How to Leave the Work.

A man arrived at a Dakota town one day recently to look up some account with an Eastern Agricultural machine company. He started out in the country, and soon met a farmer driving a team of mules and headed toward town with his whole family in the wagon. The Eastern man stopped and made some inquiries about the road, and then said:

"Splendid weather for hunting."

"Yes, the weather's all right."

Well, there can't be anything else to hinder you securing the crop."

"Yes, there can, stranger, and there is."

"Break down?"

"No."

Horseback?"

"I drove mules—they never get sick."

"Well, I don't see what there is to keep you from staying at home and working today."

Mister, I'll tell you what there is to an' I just told to M'fthy, says, If I'm to go, them crooks can go to thunder! I'm goin' to hook up to the show. They say this circus is a regular big railroad show, an' mom or yes, 'tells overland Indians with a spotted horse an' a cage of monkeys. Jim says he hears them got old horses for change an' I'd drive a hundred miles in the night just to see him fool the ringmaster an' make him break his mad line, always unless! G'ring them, Ben Butler, none of 'em yet hangin' back with yer whip ready to break them!"—Dakota Boy.

A Dish of Scorpions.

A curious dish was prepared the other day by a British traveler in Mexico. The ingredients served up an omelet, and the servants took very heartily of the dainty morsel. The traveler mistrusted the food owing to certain black particles mixed therein. Inquiring as to the nature of the suspicious ingredients, he could scarcely believe his ears when the reply was given, "Oh, these are scorpions," and an investigation proved this to be true, the lower order in Mexico thus utilizing the young scorpions, which are dug out, hundreds, immature, their sting being cut off before cooking.

The toy balloon maker's business being greatly inflated has an upward tendency.

A man may be able to paint a town red from end to end, and yet possess none of the cardinal virtues.

The men who have walked barefooted over the burning sand of the desert always know all about the times that tried men's souls."

What is this Disease that is Coming Upon Us?

Like a thief at night it steals upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is a feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. The eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and clammy. After a while a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a grasmial-colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, indecisive, listless. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling motion in his head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become costive; the skin is dry and hot when the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the urine is scanty and high colored, containing a sediment of sand. There is frequently a spotting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart; the vision becomes impaired, with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-third of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms.

It has been found that physicians have mistaken the cause of this disease. Some have treated it for a liver complaint, others for kidney disease, etc., etc., but none of these kinds of treatment have been attended with success; for it is really constipation and dyspepsia. It is also found that Shaker Extract of Roots, or Mother Tincture, or Sarsaparilla Syrup, when properly prepared will remove this disease in all its stages. Care must be taken, however, to secure the genuine article.

IT WILL SELL BETTER THAN COTTON.

Mr. John C. Hempstead, of Chelmsford, Cleburn Co., Ala., writes: My wife has been so much benefited by Shaker Extract of Roots or Sarsaparilla Syrup that she says she would rather be without parts of her food than without the medicine. It has done her more good than the doctors and all other medicines put together. I would ride twenty miles to get it into the hands of any sufferer if he can get it in no other way. I believe it will soon sell in this state better than cotton.

NOTICE.

By virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Franklin County in the name of the State of North Carolina, I will sell at the public auction to the highest bidder for one fourth cash balance on credit of twelve months, the lots of land in the town of Louisburg lying east of the court house and known as the hotel property of Mr. W. L. McGuire, merchant of the same place, who sold Mrs. Barton the medicine, says he has sold it for four years and never knew it to fail.

SHE WAS ALMOST DEAD.

I was so low with dropsy, that there was not a physician or doctor who could do anything with me. I had fluttering of the heart and swimming of the head. One day I read a pamphlet called "How to Cure the Shakes," which described my disease better than I could myself. I tried the Shaker Extract of Roots and kept on with it until to-day I rejoice in good health.
