishing regular mail deliveries between Khabarovsk and Cape Wellen during the winter months when otherwise the inhabitants of that arctic spot would be deprived of contact with the outside world.

Trial trips were made early in February and regular flights were begun February 15.

The institute survey points out that Alaska already has a well developed aviation service. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, the seventy-nine planes in Alaska covered 2,130,929 miles, carried 16,982 passengers and 2,418,616 pounds of freight.

Linking of this service with a service by the soviet would, the institute believes, contribute immensely to the development of the far north and the arctic regions.

The soviet, with flights last summer to Alaska, the survey finds, already demonstrated the feasibility of such a service.

As yet, the institute is informed, the soviet has not decided whether the northern or the southern route would be better. The more northern route is shorter, but slightly more expensive to survey and construct. However, the consensus in soviet Russia is that the northern route is preferable, although not ideal, and some sections of it as now flown should be changed.

Broom Plant Operated Unaided by Blind Man

Holland, Mich.—Although he is blind, Fred TenCate operates a broom factory with a power driven plant entirely unaided. He even installed the machinery for his plant by himself.

"I knew I must feel every part of the equipment in order to form a mental picture of it," TenCate said. "So when neighbors offered to set up the machinery for me I declined. After dark I went out to the building, opened the crates and began to set up the machinery. It was nearly morning before I had it up, but I knew I could run it without assistance."

Cambridge to Mechanize Study of Mathematics

Cambridge, Eng.—Cambridge University is to mechanize its mathematical tripos.

Millions of sheets of paper have been used in the examination hall in working out the problems set, and thousands of hours wasted. Now it is proposed to form a new computing laboratory in which will be installed the latest adding machine at a cost of $50,000.

Grimaldi, the Famous Clown

Joseph Grimaldi, the most celebrated of English clowns, was born in London on December 18, 1779, the son of an Italian actor. When less than two years old, he was brought on the Drury Lane stage and at the age of three he appeared at Sadler's Wells. As the clown of pantomime he was considered without equal, his greatest success being in "Mother Goose at Covent Garden." He retired in 1828 and died on May 31, 1837. His memoirs were edited by Charles Dickens.

How Cats Sharpen Claws

Cats clawing at tree-trunks are commonly said to be "sharpening their claws." There seems to be a truth in this, says Science Service, in a quite different sense from the usual understanding of the phrase. If you will look at the bark where your cat has been scratching, you may find the split fragments of old claw-coverings. Pussycat has been getting rid of her old claws, releasing the new-grown, needle-sharp ones that have been underneath.

Ancient Site

Gripsholm castle is closely associated with Gustavus Vasa, the liberator of his country from foreign yoke and the founder of the Swedish state in its modern form. It was back in Gustavus Vasa's day that the castle's famous portrait gallery was started—a collection that has grown through the centuries to practically the largest in Europe.
