GRENSBORDUGH PATRIOT.

"THE IGNORANT AND DEGRADED OF EVERY NATION OR CLIME MUST BE ENLIGHTENED, BEFORE OUR EARTH CAN HAVE HONOR IN THE UNIVERSE."

VOLUME 1.

GREENSBOROUGH, N. C. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1829.

NUMBER 32

THE

GREENSBOROUGH PATRIOT.

is printed & published every Wednesday morning, by WILLIAM SWAIM,

At Two Dollars per annum, payable within three months from the date of the first number, or Three Dollars will be invariably exacted after the expiration of that period.

Each subscriber will be at liberty to discontinue at any time within the first three months, by paying for the numbers received, according to the above terms; but no paper will be discontinued until all arrearages are paid, and a failure to order a discontinuance will be considered a new engage

Those who may become responsible for Ten copies shall receive the 11th gratis.-An allowance of ten per cent will also be made to authorized agents for procuring subscribers and warranting their solvency or remiting the cash.

ADVERTISEMENTS. Not exceeding 12 lines, will be neatly inserted three times for one dollar-and twenty-five cents for each succeeding publication-those of greater length in the same proportion. All letters and communications to the Editor, on business relative to the paper, must be POST-PALD, or they will not be attended to.

UNITED STATES.

When I berry, swift as the fiers of heaver, In fury rode with als her hosts and surew in rat down, or drove invasion back.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

On the 8, mst. at 12 o'clock the President of the U. States communicated to both Houses of Congress the following message sensetty connected with every other, and so superior non-portance to them all, that it is scarcely ne- the great principle of adherence to written constitucessary to invite to it your particular attention. It tions, If it fail, here, all hope in regard to it will be is principally as manufactures and commerce tend extinguished. That this was intended to be a Govto increase the value of agricultural productions, ermment of limited and specific, and not general and to extend their application to the wants and powers, must be admitted by all; and it is our duty comforts of society, that they deserve the fostering to preserve for it the character intended by its fracare of government.

(Continued.)

when a sinking fund will no longer be required, the those for whose benefit it is to be exercised; and not to duties on those articles of importation which cannot undermine the whole system by a resort to overstrucome in competition, are the first that should engage ned constructions. The scheme has worked well. the attention of Congress in the modification of the It has exceeded the hopes of those who devised it ment; they enter largely into the consumption of We are responsible to our country, and to the glorito all classes. A reduction, therefore, of the exists of great a good. The great mass of legislation relato be efficacious, and not injurious, it should be grad- Governments. Nothing is clearer, in my view, than ual and certain.

The public prosperity is evinced in the increased revenue arising from the sales of the public lands, and in the steady maintenance of that produced by imposts and tonnage notwithstanding the additional duties imposed by the act of 19th May 1828, and the usual importations in the early part of that year.

The balance in the Treasury on the 1st of January, 1829, was five millions nine hundred and seventytwo thousand four hundred and twenty five dollars and eighty-one cents. The receipts of the current year are estimated at twenty-four milhons six hundred and two thousand two hundred and thirty uoilars; and the expenditures for the same time at twenty-six millions one hundred and sixty-four thousand five hundred and umety-five dollars; leaving a balance in the Treasury on the 1st of January next, of four millions four hundred and ten thousand and seventy dollars and eighty-one cents.

There will have been paid, on account of the public debt, during the present year, the sum of twelve millions four hundred and five thousand and five dollars and eight cents; reducing the whole debt of the government, on the first of January next, to forty eight millions five hundred and 65,000 four hundred and six dollars and fifty cents, including seven millions of five per cent stock subscribed to the Bank of the United States. The payment on account of the public debt, made on the first of July last, was eight millions seven hundred and fifteen thousand four hundred and sixty two dollars and eighty-seven cents. It was apprehended that the withdrawal of so large a sum from the banks in which it was deposited, at a time of unusual pressure in the money market, might cause much injury to the interests dependent on bank accommodations. But this evil was wholly averted by an early anticipation of it at the Treasury, aided by the judicious arrangements of the officers of the Bank of the United

This state of finances exhibits the resources of the nation in an aspect highly trattering to its industry and auspicious of the ability of Government, in a this shall be done, our population will be relieved from a considerable portion of its present burthens, and will find, not only new motives to patriotic affection, but additional means for the display of individual enterprize. The fiscal power of the State will also be increased, and may be more extensively exerted in favor of education and other public objects, while ample means will remain in the Federa-Government to promote the general weal, in all the modes permitted to its authority.

