The Greensboro Southern Tobacco Journal, after thorough investigation, puts the estimate of the North Carolina tobacco crop at an average of 60 per cent.

The Reidsville Webster's Weekly telis of a colored p et. His name is James W. Poe and he has a lot of poems in preparation for the printer. His volume will make 150 pages.

Dr. Eugene Grissom has been elected President of the Association of Superintendents of Insane Asylums in the United States. The meeting at which he was elected was held at De-

Weldon Fair in glowing terms. It says sufficient stock has been subcribe I to put the association on a solid foundation and that the fair will be held Nov. 1-t, 21, 3d and 4 h; and that it will be unusally good one.

The Greenville Reflector thus speaks encouragingly of the crops in that section: Crops continue to flourish. While riding through the country, the ther day, we saw plenty of cotton that was knee high, and whole fields of coin as tall as the average tence.

The Clinton Caucasian truly says: The grumbling farmer grumbleth still, while his sanguine neighbor continueth to brag. As usual, the truth lies in the golden mean. The crop prospect, on the whole, is encouraging, but it is not so trancendently and unprecedentedly excellent as some would have us believe.

Rev. Dr. H. T. Hu son, a methodist preacher of some reputation in N. C. Conference, has been placed in the Morganton Insane Asylum. BILL ARP TALKS ABOUT THE HATRED OF THE NORTH TOWARDS THE SOUTH

Well I suppose we have got to go through it all again. Another national campaign is impending and the red shift is to be the banner. Already, Sherman has raised it on a pole and we see it. We thought for a while that the tariff would be the issue, but no-they cant unite the party on that. Fight the South is the last resort. It is funny and it is sad. It very four years the South gets awful ugly and don't know it .. We think that we are behaving very decently. We don't think that any Judge in Christendom would bind us over to keep the peace. When any of our men make a big speech on a big occasion, and say anything about the North, he speaks as gently as a suckling dove. Our folks keep on inviting them to come down and see us, and bring their knitsing. Was there ever such a kind hearted long suffering people as our people? The enemy smited us on one cheek and we turned the other. They took away our coat and we hunted up the old cloak and give it to them. We are helping to support their invalid soldiers and their widows and orphans and to keep up their cemeteries, but still they are not happy. They don't like us and they don't want to. They didn't want to give us ground at Gettysburg to build a monument to our

There is Rev. John Rey Thompson, who made a decoration speech the other day that a northern paper, the "Kansas City Times," says was grotesque, extravagant and blasphemes, and its central idea was eternal hate. This he never forgot nor cast saide for a moment. Ho said the South alone was responsible for the sin and curse of slavery. The South made slavery and then made war, and God, had to raise up Grant and Sherman and sheridan to put down the infamous rebellion. Well, now, it won't do for the good conservative men of the North to apologize and say: "Oh, this fellow Tompson is but one man. He does not reflect the sentiments of our people." He does reflect them, or they would not choose him for the big gun of the occasion. They knew his sentiments before they selected him, and they admire him for his boldness in daring to utter the senti ments they try to conceal on account of policy or business. Our folks are trading with thousands at the North who are just as mean and The Weldon News speaks of the devilish, but smother it to get our castom. They will go up and congratulate Thompson as soon as he comes off the platform. Now we put our demands to minutes. That sort of talk has got to stop, and stop for a sudden, or we of the South will go to talking and hating too. We have been holding out the olive branch long enough.

The North owned slaves, traded and trafficked in them, was up to her eyes in the slave trade, but when slave trade no longer paid she sold out to the South and then went into the emancipation business, folded her hands meekly and cried aloud.

MAKING THE FARM PAY.

How to make a farm pay is the great conundrum which every land holder often asks himself, and not unfre qently, in despair, he gives up. La.d. says the practical writer. Joseph Ailen, often fails to produce good crops, not because the laborers have been awkward in their work of plowing and cultivating the crop, but because they her! If the girls would only get in a did not know and fully understand the their shots first and kill off some of | relation of the soil to the crop. Concinued hard daily labor, without an educated judgment directing an educated judgment directing and applying errect principles, may make fair crops, butit will not produce the best re-sults; it will not make the land produce I that it is capable of yielding. One ault with the farmers is, when any crop or special kind of stock is payng a larger per cent. of profit than any tother stack of grain, they immediately turn their attention almost exclusively to that special product or stock, until the supply exceeds the demand, and, as a consequence, prices decline below cost of production.

Farmers should notice the signs of these changes and revolutions in priof the different commodities. They then could to some extent avoid all the extremes. When any kind of grain or stock pays an extremely high per cent, of profit, they should not give all their attention to that special object; and, on the other hand, when an article is selling at or below cost of production, they should not discontime its cultivation or production altogether, but they should avoid all the extremes, and they will find that in the final outcome they will be more successful. There is no one special system of farming, either in grain or stock, that will give a large per cent. of profit each year on the capital in- inflammation. O ME STITE STATE vested and labor performed. The only safety for the farmers of this country is in mixed husbandry and rota tion of crops. It should be the aim to have something in return for every stroke that is made and for every dollar invested. even when only a few house plants are cared for. We expect to see growth and boom to repay the their care.—Ex.

THE CURE FOR DOUBTS.

Many Christians are greatly troubled with doubts as to the genuiness of their repentance and faith in Christ. I have had most distressing cases of this kind, and so has every paster in his work. Dr. Asreibald Alexander was a man of great common sense and great practical skill in dealing with such cases. A theological student once called on him in great distress of mind, doubting whether he had ever been converted. The old doctor encouraged him to open his mind to him After he was done, the aged disciple, laying his hand on his head said: "My young brother, you know what repentance is-what faith is. You think you once repented and once believed. Now don't fight your doubts go over it all again-repent now, believe in nrist now; that's the way to bave conclousness of acceptance with God. I have to do both very often. Go to your room and give your self to Christ in a moment, and let your doubts go. If you have not been His disciple be one now. Don't fight the devit on his own ground. Choose the ground of Christ's righteousness and atonement, and then fight him." I once had a lady in my church who was greatly troubled as to her accertance with God. I tried bringing up all the promises and urging her to take hold of them, but it was all in vain. She said that they were all very good and true, but that they were not for her.

Finally I tried this plan and saidd-"You think too much about yourself. You are all the while looking into your heart to find something there to hang a hope on. But you don't find it, and you won't. Look away from yourself. You are all the while looking into your heart to find something there to hang a hope on. But you don't find it and you won't. Look away from yourself to the Savior. Hang your hope upon His cross; and to prove that you do this and really love and trust Him, go to work to bless and save some one else." She took my advice, and soon found a poor woman who had a trifling, danken, infidel husband. She asked her to come to church with her; but the women had no shoes, nor bonnet, nor dress fit to wear, so she fitted her out with the necessary clothing from her own wardrobe, and then brought her to church. Soon the woman was converted and rejoicing in hope. The friend also lost all her gloomy feelings and her work and try to benefit some poor sinful soul and lead them to Christ. and they will be filled with hope and joy.-Ex.
