WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS-

First Phase of Invasion Ended As Initial Foothold is Secured; French Hail "Liberation Troops"

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are these of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

This first picture made from French soil shows American doughboys rifles ready, wading through the surf onto the French beachhead. The photographer who made the picture was in the first group to hit the beach. Note the invasion craft in the background. Soundphoto.

LIBERATED BAYEUX:

Eyewitness accounts described great joy in the streets of Bayeux, France, first city to be liberated by Allied troops in the invasion of west-linking the big port of Cherbourg to Paris, Bayeux is five miles inland from Seine Bay.

to march through the narrow streets of the Normandy town. Cheering men and women danced through the same streets as the troops came in.

Cafe owners began throwing open their doors with pianists striking up

SHUTTLE-BOMBING:

Russian Bases Used

up on Russian soil.

This new program opened the farthest corners of German territory to bombing attack by Allied planes based in Britain, Italy, North Africa and Russia. American military leaders had long wanted these Russian bases but it took diplomatic skill of the first caliber to get the Russians to agree to the strategy.

They were finally convinced when it became obvious that the U. S. and England had the necessary planes freight yard in which the Nazi had concentrated supplies for troops fighting the Russians. American

Flying Fortresses were accompa-nied by Russian fighter planes on

The German high command in Italy was forced to admit a "major break" through their lines north and west of Rome as the Fifth army smashed toward Lake Bracchiano and Civitavecchia, key port of the by the allied command as "only light." It amounted to little more than disorganized activities by de-laying infantry units and self-pro-

The Fifth army had taken more than 18,000 prisoners and many more thousands were captured by the British Eighth army, which was meeting heavier resistance north-west of Rome, where the hardest

"Whoever may be the military holy see gave the Germans credit fighting is being encountered.

German resistance was described

'Major Break' in Lines

First target was a Rum and the Russians did not.

part of the mission.

Tyrrhenian sea.

The Vatican

ITALY:

On the main rail line

First of Many

ern Europe.

THE INVASION: First Phase Ended

The first phase of the Allied invasion of Europe was completed.

To a tense world, supreme head-forces announced this phase as the curing of a foothold and the defeating of local German reserves."

Against fierce, last-ditch resistance of 10 hastily massed Nazi divi-sions, totaling nearly 150,000 men, allied forces were plunging inland on a 100-mile front of curving shoreline from the Seine Estuary near Le Havre to the Cherbourg area. Allied forces are now in the second phase, which is one of defeating German "tactical reserves," said headquarters. The third phase which must be won before the Allied position is completely secure, is that of defeating the German "strategic reserves."

(Tactical reserves are those in or near the combat area; strategic reserves are those held in readiness at a distance.)

The Air Umbrella

Headquarters announced that 27,000 individual air missions were carried out in the two and one-half days following the dawn of D-day. Great air fleets, probably greater than those of D-day, hammered Nazi strong points, transport and troop concentrations within a 150mile radius of the beachheads. Nazi fighter opposition was weak. The German high command had not yet thrown its long-hoarded fighter reserves into the battle for Normandy.

The battle was joined around Bayeux, first city of France to be freed from Germans, and Caen. A fierce tank battle raged in several wooded areas near Bayeux, where the Nazis were strengthened by parachute troops. The navy supported foot troops with a gigantic bombardment of Caen. Nazi forces were attempting to hold the city as a pivot for counterattacks. But on the second day of invasion, the Germans were forced to admit street fighting already was being waged inside Caen.

Single Front that Allied positions were fast be ing welded together into a single front, stretching from Caen through Bayeux to just outside Carentan and some distance up the Cherbourg peninsula toward Valognes.

It was disclosed that the first forces ashore on D-day might have pushed ahead more rapidly than they did, but General Eisenhower's supreme command decided it was wiser to slow the advance somewhat while awaiting more ade quate strength rather than make a risk having the spearheads choked

OBJECTIVE PARIS: By Bastille Day?

Bastille day, French national holi-day, falls on July 14 and in the first days of the invasion of western Europe, veterans of the 1940 battle of France forecast that the Allies would be in Paris by that date to help the natives celebrate. In New York the French language weekly, "France-Amerique" carried a column by Ernest R. Bauer, which indicated that French military vet-erans familiar with the terrain over which the battles are now being fought predict rapid progress from the beachheads to Paris-120 miles authorities actually having control of the city of Rome," the Vatican has announced its determination to maintain a policy of neutrality. Observers took this to mean that the away.

Meanwhile in London Winston Churchill urged the house of commons to guard against "the idea that things are going to be settled in a rush." for correct behaviour with regard to Rome in its final hours.

AIR FIELD:

Near Philippines

A base within bombing range of the Philippines fell to General Mac-Arthur's forces when the Mokmer airdrome on Biak Island was stormed and captured on the 13th day of the invasion of the

The beachhead on Biak was established late in May. A frontal stab was repulsed, following which Amer-ican forces got in behind enemy po-sitions and swept to the air field from the rear.