After the extinction of the public debt, it is not without a considerable surplus in the Treasury, beyond what may be required for its current service. As then, the period approaches when the application of the revenue to the payment of debt will cease, the disposition of the surplus will present a subject for the serious deliberation of Congress; of the Treasury, not selected with a view to his and the accumulation of the means of defence, apand it may be fortunate for the country that it is yet to be decided. Considered in connexion with the difficulties which have heretofore attended appropriations for purposes of internal improvement, and with those which this experience tells us will certainly arise, whenever power over such subjects may be exercised by the General Government. it is hoped that it may lead to the adoption of some plan which will reconcile the diversified interests of the States and strengthen the bonds which unite them. Every member of the Union, in peace and in war, will be benefitted by the improvement of inland navigation and the construction of highways in the several States. Let us, then, endeavor to attain this benefit in a mode which will be satisfactory to all. That hitherto adopted has, by many of our fellow-citizens, been deprecated as an infraction of the Constitution, while by others it has been viewed as inexpedient. All feel that it has been employed at the expense of harmony in the legislative councils.

To avoid these evils, it appears to me that the most safe, just, and federal disposition which could he made of the surplus revenue, would be its apporratio of representation; and should this measure not be found warranted by the Constitution, that it would he expedient to propose to the States an amendmentauthorizing it. I regard an appeal to the source of power, in cases of real doubt, and where its exercise is deemed indispensable to the general welfare, as among the most sacred of all our obligations. Up-The agricultural interest of our country is so es- on this country, more than any other, has in the providence of God, been cast the special guardianship of mers. If experience points out the necessity for an Looking forward to the period, not far distant, enlargement of these powers, let us apply for it to Tarill. Of these, tea and cotice are the most prom- and become an object of admiration to the world. that we are chiefly indebted for the success of the Constitution under which we are now acting, to the watchful and auxiliary operation of the State authorities. This is not the reflection of a day, but belongs to the most deeply rooted conviction of my mind. I cannot, therefore, too strongly or too earnestly, for my own sense of its importance, warn you against all encroachments upon the legitimate sphere of State sovereignty. Sustained by its healthful and invigorating influence, the Fedaral system can never fall.

In the collection of the revenue, the long credits authorized on goods imported from beyond the Cape of Good Hope, are the chief cause of the losses at present sustained. If these were shortened to six, nine, and twelve months, and warehouses provided by Government, sufficient to receive the goods offered in deposit for security, and for debenture; and if the right of the United States to a priority of payment out of the estates of its insolvent debtors were more effectually secured, this evil wolud, in a great measure, be obviated. An authority to construct such houses is, therefore, with the proposed alteration of the credits, recommended to your attention.

It is worthy of notice, that the laws for the collection and security of the revenue arising from imposts, were chiefly framed when the rates of duties on imported goods presented much less temptation for illicit trade than at present exists. There is reason to believe, that those laws are, in some respects, quite insufficient for the proper security of the revenue, and the protection of the interests of those who are disposed to observe them. The injurious and demoralizing tendency of a successful system of smuggling, is so obvious as not to require comment, and cannot be too carefully guarded against. therefore suggest to Congress the propriety of adopting efficient measures to prevent this evil; avoiding, however, as much as possible, every unnecessary infringement of individual liberty, and embarrassment of fair and lawful business.

On an examination of the records of the Treasury, I have been forcibly struck with the large very short time, to extinguish the public debt. When amount of public money which appears to be outstanding. Of the sum thus due from individuals to the action, for the brief term of two years. I would gradually reclaiming them from a wandering life: Government, a considerable portion is undoubtedly | therefore, recommend such an alteration of the law | This policy has, however been coupled with anothdesperate; and in many instances has probably been as will give the injured party and the Government er, wholly incompatible with its success. Protesrendered so by remissness in the agents charged with two years after the disclosure of the fraud, or sing a desire to civilize and settle them, we have its collection. By proper exertions a great part, however, may yet be recovered; and whatever may be the portions respectively belonging to these two classes, it behaves the Government to ascertain the real ciples satisfactory to the People of the Umon, will, madequacy of the means provided for the collection secure the proper responsibility of public agents, and their savage habits. A portion however, of the until a remote period, if ever, leave the Government of debts due to the public, & that this inadequacy promote efficiency and justice in all its operations.

lies chiefly in the want of legal skill, habitually and constantly employed in direction of the agents engaged in the service. It must, I think, be admitted, that the supervisory power over suits brought by the public interest.

