TO DEMOCRATS.

The members of the Democratic Executive Committee of Franklin are hereby called to meet in Louisburg, on Monday, April 2, for the purpose of calling a convention to select delegates to the State and Congressional conventions. The following is a list of the committee:

THE New York World, discussing the new Internal Revenue bill says:

"The abolition of the pound tax may slightly benefit chewers or smokers who buy in considerable packages, but the great body of consumers will not get their tobacco any cheaper if the bill becomes a law. The Committee acted wisely in declining to touch the tax on pipes or cigarettes or the whisky tax. So long as the expenses chargeable to the war amount to $124,000,000 annually these luxuries and vices should be taxed."

DANIEL G. FOWLE.

Since the name of this distinguished gentleman was first mentioned for the nomination of Governor all over North Carolina comes the cry that Fowle is THE man. The Times is for Fowle because it believes that he can and will be elected. It is not for him just simply because it desires to compliment him by mentioning his name for such a high and honorable position. This way of voting for a man in a nominating convention for the purpose, it may be, of tickling him and his friends is simply ridiculous, and no county should place such a low estimate upon its vote, as to do. We are for Fowle for further reasons. He has done much service for the Democratic party and his State; he will make a brilliant canvass he can need and successfully combat with any man in the State on the hustings, and he will make the State a good Governor. These we think are sufficient reasons why he should be nominated by the Democrats. A writer in the News-Observer says:

"We welcome Col. Chas. R. Jones back to the field of journalism. He has purchased the Charlotte Herald and has again revived the Charlotte Observer. He is one of the best newspaper men in the States and we wish him abundant success. The Observer will be strictly Democratic and voids of partisanship. We believe Col. Jones will be a credit to the State as well as to the party. A NUMBER have made inquiry in regard to Governor Scales and desire to know why somebody has not mentioned this gentleman for Governor. For their benefit, and my others, we will say that he is ineligible for a second term, the laws of the State being such as not to allow a Governor to succeed himself for a second term."

EMPEROR WILLIAM, of Germany is dead. He died on the 9th.

It is now claimed that the tariff bill, as recommended by the Ways and Means Committee will be voted in the House in about ten days.

The Wilmington Star says: From an editorial in the Danville Register it appears that there are leading citizens of Norfolk who are in favor of moving their town into North Carolina, that is, to get the State line changed as to have Norfolk and Portsmouth a part of North Carolina. The Register is pleased to say, "Norfolk is "This proposition is startling, truly, but Norfolk & Co., could go much further and fare worse. North Carolina is a grand and prosperous State, and has no State debt of consequence to worry its people and excite its politicians. It has splendid resources and has advertised them well, and Norfolk has, no doubt read the advertisements in the papers. Norfolk always has an eye to business and knows a good situation when she sees it."

We would be very sorry, of course, to see such a fine city pack up his harbor and move away to another State, and yet some people in Virginia would be glad to get rid of Norfolk's "strange" as it may seem. Richmond and Petersburg have long desired to be seaport towns and Norfolk has always stood in their way."

North Carolina has about built up Norfolk, and it would not object to having such additions as Norfolk and Portsmouth would give, a well, and so it would be a good

The only way to get legislative changes in the State is through the Legislature—North State.

A true truth is that the above was never uttered. Our Republican contemporary has certainly let the cat out of the bag, and the whites of eastern Carolina are reminded that when slaves Republicans or independents, as they call themselves, quail at the Legislature—such legislative changes will be made as to redemand their check under feet of corrupt and unscrupulous men. The present North State, we are fully aware, that Republicans, if they had the power, would make legislative changes, and they would repeat the megalomaniac of 1888 and 1889, when millions of the State's finances were squandered and given away to railroads, etc. The Tax Department of the State never failed to remind us here more than once to NERVE themselves and put on a double supply of energy and determination to prevent the election of a Republican Legislature this year. They did not work to defeat all independents, as they are both of them less than two orders of Republicans, but quail when told to do so.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10, 1888.