The Mokmer field is within 880 miles of the Philippines to the northwest and is within good fighter range of Palau, Japanese western Caro-lines naval base guarding the approaches of the Philippines.

The island also has two other airfields desired by the Sixth army invaders. The Americans immediately began a push toward the Borokoe airdrome a few hundred yards to

INDUSTRY:

Must Take Initiative

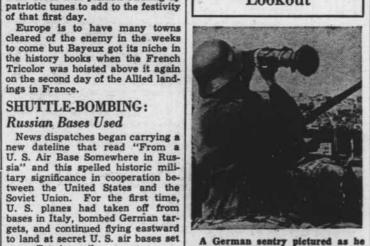

Warning that industry must find its own work when war contracts are no longer available, Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Produc-tion board, told the house postwar committee, that:

". . . it won't be the government's job to find work for each company in its present expanded position. It's impossible to find a postwar market for the 8,900 airplanes we now pro-

Stating that he was 100 per cent n favoring government's assistance in postwar planning for industry, he said that he was against government "running" small business. He urged that companies now engaged in war production use their own in-genuity and initiative in planning "God save the King. We've waited for this day. On to Paris. Vive Tommy. Vive Amerique." These were some of the rejoicing cries that greeted the first detachments their postwar programs.

He forecast a postwar "expan-sionist" period in which private enterprise rather than the government would provide the necessary Government pump priming would be at a minimum under such conditions.

Lookout

A German sentry pictured as he scanned the skies over Boulogne, France—looking for trouble that came unexpectedly. Boulogne was one of the cities hit by sea and air bombings, paving the way for landing of Allied forces.

FOOT SOLDIERS:

Pay Increase

In reply to a request by War Secretary Stimson, Chairman May of the house military affairs committee introduced a bill to increase pay month.

Soldiers holding the expert infantry man's badge would get a $5 increase and those having the combat infantry man's badge, $10. Cost of the increase would amount to be-tween 55 and 71 million dollars year-

In asking for the legislation, Stimson said infantry casualties are the highest of any branch of service. In the North African campaign, including Italy, the infantry suffered 70 per cent of the casualties, although comprising only 19.6 per cent of the

FARM MACHINERY: Restrictions Removed

Small manufacturers (employing less than 100 workers) can now en-gage in the unlimited production of farm machinery, equipment, and repair parts made entirely from surolus materials or materials with an AA-4 preference rating.

This new arrangement, announced by the War Production board, is limited to firms employing not more than 50 workers in group 1 labor areas, or on the West coast. Else-100 workers may participate.

Manufacturers meeting these regulations can use surplus materials and component parts from in-ventories together with AA-4 preference rating materials in such pro-

America Through a Train Window:

The train clears its mechanical throat, rolls out of the depot, and the moving picture of passing scenery is framed in Pullman windows. . . Fragments of smoke cruising over sprawling war plants that dot the outskirts of the city. A peaceful industrial scene where eapons are born that wind up in the hell of war. . . . Neat suburban homes on their best architectural behavior. . . . Church steeples pointing at the sky like hands in prayer. . . . Telephone poles whizzing by in Indian file. Birds perched on their wires—like notes on a musical scale.

. . . The countryside knee-deep in Spring. A tapestry of greenery stretching toward the horizon. . . . Long lines of trees planted with Rockette precision-bejeweled with ripening fruits. . . . Attractive lady train conductors. . . . Weary travelers slumped in their seats marooned on an island of their

Tree-lined small town streets, each house ornamented with mani-cured hedges. . . Ribbons of roads wrapped around the landscape. They used to be covered with traffic, but now you can see miles of nude highways. . . . The eager anticipation in the orbs of servicemen on their way home to enjoy a furloaf. . . The train gobbling up miles of space as it roars through State lines. No passports are needed to cross them. One of the miracles too many Americans take for granted. . . The haze that floats over the grass at sunrise when Nature is still drowzy with morning. . . Old, unpainted houses on the wrong side of the tracks making their poverty public. . . Miles of undeveloped land blanketed with forests between big cities. Places

The train whiszing by small, dusty stations surrounded by loneliness. stations surrounded by ioneimess. You go by so fast you can't even read the station's name. . . Cows grazing in Ohio's pastures—their tails continually swinging like a baton. . . A feather of a breeze tickling a lake—causing it to dimple with a million ripples. . . Piercing with a million ripples. . . . Piercing train whistles punctuating the night with exclamation points of sound. . . . Cross country trucks moving across the roads with the slow dignity of glaciers. . . . The increased tempo of traffic that heralds the ap-

A stretch of flat land broken by the wide open mouth of a valley. . . . The lights of a lonely farmhouse twinkling in the dark night. . . . The train pulling into a station with the dignity of a dowager entering a tea party. . . . The eternal peacefulness of forests filled with a million leafy fingers reaching for the warmth of the sun. . . Fields of wildflowers curtsying to the balmy winds. . . . Large signs announcing that you're about to enter this-or-that town. A sight as American as a home run.