It is important that this branch of the public ser vice should be subjected to the suppervision of such professional skill as will give it efficiency. The expense attendant upon such a modification of the Executive Department would be justified by the soundest principles of economy. I would recommend, therefore, that the duties now assigned to the Agent of the Treasury, so far as they relate to the superintendence and management of legal proceedings, on the part of the United States, be transferred to the Attorney General, and that this officer be placed on the same footing, in all respects as the Heads of the other Departmen's, receiving like compensation, and having such subordinate officers provided for his department as may be requisite for the discharge of these additional duties. The professional skill of the attorney General, employed in directing the conduct of Marshals and District At torneys, would hasten the collection of debts now in suit, and, hereafter, save much to the Government tion:neut among the several States according to their It might be further extended to the superintendence of all criminal proceedings for offences against the United States. In making this transfer, great care should be taken, however, that the power necessary to the Treasury Department be not impaired; one of its greatest securities consisting in a control over all accounts, until they are audited or reported for

In connexion with the foregoing views, I would aggest, also, an inquiry, whether the provisions of the act of Congress, authorizing the discharge of the persons of debtors to the Government, from imprisownent, may not, consistantly with the public interest, be extended to the release of the debt, where the conduct of the debtor is wholly exempt from the imputation of fraud. Some more liberal policy than that which now prevails, in reference to this infortunate class of citizens, is certainly due to then, and would prove beneficial to the country. The continuance of the hability, after the means to dispirit the debtor, or, where his resources are but partial the want of power in the government to comthe country, and have become articles of necessity our cause of self-government, for the preservation of as the only resource for securing a support to his Their konwledge of the military art will be advantafamily. He thus sinks into a state of apathy, and ting duties, will be felt as a common benefit; but, fing to our internal affairs, was intended to be left becomes a useless drone in society, or a vicious mem like all other legislation connected with commerce where the Federal Convention found it—in the State ber of it, if not a feeling winness of the rigor and humanity of his country. All experience proves, that mies. oppressive debt is the bane of enterprise; and it grinding power over misfortune and poverty.

> on the Treasury have been discovered, which I thought it my duty to bring under the cognizance of the United States' Court for this District, by a criminal prosecution. It was my opinion, and that of able counsel who were consulted, that the ca-Congress, apprved 3rd Marc., 1823, provided for the punishment of fire ids committed on the Government of the United States. Either frem some deto the necessity of resorting to the vague and inadhave been passed for the protection of the Treasury. If, indeed, there be no provision by which those who may be unworthily entrusted with its guardianship, can be punished for the most flagrant violation is time to remedy so dangerous an omission. Or, its provisions, have been rescued by legal subtil- for which an appropriation is asked. ities, it ought to be made so plain, by amendatory provisions, as to baffle the arts of perversion and accomplish the end of its original enactment.

were in possession of the party accused, until after invested in United States' three per cent, stock. the two years had elapsed, Surely, the statute ought their prosecution.

The report of the secretary of War will make you acquainted with the condition of our Army, Fortifications, Arsenals, and Indian Affais. The proper discipline of the Army, the training and equipment public, which is now vested in an accounting, officer of the Militia, the education bestowed at West Point, legal knowledge, and encumbered as he is with plicable to the Naval force, will tend to prolong the numerous other duties, operates unfavorably to the peace we now enjoy, and which every good citizen -more especially those who have felt the miseries of even a successful warfare-must ardently desire to perpetuate.

The returns from the subordinate branches of this ervice exhibit a regularity and order highly creditable to its character; both officers and soldiers seem imbued with a proper sense of duty, and conform to the restraints of exact discipline with that cheerfulness which becomes the profession of arms. There is need, however, of further legislation, to obviate the inconveniances specified in the report under consideration; to some of which it is proper that I should call your particular attention.

