

The Franklin Times.

J. A. THOMAS, Editor and proprietor.

FRIDAY, --- APRIL 12, 1890

It is said by some of those who have been there that the scramble for office at Washington is worse than it has ever been before.

News comes from every section of the terrific storm of last week. In Norfolk Va., great damage was done by wind and fire.

INDIANAPOLIS, the home of the President, has already received distinguished consideration. Miller, Attorney-General; New, Consul-General to London; Porter, Minister to Spain; and Houston, Treasurer of the United States, all reside in that devoted city.—Ex.

This doesn't sound very nice, but nevertheless there is something about it that THE TIMES admires, viz: sticking to HOME FOLKS.

THE farmers succeeded in "downing" the "cotton bagging trust" last year. We see the greedy, selfish men who formed the combine before have recognized and propose this year to extort exorbitant prices from the people. If the farmers all over the land would at once prepare to meet this infamous trust they may be able to protect themselves.—Wilson Advance.

And this time they say that the farmers shall pay THEIR price. Now is the time to be looking after a substitute, farmers.

THE Advance admires President Harrison for one thing at least. He is giving the editors of the country more recognition than they have ever received at the hands of any President. If there is any class of men who deserve recognition at the hands of their party, that class is the editors of the nation. They do the great bulk of the political work of every campaign and are usually ignored when it comes time to reward the faithful.—Wilson Advance.

As THE Wilmington Star says, in spite of Harrison, his strong advocacy of High Tariff and the false teachings of Protectionists propagandists and self-interested Monopolists the strikes continue, prices are declining and trade and labor troubles are increasing. Too much Protection will kill any country in the long run. High taxation never made a people rich, but does create a coterie of Aristocrats and Plutocrats. The highway of Protection is paved with falsehoods, broken promises and absurd theories.

Victory in the air. Little Rhode Island has been captured by the Democrats in part. One house of the Legislature is Democratic, and they elected their candidate for the Attorney Generalship, and also obtained a plurality of 4,398 votes over the Republican candidate for Governor. If they had polled 500 more votes they would have had the Governor. In the Northwest gains have already been reported. In Arkansas they have elected three judges of the Supreme Court. This is cheering. The people are already sick of Radicalism and Protection.—Will Star.

FARMERS ALLIANCE.

The County Alliance Endorse the Action of the Board of Trade, &c.

The County Alliance met in the Court House on Friday last, and a very large attendance was present. The Secretary, Mr. J. F. Bell, who we are glad to see will locate in Louisa for some time kindly furnished us with the following proceedings: The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, the Board of Trade of the town of Louisa has taken steps by advertising and otherwise to open a tobacco market in said town, and whereas the Farmers Alliance of Franklin county seeing the great necessity of such a market, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the County Alliance of Franklin County, now in session do hereby endorse the action taken by said Board of Trade, and agree to render such aid and assistance as may be in our power in opening and sustaining such a market.

RESOLVED, further, That the Secretary of the Board of Trade be requested to correspond with the Secretary of the county Alliance on or before the 1st Friday in July next and inform him as to what progress has been made in opening such market.

RESOLVED, further, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Secretary of the Board of Trade and a copy also to the editor of the FRANKLIN TIMES with request to publish.

The Business Agent and Secretary, J. F. Bell was instructed to move to Louisa, where he could better serve the members and attend to business for the Alliance. Unless providentially hindered he will be in Louisa until July next, and will be pleased to see his friends and serve them in every way possible. Headquarters at Sherid's office.

THE post-offices are now receiving right much attention from Washington, and the Democrats are being displaced and Republicans of all shades put in their places. A negro has been appointed at Rocky Mount and at Halifax, and now it is said that Franklin is in danger of having a negro postmaster. The President will not have them in office about him, but he proposes to force them upon the South, where he knows it will be obnoxious to the whites.

The Senate Then and Now.

What a different body is the Senate of the United States when resting upon the nominations of a Republican President in extraordinary executive session, and the same Senate when considering, say, a treatment of some other public measure negotiated by a Democratic administration! How great is the contrast between the docility and subservience of the Senate in the one case and its arrogance and dominating spirit in the other! During the thirty days of the executive session just closed the Senate acted upon 350 nominations, of which only two were rejected. One of that number was that of Mr. Blaine, who had been so unfortunate as to wound the corporate Senate, and the other was that of a California Postmaster who was obnoxious to the members of Congress representing his district.

On the other hand, when young Mr. Blaine was nominated to an important and responsible office in the State Department "Senatorial courtesy" went so far in its erasing subservience that the nomination was not sent to a committee, in accordance with the rules, but was confirmed on the spot. So eager was the Senate to render homage to the dispenser of spoils that it put aside its own rules for the orderly and decent transaction of executive business. But when an ex-Senator who has sat for six years with most of its present members, was appointed to an office his nomination was sent to a committee for consideration, and the rules were observed in his case with the utmost strictness.—Phil. Record.

