THIRD TERM GHOST

Lots of people borrow trouble and try to cross the bridge before coming to it. The politicians are joining the throng and manuevering about and talking about a third term for the present Executive. It is still two full years before another candidate for President will be named. Wonderful and amazing changes can take place in that period of time. New alignments, lots of them, will take place. New issues and new leaders will come to the front. The government reorganization program may expire or lay dormant for other generations.

It has been sixty years since a third term ghost paraded in public. General Grant was the idol of the Republican party, the hero of the conquering armies of the Civil War. At the first convention after the strife ended he was nominated for president and again nominated to succeed himself. His second term ended, the dominant party named another as his successor. But the ghost was not dead and Grant's popularity was by no means extinct. If he had been nominated for a third term he would have been elected. He had ardent and immovable supporters after another term had intervened. Custom and precedent had limited the tenure of a president to two terms from the foundation of the Government and Grant could not pass the barrier. A record number of ballots was taken in the convention but precedent was more powerful than the conquering hero. In the event the same thing is attempted again, though times have apparently changed, the same barrier remains. Ambition and support may join hands, perhaps will, but a convention of delegates from every state in the Union will pass on the nomination.

The revolutionists in Spain have lately met some severe reverses.

The original Roosevelt-for-President man has been found. The story runs that a Georgian back in 1920, "Judge" Henry Revill, editor of the Meriwether Vindicator, a weekly paper at Greenville, Ga., made the nomination. And now the "Judge" thinks it may be necessary to repeat in 1940. The President was a young man at that time, but had been in the public eye as Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels' assistant.

Douglas Corrigan who flew in a 'orate' to Ireland by 'mistake,' still contends that he was aiming at California. At one and the same time he satisfied his ambition and won world-wide fame and paved his way to fortune. He's a keen-witted Irishman (by heredity) and he pulled the top-notch for the year. But the trouble about what he has done some other fool-hardy flyer may think he can also and try it. If so, let him arrange his affairs and bid adieu to his folks and friends. That Corrigan was lucky will not help the next one to a safe landing.

The Deane-Burgin congressional contest in the Eighth District has brought out some ugly phases of the second primary. Some will wonder if, after all, whether the primary is the better way. A system is on trial.

If John Warde, 26, had not staged a 11-hour exhibition on a ledge 17 stories above the street and leaped to his death, perhaps his passing would have been of brief local notice. He took the fatal plunge Tuesday night after resisting all appeals. He claimed life was not worth living. If it was notoriety, he achieved!

Graham Production Credit Association

No Losses on Loans to Alamance Farmers--An Excellent Record

The Third District Has $1,000,000 in Reserves--Other Matters of Interest About Its Finances.

The record made by the production credit associations since they began operations in 1934 has been little short of remarkable, according to C. T. Hall, president of the Graham Production Credit Association, who has returned from a conference of production associations directors held in Asheville.

"According to figures presented at the conference," said Mr. Hall, "the 550 production credit associations in the United States have more than doubled their membership since 1934. At the close of that year they had 121,455 members, while at the beginning of the present year they had a membership of 251,190. In 1934 the associations made loans totalling $107,243,065, while in 1937 they made loans totalling $288,260,261.

"In the four states comprising the third Farm Credit Administration district, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, the 94 associations since organization have made 217,692 loans for a total of $76,882,945 and have charged off only a little over $40,000. The associations in this district have built up reserves totalling $1,000,000. Surely this is a record that cannot be excelled and it goes to disprove the theory entertained by many when the associations were first organized that farmers could not operate their own money-lending institutions."

Attending the conference from the Graham Association besides Mr. Hall were D. Lacy Alston and George C. Neal, directors, and James Bishop, Jr., secretary-treasurer, and C. O. Smith, Jr., assistant treasurer.

"I am proud of the record made by the Graham Association," said Mr. Hall. "Since we began operations the first of 1934 we have made 5,954 loans for a total of $1,086,721 and have charged off only $640. All of the associations represented at the conference had splendid records."

In Alamance county during the present year loans have been made to 177 farmers for a total of $36,780. This compares with a total of 166 for $34,208.75 for the entire year of 1937. Not a dollar has been charged off as a loss on loans made to Alamance county farmers since the Association was formed in 1934.

