A MIXED FAMILY.
BY ASA GLANVILLE.

"How do you like my daughter with you?" Mr. Blythe asked of his wife, who had just told him of her contemplated trip to Europe with her new-found child.

"There is one thing I wish you would remember—love is never given by coercion. Before that unjust complaint, I had a real war feeling for your girls. They are pretty and intelligent, fine musicians, and seemed to be adorable."

"I said no such thing—I said their jealous actions worried me, and the more love they exact the less I have to give. Beside, do they love me? Who ever caught one of them stealing up to kiss me?"

"That is not scarce if you would only open your eyes."
"Data is my niece are hypocrites? Do you care whether I love you or not? If it is a matter of indifference, go on. Try to make me suspect my niece, and also try to lash me into loving your daughters."

"I am glad you think so; I don't want to force your love and admiration—an rather glad you prefer your own. But you shouldn't wish to force my love and admiration. Why can't you treat me with the same proud independence that I treat you?"

Cotton Seed Meal for Butter Makers.

Of late many dairymen can profitably use cotton seed meal for butter making. It is a good feed for cows, and when mixed with other feeds, it makes a very good ration.

One of the greatest mistakes of the dairyman is to use a poor quality of feed. The quality of the feed is of great importance, and the dairyman should be careful to select the best quality of feed available.

Who are you trying to imitate? The plan is Lucy's, but I entirely disapprove. I don't want to be whittled through Europe by mail. What I see of it I want to see, besides, I hate rapid travel. Railroads are made for the pleasure of travel, not for that of travel.

"I don't care to go," I can stay at the hotel.
"Who can't you go?" Mr. Blythe asked petulantly. "I could put the little ones in school, and you might as well go—you could learn if the others could."

"I don't want to go."
"That is final with Sarah, Julian, when she doesn't want to do anything, you may as well give up the idea of going."

"I would give up anything for you."
"Then give up grumbling!"

Swine Citations.

By giving a variety of swine, swine raisers can obtain a more profitable return. Swine raisers should be careful to select the best quality of swine available, and to give them the best care possible.
