

CHRISTMAS

On a Christmas Eve, so the story runs, a learned editor of a big Chicago daily wrote the words: "This is Christmas Day"—there he stopped. The printers were looking for copy, getting ready to go to press. They went to the editor's office—for some reason (it was the night before) his head was ducked down over a sheet of paper on which were the words quoted above. The editor was completely oblivious to the world. The copy hunter took the sheet, and this constituted all the editorial in that issue of the paper.

It was enough, and it is said the paper bounded forward from that day forth. The inference is that the editorials of that editor were rather a hindrance than a help to that paper.

Every child knows what the word and the day typify. It's the joyous day of the entire year, when human hearts open with favor to friends and loved ones, to the needy and unfortunate and good will reigns supreme.

And so The Gleaner joins the innumerable throng in good wishes to the rest of mankind for a happy and joyous day, the memory of which shall endure till this "fitful life is o'er".

If the 25 billion housing proposition that capitalists have indicated should materialize, there should be something done to hold prices of building material within the bounds of reason. If the Government can fix the price of cotton and put a limitation on farm production, it would appear to be reasonable to do a little curbing in the building line. There are profiteers in all lines of business and whenever opportunity is afforded they play the game and take chances on getting away with it.

The extra session of Congress, over, has left some of the members in doubt as to the future. "Politics makes strange bed-fellows" oftentimes, and office-seekers, not infrequently, try to steer into favorable winds for easy sailing, and sometimes their calculations miscarry and the bark runs aground or is beached. It is entirely possible that an impressive number of the present Congress will see their aspirations wrecked in the 1938 campaign for reelection.

The bombing of the Panay by the Japs is not yet a closed incident. The Japs deny everything. The feeling is tense. In London the feeling is no less tense, due to similar offenses by the Japs. How it all will terminate is unforeseen.

The furious undeclared war on China by the Japs goes on unabated. In Spain, lately, the advantage has been with the loyalists rather decidedly.

Pistol That Killed Lincoln President Lincoln was shot by a Henry Derringer muzzle-loading vest pocket pistol made in Philadelphia. This pistol is in the office of the Judge Advocate General of the War Department.

Long Journey to Stars A cannon ball traveling at a speed of half a mile a second would take 80,000,000,000 years to reach the most distant known star cluster.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS

The special session of Congress ended Tuesday. What it did not do is of more importance than what it did. It is worthy of note that it did not fall all over itself trying to enact into some sort of law to fit every suggestion made by the Administration. To its credit it may be said that it did some thinking on its own account.

It has cropped out that the President is peeved. He charges a "campaign of fear" against the newspapers and industry. Back some months ago industry began slowing down. The newspapers got hold on what was going on and printed it—it was news that the readers of newspapers look to them for. Newspapers are boosters and optimistic—it's to their financial advantage, for when they talk ugly about business prospects they are simply sawing off the limb on which they are sitting.

As to what Congress accomplished the Republican leader of the lower house, Snell, not expected to wave his bat for the fine things accomplished by the Democrats, sums up the highlights of the special term tersely and sarcastically under these heads: (1) The President's fishing trip; (2) Vice-President Garner's deer hunting trip in Pennsylvania, and (3) a potato-eating contest to test the merits of Idaho and Maine potatoes. Mr. Snell's summation is not literally true but it comes near expressing the accomplishments of the special session.

When the housing bill was passed overwhelmingly by the Senate and sent to the House which sent it to conference that meant that the special session was through.

With barely a quorum still in Washington, the traveling expenses of members and other expenses of the special session were provided for, and the session ended.

Condition of the Country

By J. E. Jones

Washington, D. C., December 21, '37.—How's business? That's a question to which one can get most all kinds of answers, but some of these answers are merely cushions to save the shock of the real truth. It is good judgment to disregard the stock market as an index.

The Federal Reserve Board at Washington relates that business men thought early this year that the trend of rising prices and costs would continue. They expected abnormal stocking up, beyond immediate needs, would occur in order to avoid higher prices later on. The great industries were already becoming scared, and when demands began to lessen for products the wheels of commerce and manufacturing slowed down. Flawily in September curtailed production set in on an alarming nationwide scale.

And so the Federal Reserve Board records the unpleasant fact that industrial production declined in November to the lowest point in 20 months. The Board reports the banks of the country have plenty of money to finance a new recovery, and although demand deposits have dropped off some the savings deposits of the people have increased and make up most of the difference.

The most liberal plan ever offered to secure a new home is about to be launched and it is estimated that millions of new homes will be built and that families will buy them.

Tax revision, in the interest of business, by February 1, is predicted by Chairman Harrison, of the Finance Committee. The farm legislation is intended to spread prosperity in agriculture. Everything that can be thought of to avoid another depression gains favor in Washington, and in industrial and financial quarters.

President Roosevelt insists that the slump is only temporary, and he is supported in this belief by national political and business leaders. Perhaps they know what is ahead better than the rest of us who write for newspapers. We hope they do. Candidly, things aren't bright—as things look through our horn-rimmed spectacles.