The directors attending the Asheville conference were from Asheboro, Dunn, Elizabeth City, Graham, New Bern, Raleigh, Weldon and Winston-Salem associations.

Mr. Hall, president of the Graham Association, was elected to represent the group on the Board Committee, which holds its sessions at Columbia, South Carolina, the headquarters city for the Third Farm Credit District.

Beaufort county farmers, having actually harvested over 40 per cent of their tobacco crop to date, report from 80 to 90 per cent of a normal acreage.

Seventeen Ashe county sheep growers sold 125 lambs last week for $532.65 net to growers. The average net price for all grades in the pool was 84 cents a pound home weight.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

When representatives of 32 nations recently met in France to discuss the refugee problem and attempt to arrive at some sort of a solution, it didn't make headline news. But to the thoughtful observer, the conference served to emphasize the fact that this is one of the most tragic and difficult social and economic problems of the modern age.

Never in modern history has the plight of racial minorities, principally the Jews, been so bitter. The pogroms of ancient times almost pale into insignificance beside those of today. Germany, of course is the seat of the Jewish oppression. It is Hitler's desire to completely eliminate Hebrew influence of any kind in Teutonic territory. In Germany, and also in Austria since the Anschluss, Jews have been forbidden to engage in most fields of profitable occupation. Even when they are not driven out of business, their stores are placarded, and the German who trades with them comes at once into conflict with the dread Nazi secret police, Jewish professional men--doctors, lawyers, writers, teachers--are boycotted. In German schools, the instructor tell their pupils to have nothing whatever to do with Jews, either socially or as a matter of business. Persons with as little as one-eighth Jewish blood are classified officially as Semites, and are consequently ostracized. In brief, Jew, under Hitler's dream of a race of Nordic superman, is regarded as an enemy of the state.

Matters would not be so bad were the Jews allowed to leave Germany and Austria with what resources they possess, to find a place in other lands. But the Jew who is given a German passport is necessarily a bankrupt. His money, his property, even his personal effects, are taken from him. He must leave his home and his occupation with no resources with which to make a fresh start. And, according to late reports, the German government is going even farther in the case of rich Jews, and is virtually holding them for ransom. For example, it is said that the release from Austria of Louis Rothschild, head of the Vienna branch of the great European banking house, can only be obtained when and if his foreign friends and relatives give 10 million dollars to the Reich.

A biting commentary on the question is found in the fact that Myron C. Taylor, American delegate and chairman of the 32-nation conference, recently pleaded with Germany to permit refugees to take their personal belongings away with them--and received answer.

Some time ago it seemed that the problem might be solved by the action of England in opening Palestine to Jewish colonization, and setting it aside as a land where the Jews might create a nation of their own. Today that hope is largely gone. The Jews came to Palestine. They liked it. They proved to be excellent settlers and capable business men. But the Arabs, whose religion is strongly anti-Semitic, immediately began to fight the migration. Hundreds have been killed in guerilla warfare, Arabian sentiment against the Jews has steadily increased, and it is said that there is grave danger that the cause may develop into a holy war. England now has 12,000 troops in Palestine to defend the Jews--and still the rapine, slaughter and pillage continues. The result is that only 12,000 Jews a year are admitted to the country--a drop in a gigantic bucket. There are about 1,000,000 Jews remaining in Germany and Austria alone.

The 32-power conference took all this into account. Its attitude was extremely sympathetic toward this oppressed people. But talk was about all that resulted. No major country is willing to open its gates wide to the Jew, or to any other refugee. In the case of famous men, there is usually a place--many educators, for instance, have left Germany for England and this country, and obtained suitable occupation. For the rank and file of Jews there seems to be nowhere to go. All the big powers are occupied with unemployment problems. There is not enough work for their own people, and not enough money to go around. Thus, they pity the Jew. They realize the injustice that has been meted out to him--and they regretfully say no, when he asks permission to enter.

As Oswald Garrison Villard has written, "The man who could show the way out would deserve: the greatest rewards ever bestowed upon anybody." That man has not appeared.