The act of Congress, of the 2nd March, 1321, to reduce and fix the military establishment, remaining anexecuted as it regards the regiments of artillery, cannot now be deemed a guide to the Executive in making the proper appointment. An explanatory act, designating the class of officers out of which this grade is to be filled-whether from the military list, as existing prior to the act of 1821, or from it, as it has been fixed by that act—would remove this difficulty. It is also important that their laws regu lating the pay and emoluments of officers generally, should be more specific than they now are. Those, for example, in relation to the Paymaster and Surgeon General, assign to them an annual sallary of two thousand five hundred dollars; but are silent as to allowances which in certain exigencies of the service may be deemed indespensable to the discharge of their duties. This circumstance has been the authority for extending to them various allowances at different times under former administrations: but no uniform rule has been observed on the subject. Similar inconveniences exist in other cases, in which the construction put upon the laws by the public accounts may operate unequally, produce confusion and expose officers to the odium of claiming what is not their due.

I recommend to your fostering care as one of our safest means of national defence, the Military Academy. This institution has already exercised the discharge it have been exhausted, can only serve to happiest influence upon the moral and intellectual character of our army; and such of the graduates as, from various causes, may not pursue the profession promise, and release the demand, instigates to fraud, of arms, will be scarcely less usefull as citizens. geously employed in the militia service; and in a measure, secure to that class of troops the advantages which, in this respect, belong to standing ar-

I would also suggest a review of the Pension law, should be the care of a Kepublic not to exert a for the purpose of extending its benefits to every Revolutionary soldier who aided in establishing our Since the last session of Congress, numerous frauds liberties, and who is unable to maintain himself in comfort. Those relics of the War of Independence have strong claims upon their country's gratitude and bounty. The law is defective, in not embracing within its provisions all those who were, during the last war, disabled from supporting themselves by ses came within the penalties of the act of the 17th manual labour: Such an amendment would add but little to the amount of pensions, and is called for by the sympathies of the People, as well as by the considerations of sound policy. It will be perfect in the law, or in its administration, every effert ceived that a large addition to the list of pensioners to bring the accused to trial under its provisions has been occasioned by an order of the late adminproved ineffectual, and the Government was driven istration, departing materially from the rules which had previously prevailed. Considering it an act of equate provisions of the common law. It is therefore legislation, I suspended its operations as soon as I was my duty to call your attention to the laws which informed that it had commenced. Before this period, however, applications under the new regulations had been preferred to the number of one hundred and fifty four; of which, on the 27th of March, the date of its revocation, eighty-seven were admitof duty, extending even to the most fraudulent ap- ted. For the amount, there was neither estimate propriation of the public funds to their own use, it nor appropriation: and besides this deficiency, the regular allowances, according to the rules which if the law has been perverted from its original pur- have governed the Department, exceed the estimate poses, and criminals, deserving to be punished under of its late Secretary, by about tifty thousand dollars:

Your particular attention is requested to that part of the report of the Secretary of War which relates to the money held in trust for the Senica Tribe of In one of the sales, the Court deci- Indians. It will be perceived that without legisladed that the prosecution was barred by the statute tive aid, the Executive cannot obviate the embarwhich limits prosecution for fraud to two years. rassment occasioned by the diminution of the divi-In this case, all the evidences of fraud, and indeed dends on their fund; which originally amounted to all knowledge that a fraud had been committed, one hundred thousand dollars; and has recently been

The condition and ulterior destiny of the Indian not to run in favor of any man while he retains all Tribes within the limits of our States, have become the evidences of his crimes in his own possession; objects of much interest and importance. It has and, least of all, in favor of a public officer who long been the policy of Government to introduce continues to defraud the Treasury & conceal the trans- among them the arts of civilization, in the hope of after the accused is out of office, to commence at the same time, lost no opportunity to purchase their lands & thrust them further into the wilderness. In connexion with this subject, I invite the attention By this means they have not only been kept in a of Congress to a general and minute inquiry into wandering state, but been led to look upon us unjust state of the fact. This can be done only by the the condition of the government, with a view to and indifferent to their fate. Thus, though lavish prompt adoption of judicious measures for collection ascertain what officers can be despensed with, what in its expenditures upon the subject, Government has of such as may be made available. It is believed expenses retrenched, and what improvements may constantly defeated its own policy, and the Indians probable that any adjustment of the tariff, upon prin-that a very large amount has been lost through the be made in the organization of its various parts, to in general receding further to the West, have retained Southern tribes, having mingled much with the white