By L. L. STEVENSON

True Story: The other afternoon, the elevator operator in the West Ninety-seventh street apartment house in which Mrs. Ona Wright lives, remarked to her that there must be some mighty fine bridge players in her club. Interested, Mrs. Wright asked him how he had reached such a conclusion. "Well," was the reply, "I hear them talking and they all seem to be so good but they have such awful partners."

Suburban Life: A friend who commutes from Brooklyn Manor, out on Long Island, reports an unusual deviation from usual practice. Each morning, a man drives to the station with his wife and the family dog. Nothing out of the ordinary in that since all over the commuting territory it happens every morning. But it isn't the husband who leaves the auto and goes to the city for a day of toil. The wife is the one who boards the train. Furthermore instead of kissing her husband goodbye, she kisses the dog and merely waves to her better half.

Urban Life: For some reason which I have been unable to ascertain—it's too much trouble to go down and ask questions—many New Yorkers have taken to kite flying. For weeks, especially Sunday afternoons, the air over the upper part of Central park has had a large kite population, big kites, little kites, homemade kites, "store" kites, elaborate kites, simple kites, kites of all colors. All the kite flyers aren't kids either, some being gray-headed. When I was a youngster, spring was the proper time for kite flying and if a gray-head had joined us, we would have felt he ought to have that gray head examined.

Time Marches On: John Golden, in a reminiscent mood the other evening, recalled that when Daly's theater was dismantled, he hid in the old curtain. It was one of the most beautiful in New York and upon its arrival in this country, duty free, had been assessed at $20,000. Mr. Golden paid $500 for it more or less for sentimental reasons since he had seen it descend on the Mansfields, Ada Rehan and others great in the theatrical world of their day. Sentiment also influenced him in a decision to use it at the Little Theater where he was then producing plays. But he discovered it was only about three quarters the size of the Little's proscenium. Eventually, he gave it to Mr. Dewey, the simplified speller, who years ago started the Lake Placid club, and it is now used in the theater connected with that club. And so pass the grandeurs of yesterday.

Experience: In the Rainbow Room the other evening, a table companion tried to squelch Ray Block's anti-war arguments. "You're a musician," he sneered. "What do you know about war?" Block turned away without replying. Born and raised in Alsace-Lorraine, he saw his father's house blown to bits during the German invasion, his cousin killed and his beloved music teacher led away to a concentration camp.

They Say: Carl Harte: "The height of something or other would be an attempt to put the six-day bicycle racers on a five-day week." George Griffin: "One of the best places to hold the world's fair is around the waist." George Griffin: "Have you heard about the horse trainer who climbed the ladder of success step by step?" and that's all for today.

Carpenter Makes Violins Mayville, Wis.—Herman Hoepner, sixty-six years old, carpenter, builds houses and barns for a living, but in his spare time he carves violins from spruce wood. He is an accomplished violinist.

Sell in 23 Tongues Milwaukee.—A survey of the 1,800 employees of the three outlets of a department store company here disclosed that 510 speak foreign languages and can dispense service in 23 tongues.

Come on Now, Spido—

Bark for the Prof

Eagle Pass, Texas.—Dr. A. J. Rickles placed a fuzzy spider in a bottle recently and addressed it to the University of Texas. He hopes scientists can tell him why the insect barks. Late at night several months ago Dr. Rickles heard a strange "awk-yak" sound in his bathroom. He reached for the light switch and grabbed something fuzzy and very much alive. He dropped it and when he flashed on the light a spider, four inches wide, was racing across a bureau top, emitting barks.

NEW THINGS

Feather-weight celluloid mudguards are the latest feature of English bicycles.

High tension steel has been developed to meet the demand for greater and greater bridge spans.

Fire extinguishers in Caechoslovakia are treated with radioactive paints so they may be seen in the dark.

The Institute of Technology, Mass., has a new device to give textile workers an unerring way to pick quality yarns.

A shatterproof glass that can be tooled like wood or metal has been developed in Germany. It dissolves in benzol, chloroform or alcohol.

Hungarian experiments show that excellent table oil can be pressed out of tobacco seed, hitherto a waste product, it is reported to the American Chemical society.

Lenses for spectacles, cameras, etc., which will bounce without breaking if dropped on a stone floor, are being made from coal and water by a new British process.

SHORT AND SHARP

When the shepherd is a crook himself he ought to feel sheepish.

If there are both sides to a difficult question, laugh until they both ache.

The man who looks for difficulties will often find two where he expected one.

It's all right to make things go as far as possible, but it isn't policy to stretch the truth.

A number of men who never think of making wives of their cooks make cooks of their wives.

There was once a boy who swore he'd never go into the water again until he had learned to swim.

"I've found you out at last," as the man said happily when he discovered his dentist was not at home.

A man sometimes gets into debt because he thinks he can soon get out; then he gets deeper in debt because he knows he never will get out.—London Answers Magazine.
