

received wounds in the late war, and who are receiving the small pensions of $8.25 in pensions from the State, propose holding a Convention at Raleigh on or about the 22nd of January, during the session of the Legislature, to petition that body to increase the amount. The amount paid them is too small. These men have been incamped in the service of the State, and the State should be just to them. We think that their claim is a just one, and if it be possible, should be granted. They deserve the care of the State, for in her defence they have in many cases rendered themselves unfit to provide for themselves—Ex.