Tremendous ranches monopolizing giant slices of territory. Some are almost as large as a small European nation. . . . Skeletons of ghost towns slowly being turned into dust by wind and rain, remnants of the wild West. . . . Modern cowboys who now spend more time riding in station wagons than on hosses. . . . The brilliance of a Western night-a dark-faced sky freckled with stars. Much poetry and many songs have been written in tribute to its overpowering beauty. But nothing can match the first-hand view of this shimmering phenomenon. . . . The many peaceful sights that make you think the war is very far away. But a plane drilling its way through the sky reminds you nothing is beyond the war's reach. . . Peaceful Indians now selling souvenirs at railroad stations. . . Cattle herds in the sunset making a picture postcard to be filed in your memory.

mysteries. . . . When you see the gigantic natural obstacles that still gigantic natural obstacles that still exist in the West you are filled with renewed respect and pride for the pioneers who built a civilization on the foundation of blood, sweat and tears. . . . Tiny villages with less population than in a Big Town apartment house. . . Headwaiter smiles of train porters. . . The Deisel engine entering a tunnel with a loud cry dragging the servent of care. cry, dragging the serpent of cars behind it. . . The sage brush coun-try, with an occasional motorist pro-viding the only sign of life. . . . Tired tourists chewing the fingernalls of their patience, eager to arrive at their destination. . . . Hot dog stands planted in the middle of nowhere.

Entertainers Travel Rough and Perilous Circuit Taking USO-Camp Shows to Remote Fighting Fronts

One Hundred Troupes Play to Soldiers in Open-Air Theaters

That familiar truism of the trouper-"the show must go on" -has taken on a new and vastly different meaning since the advent of USO-camp shows-those traveling troupes that follow our troops all over the world. True to tradition, the show, of course, does go on-from the back of an army truck mired in the jungles of New Guinea, to the accompaniment of grinding winches on a dock alongside a troop transport, amid the icy glaciers of the Arctic, at base hospitals behind firing lines, in the shadow of smouldering Vesuvius, or on newly won terri-

No longer, however, does the audience go to the show; the show is taken to the audience—an audience, by the way, that now numbers more than 11,000,000 men and women of our armed forces to whom, by orders of the War department, the show goes on in combat zones in every area where our fighting forces are located.

It's something new for both the show business and the army to include traveling troupes in the army's special services. That is, it was new until Pearl Harbor. Now they're as much a part of the army fare as GI chow, and equally as essential. One is a physical necessity, the other a psychological stimulant.

In the last two and a half years, USO-Camp shows have grown from a mere experiment to a far-flung activity that would stagger the most traveled old trouper to contemplate.

Today, USO-Camp shows operate approximately 100 units in combat zones in every sector of the fighting fronts. For obvious reasons of military expedience of the of military expedience no estimate of the "house count" at these performances has been made public, but it's a safe guess that the "SRO". sign was out at every one. In the western hemisphere another 100 USO-Camp shows are appearing at army camps and naval bases, with an estimated monthly attendance 2,000,000 men and women of the armed forces who are kept laughing by professional entertainers of stage, screen and radio.
USO-Camp shows are operated as an activity of USO (United Service organizations) and are financed by the National War fund, of which USO is a member agency.

Stage Stars Volunteer. From headquarters occupying half a dozen floors in a building at 8 West Fortieth street, New York City, USO-Camp shows plan, pre-pare and direct the assembling of both talent and programs for the various units. Paid entertainers, recruited from theatres, night clubs and vaudeville booking agenclubs and vaudeville booking agen-cies, constitute the permanent or-ganization of the world-wide cir-cuits. Augmenting the regular staff are stars of Broadway and Holly-wood, together with well-known radio personalities, who volunteer their service for a limited period.

In obtaining volunteers from the screen colony, USO-Camp shows has the cooperation of the Hollywood Victory committee which has en-listed many of the foremost stars of motion pictures. Among notables of the cinema who have been mem-bers of USO-Camp shows to entertain our boys in combat zones were: Joe E. Brown, William Gargan, Marlene Deitrich, Adolph Menjou, Paulette Goddard, Gary Cooper,

Sgt. Robert Bank's pulse and respiration went up several points when this band of entertainers dropped into this hospital tent in the Aleutians. Players left to right are Naomi Stevens, Mary Lee, Grace and Harry Masters, and George Cerutti.

Una Merkel, George Raft, Phyllis | Brooks, Frederic March, Louise All-britton, Andy Arcari, Jean Clyde, Bob Hope, Keenan Wynn, Al Jolson and John Garfield.

