

THE GLEANER

GRAHAM, N. C., JAN. 16, 1941

ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY

J. D. KERNODLE, Editor

$1.00 A YEAR, IN ADVANCE

Entered at the Postoffice at Graham, N. C., as second-class matter.

The inauguration of President Roosevelt for his third term takes place in Washington Monday next.

It does not look well for labor, strikes being planned and going on while the country is bending every energy toward preparing defense against invasion of a foreign enemy. It is not a patriotic attitude. Under the control of that enemy labor would labor and the pay envelope would be materially reduced.

Not in the history of the world, in the same length of time, has so much property in value been destroyed, as in the past few months in Europe. It continues to go on day by day. If and when the sponsors of the present destruction in Europe have finished up there, there is a dread, not ill-founded, that this hemisphere, the Americas will be the next objective. The fear that that will be the case, is causing billions to be spent for defense and equipment that otherwise would be unnecessary and when it is over will be of little real value or use. The bottom of the seas is being strewn with a jumbled mass of sunken ships and towns and cities that were centuries in building are being reduced to a mass of ruins. It is tragedy in the superlative.

Governor Broughton

Governor J. M. Broughton inducted into office last Thursday made 46 recommendations to the legislature in his inaugural address.

They have been boiled down to 20 major points, as follows:

1. Continue a balanced budget.
2. Keep the sales tax but add exemptions for "essential food for home consumption," and make no substantial changes or additions in taxes.
3. Provide retirement programs for all state employes, including teachers.
4. Enact immediate laws prohibiting the unrestricted selling of so-called fortified wines.
5. Adopt a resolution immediately applauding President Roosevelt's defense and aid-for Britain programs.
6. Provide a new congressional district and reapportion legislative membership, both on the basis of the 1940 census.
7. Provide adequate appropriations for higher educational institutions, public schools, vocational education, adult education, reasonable expansion of the public health program, state hospitals and institutions, and for reasonable increases in teachers salaries if it can be done with available revenues.
8. Provide reasonable security for teachers in their jobs; set a goal for a standard nine-months school term and a 12th grade; consider advisability of submitting a constitutional amendment to vest a board of education with all of the state's authority in school administration; and consider raising the age for compulsory school attendance from 14 to 16 years.
9. Provide state aid for public libraries.
10. Provide for strict adherence to "the principle of a state highway system;" take note that "much of our primary road system must be revamped or rebuilt;" provide a budget which would not necessitate highway fund diversion; and make adequate provision for farm-to-market and home-to-school roads.

11. Provide adequate appropriations to help the state become a great livestock state; with provision for an adequate structure for displaying livestock included in the program.

12. Relieve the highway patrol of tax collecting duties and enact new legislation outlining its work and removing it from the realm of politics.

13. Provide forest fire protection funds from the general fund; devote net proceeds of game and fish purposes; supplement and extend geological facilities; expand the division of commerce and industry; establish a state office in Washington on a stable basis; and provide increased funds for the fight for lower freight rates.

14. Provide for training prisoners in useful trades.

15. Provide for the fullest possible cooperation between the federal and state governments on all matters; especially if new laws are needed for home defense purposes or to control fifth column or subversive activities.

16. Absolutely bar slot gambling machines.

17. Provide an eastern North Carolina tubercular sanatorium.

18. Give special consideration to the forthcoming report of a special commission studying wage and hour legislation.

19. Give much attention to law observance and law enforcement.

20. Have as short legislative session as possible.

The Legislature

The legislature met in advance the day before the Governor and State officers were inducted into office.

The first thing was organization, as follows:

The Senate: John Larkins, Jr., Jones County, President Pro-Tem; S. Ray Byerly, Lee County, Principal Clerk; L. H. Fountain, Edgecombe County, Reading Clerk; and Herman Scott, Chatham County, Sergeant-at-Arms. For the House: Odus M. Mull, Cleveland County, Speaker; Shearon Harris, Stanly County, Principal Clerk; H. L. Joyner, Northampton County, Sergeant-at-Arms; and Ralph Monger, Jr., Lee County, Reading Clerk.

Lieut.-Gov. Harris presides over the Senate.

The legislators started out on a spending spree by increasing the salaries of four State officers, Secretary of State, State Auditor, State Treasurer and Superintendent of Public Instruction, by ten percent, raising the salaries from $6,000 to $6,600. The raise was made to "equalize the pay" of constitutional officers.

It would have sounded better to the folks back home to reduce the pay of the others—would have shown some spirit of economy. It is a hard proposition to satisfy a public officer when his pay comes from the public fund.

Down in Charlotte, the State's largest city, the mayor's salary is held down to $1,600. There they are Cleveland Democrats who hold to the motto, that "public office is a public trust, not a private snap."

Taxes are plenty high and hard enough to pay, without imposing any odd time burden.

When it comes to spending, the one-gallus fellow back home, pulling the bell-cord over a mule to grind out a meager subsistence for his little family, should be kept in mind—he is a citizen, a small cog in the wheel, but a necessary one.

Free Enterprise Medicine

Here in the United States we live under what is graphically described as a free enterprise system. It permits any man to go as far as his abilities will take him. It places no barriers in the way of progress and achievement. It believes in the dignity of the individual—as opposed to systems which make the individual the slave of the state.

All of us know what this free enterprise system has produced. It has given us the highest standard of living in the world. It has given the typical worker a higher paid job and a shorter work-week than is known anywhere else. It has given the average man and woman more of the luxuries and necessities than their counterparts enjoy in any other nation. It has given them more security, in the form of homes, insurance, bank deposits and other forms of saving.

All of this has been done under that free enterprise system—the individualistic system, so to speak. And that system has given us more than goods and chattels. For example, in the field of medicine we can see again what private enterprise achieves.

In 1936, there were 11.5 deaths per each 100,000 of population from diphtheria in Germany. There were 8.6 in England. There were but 1.5 in the United States. There is one qualified physician for each 767 people here—as against one for each 1,069 in England, and one for each 1,307 in Germany and one for each 1,596 in France. In the totalitarian states, where government dominates medicine, and the bureaucrats pick the doctors, almost all diseases are increasing. Here all are decreasing—and rapidly.

So does American medicine, like American industry, serve. It is private medicine—it is "free enterprise medicine." No other system ever devised by man has done so much for the great masses of the people.