Never at so early a period in the contest have the prospects of the Democracy been so bright as they appear for the campaign of 1888. From all sections of the country the advices are most cheering, and a distinguished conservative senator, not given to gush, adds to your correspondent today: "Unless there is some unforeseen disaster, not even now imagined, or death should remove Grover Cleveland, we will have peacefully a walk-over, and in any event the course of the party and administration, have been such that the people are satisfied, and we can win with any one we are likely, under any circumstances, to nominate."

The attempt made while the National Democratic Committee was in this city, to make it appear that President Cleveland was to have strong opposition in his own State, has proved abortive, and I am in position to know that there will be practically no opposition to a renomination, and if Mr. Cleveland should decline, the party would not permit it.

The recent indecent assault of Senator Ingalls upon President Cleveland, instead of having the effect desired, has caused a closing up of the ranks, and if there were any laggards before, they are unanimous now, while the Senator's foolish attack on the distinguished dead, General McClellan and Hancock, has caused a revolution among the fighting survivors of the late war and their relatives are coming up in such numbers and violence that even the National Republican, in alluding to the speeches of the Republican Senators, drops out of notice the only Ingalls.

Who shall be placed on the ticket with President Cleveland is now the daily question. Mr. Vilas had many supporters for a while, but he appears not to care particularly for the pisco. Col. Morton of Illinois has many warm friends, and he would like the nomination, while those who are the friends of Democrats who are anxious about Kentucky's favorite son, Speaker Carlisle. But there is a strong undercurrent of popular feeling in favor of Gen. John C. Blodget, and it is generally believed that if the convention were held to day, his nomination would be demanded. He is the growing favorite, and all who give the matter careful thought conclude that he possesses more elements of strength than any other named.

If there were a few more Ingalls who would deliver monthly speeches until the election next fall, the Democratic majority in the Union would be way up in the millions. Any southern-born white man, who could stand such abuse as Ingalls heaped upon the South and the Confederacy, could stand anything.

The Plattsburgh Record says that the History of North Carolina during the dark days of Radical rule should be remembered by our citizens when they think of doing anything that may bring a recurrence of the scenes that then disgraced our State.

The Plattsburgh Record says that the History of North Carolina during the dark days of Radical rule should be remembered by our citizens when they think of doing anything that may bring a recurrence of the scenes that then disgraced our State.

The Raleigh News and Observer has recently published some editorials on the history of those days, refreshing

the memory of its older readers and imparting important information to its younger readers, by recounting the ways and means by which the Radicals secured control of the State and mentioning some of their many misdeeds while in power. These editorials are most timely and we hope they may have their proper effect. The treacherous branch of the outlaws and oppressions heaped upon our people by the republican party, when in power

in North Carolina, surely ought to deter

any white man from now aiding that party to regain its control of the State. Let us not be guilty of solving. We like to put the in-time and again and as soon as they get in they do worse than Democrats,

for we cannot find but few friends

among them, we mean the big Republicans. They grumble and grumble

until an election time, they come out with a smile and say we are your friends. But we are commencing to investigate and when we do, only a smattering of sugar and molasses. We intend to pass on until we find a friend indeed. Individual men and we too must be benefited or we will not work for you. — The Raleigh Outlook, edited by a colored man.

A STRIKE AT THE SUCKERS.

The population of North Carolina:

Negroes 632,603. Whites 807,242.

And about three-fourths of the Republican vote in the State are received of colored men but those one-fourth

white vote gets nine-tenths of all the money spent on elections, and otherwise.

We say to the National Republican party, we want our share of everything good that comes to North Carolina and when you need no help

it to the old leaders, expecting them to carry the Negro vote for them cannot do it any longer. We are Republicans in every sense of the word, but we won't stand by and let them

do all the work.

Whoever is in the lead, we will support him.

Very Respectfully,