Although the screen luminaries volunteer for a minimum of 12 weeks, some of them trouped the weeks, enduring all kinds of inconveniences and hardships, but taking them in stride and actually enjoying the experience. Many of the lesser-known paid entertainers on "sleep-er-jumping" tours of 50 000 and er-jumping" tours of 50,000 and 100,000 miles have been out for as long as 11 months, visiting little out-posts in remote regions, isolated camps in Central and East Africa, army transport command stops in the Arabian wilderness, or lonely road camps in the snow-covered mountains of Iran.

The business of obtaining the talent and putting together a show unit is the function of USO-Camp shows, a function usually conducted on spe-cific orders from the army special services division which requisitions entertainment by much the same method as GI supplies are ordered. In typical army terseness, a direc-tive will be issued to camp shows for a certain type of entertainment to be provided by a specified number of performers for a designated area and time. USO-Camp shows follows

At the designated time and place, the show is turned over to the army, and thereafter it is practically as much a part of the army as the GI Joes. Where the show goes, when it goes, how long it stays and when it "does its stuff" are all prescribed by the army. Transportation, food, sleeping quarters are furnished by the army. Many performers give their service; others are paid nomi-

Troupers Endure Heat, Cold.

Although details of the tours are handled by the army with characteristic military precision, putting on the show many times isn't exactly a cinch. In fact, it is often attended by difficulties, hazards or interruptions. Even the army isn't able to provide transportable theatres, stage "props" and equipment. atres, stage "props" and equipment.
"Tramping the boards," a familiar expression of the trouper, is exactly for the show is usually given from a crude, improvised stage of boards thrown up wherever the audience is

The locale of a show may be in a jungle where the temperature climbs to as high as 130 degrees; it may be at a lonely mountain side outpost, or in the midst of desert wastes. One USO-Camp show unit, unexpectedly bombings on the Island of Pantel bombings on the Island of Pantelleria, gave a performance in an underground airplane hangar. Another camp show troupe actually gave a show in a submarine.

Returning from an 11-month tour, members of one camp show unit announced that they had become authorities on the sands of the world. They had played in yellow sandstorms in Egypt; in red sandstorms in Tunisia that had dyed their hair, face and clothes a bright red; and in white sandstorms in Iran that made brunettes look like platinum blondes. While up in snow-covered mountains, they suffered sub-zero cold; down in the valleys, they had to wrap themselves in wet sheets in order to sleep in the 145-degree heat.

Travel Through Mine Fields. Another troupe that spent months with filers at advanced air-fields never took a trip to a nearby encampment when they didn't have to pick their way through mine fields. Once they parked their trailer truck two feet from a live land mine. It was the heartbreaking experience of this transport of actions. perience of this troupe of getting to know some of the boys who were destined not to return from missions. Once the troupe miles in their truck to give an un-scheduled show when they learned that a certain squadron's com-manding officer had been shot down

Another camp show unit that started a North African show with an audience of 1,500 soldiers, had an audience of 1,500 soldiers, had the disconcerting experience of seeing ten men leave, then ten more, then another ten, until finally they were playing to a mere handful of restless soldiers. Afterward, they learned that a landing by enemy commandoes had been reported and their audience had been called out to track them down.

Camp show performances are

Camp show performances are often attended by hazards and perils as well as discomforts and inconveniences. One troupe played seven weeks at road camps in the Iran mountains that were maintained to keep open the routs over which supplies and arms were go-ing to Russia. Bandits were in the neighborhood, and the troupers couldn't leave the camps without Air Raid Halts Show. Sometimes sudden enemy action makes it necessary to halt a per-formance in the middle of its most dramatic or interesting moment. In Italy where the players are frequently close behind the front lines, such interruptions are not infrequent. In one instance when enemy planes roared over during a performance, the audience and the troupers sat in darkness for hours until the alarm passed and the sh could continue.

One troupe touring the Iran valley outposts had to travel 140 miles, through mountains, in a caboose. There were 136 tunnels, and every time the train went through a tunnel it was like going into an oven.

At a mountain stop in Iran, the players learned that the boys sta-tioned there hadn't had fresh meat tioned there hadn't had fresh meat in weeks. They organized a hunting expedition and, armed with army pistols, shot 11 wild boars. Their show was a great hit that night. "We gave them ham, and fed them ham, too," they said.

Thus, day in and day out, the show goes on—making every stop on the "Icicle Circuit" along the Alcan highway in Alaska; the "Foxhole Circuit" in the South Pacific; the "Desert Circuit" in Egypt, Africa, Iran, Lybia and Arabia. And as rapidly as our fighters advance, USO-camp shows are ordered up to entertain the battle-weary combat troops and provide an antidote for operational fatigue.