Factories in Our Own State.

From all over the State comes news of the establishment of new manufacturing establishments. Cotton seed oil mills, spoke and handle factories, canning factories, agricultural implement factories and so on, are springing up every day. Right. Everything of the kind pays, and breaks a link in the chain of slavery with which our people are bound to the Northern and Eastern manufacturers. It will be a glorious day for the South when our cotton is manufactured into cloth in sight of the fields on which it grew and the varied and inexhaustible stores of riches which nature has placed in our midst are converted into forms suitable for our use without having to be first shipped to and from the factories hundreds of miles away.—Advance.

Yes, our people must wake up to the fact that year by year they are laboring to enrich the capitalists of the North. Let us all come together and work to build up our own dear southern land, organize and start small factories in the beginning, and it will not be long before they will grow into larger ones. There is not a town in the State better situated for small factories than Louisa, and our people are missing a golden opportunity.

To Property Owners.

THE TIMES desires to say a few words to those of our citizens who have town lots for sale. If you desire your town lot to grow, for the sake of all that is just and reasonable, don't place a "gold mine" price upon your property. More towns has been killed in this way, when men of enterprise and money desired to locate in them, than you can shake a stick at. Louisa is certainly on the up-grade, and it will be a deplorable fact should any one try to clog the wheels. For years the Times has lent its feeble influence to the upbuilding of our county town, and it is ready to keep on, but when men of means, who above all others ought to put their shoulders to the wheel, throw obstacles in the way of any new enterprise the less able ones are made to feel that their efforts are not appreciated. But after all it is the small property owners of a town, county or state that make them what they are. As a rule the men who are worth their thousands do less for mankind than those who in many cases, have no place they can call HOME. But to the point: Sell your town lots at reasonable figures.

The Presbyterian Orphanage.

It is rumored that the Presbyterian Orphanage is to be located at Floral College. If so, we congratulate her people on having the institution in their midst. What is more fitting than it should be located there, or in this section of the State, where Presbyterianism was nourished and embraced so many, many years ago?

DOGS FOR SALE.

I have three fine Newfoundland Pups for sale. J. K. SHAW, Louisa, N. C.

A Cotton Factory for Rocky Mount.

Work on the large, handsome new cotton factory, which is being erected by the Rocky Mount Mills, is progressing rapidly. Between fifty and seventy-five rock and brick masons are at work on it, and when completed, it will be the largest in the State.

Better Look upon the Bright Side.

There is always a class who are gloomy. They are always expecting worse evils than they encounter today. They borrow most of their troubles from the future, and many of their fears are only imaginary and are never experienced. Such persons live in an atmosphere of gloom. They add much to the evils of the world and are undesirable companions. To a great extent this is habit. Let us cultivate a disposition to look upon the bright side.

Hon. C. M. Cooke and Others Endorsed.

At a regular meeting of Wilson County Farmers Alliance, held April 5th, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: RESOLVED, That this Alliance votes with pleasure the stand taken by the representatives of the people, Capt. C. M. Cooke, J. G. Sills and Nathan Bass, in their efforts to have the Railroad Commission bill passed, and especially do we commend Capt. Cooke for his efforts to get the "Cook bill" through the Legislature after the defeat of the commission bill. We extend to them our thanks and order our secretary to send a copy to the Progressive Farmer, Wilson Advance and Mirror, FRANKLIN TIMES and Nashville Argonaut, with request to publish these resolutions. W. L. CHAMBERLAIN, Secy.

An Odd Punishment.

It is believed, by those people who have had it, that the toothache is the most agonizing of all ills; and we have the high authority of Shakespeare for saying "there never was yet a philosopher who could endure the toothache patiently." It is such a little thing to cause so much trouble, and the pain is so persistent as to seem malicious. In fact, the sufferer actually hates the tooth, and instances have been known where people ground the offending molar under foot—after it was taken out, of course. The hero of the following anecdote had a novel idea of revenge for the toothache: A tall, lanky young man came into our dentist's office one day this week, and told him he wanted a tooth pulled. "Certainly," said "Ambition," with the pitying expression dentists always assume on such occasions. "Take this chair. I will have it out in a second." "Hold on!" exclaimed the victim. "Don't go so fast. Pull it a little, and then ease up. Don't pull it all at once." "But my dear sir," remonstrated "Ambition," "that will cause more pain." "That's what I want," replied the youth. "I want to punish the pesky thing. It's been giving me the devil for a month, and now I have an opportunity, I want to get even by showing it what I—lis. For further information call at Dr. R. E.
