Husbands, Stand Up!

Amber, in Chicago Tribune.

There is so much excellent advice given to wives, suppose, for a change we turn around and read the husbands a nice little manual of correct behavior It is high time some one took them in hand; but, although I have had my eye upon them for a long while, I have been bothered to find a ripe opportunity.

In the first place, to plunge right into the midst of things without further waiting, how do you go home to your wife at night? Chapters have been written as to how she ought to receive you; now let me say a word about the other side of the question. When you find a tired little woman who has been so hard at work all day with five babies and an incompetent girl, callers, and miscellaneous jobs of mending, pastry making and pickling, that she has found no time to curl her hair and put on her best gown to meet you, and what do you

WHICH IS YOUR WAY?

Do you, like a dear old sympathizing fellow, take her worn face into a warm embrace and whisper in her ear. "Never mind, dearie, I've got home, and we'll share the cares of the rest of the day. You go and rest yourself while I put Johnny and Trot and baby to bed? Do you see that she sits in the easiest chair while you skip around and minister to her wants? Do you keep quiet while she reads the evening paper (to herself), and are you mindful of draughts and slamming doors while she takes her ease in slippered content? Do the stars dance the Newport, and does the moon sing pealm tunes? Just about as much as you do all this. You expect hushed home, and the siesta the paper, and the slippers for yourself, to be sure, and if you don't get them you think you're terribly abused, and ten to one flounce off to the club to escape the noise and confusion, but you never consider that the day has been just as busy, and a thousand times more full of petty cares for her as for you.

You bolt into the house, and the first thing you say is. "Why isn't supper ready? I'm as hungry as a hound! Great Scott! Can't you keep that child quiet?" or, "What's the use of burning so much coal? Turn off the damper?

You are enough to ruin a Vanderbilt !"

Thats the keynote of the song you sing. and vet you think it is dreadful if she ever makes a remark marsher than the bleat of a lamb. Suppose you had been a hansom cab driver, a board of trade man, cook in a restaurant, cash boy for a dry goods house, a kindergarten teacher and a hospital nurse for the whole day long, wouldn't you be more tired, and wouldn't there be more excuse for your irritability than when you have simply attended to a single systematized branch of business.

A woman is required to be everything from a reception committee to receive calls in the parlor, to a nurse in the nursery, and a chief executive in the kitchen, while a business man devotes himself to a single trade or profession.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF "SPOONING." And next, how do you entertain your wife evenings? If you were into a neighbor's house to spend a couple of hours with his wife and daughter, how would you entertain them, I wonder? Why, you would put a posy in your buttonhole, and slick up your hair, and blow a little perfume out of the atomizer all over yourself, and throughout the evening overflow with bright anecdotes and be so racy and charming that after you had gone away everybody would say: "What a delightful man Mr. Perkins is! What good company!" Now let us see, sir, how you entertain your wife. You stand in front of the fire and pick your teeth with a wooden toothpick until she starts to put the children to bed, and every now and then you make a few cheerful remarks about the scarcity of money and the general cussedness of children who run through shoes and clothes so fast. When the time comes that all is still and everything nicely adapted for a chat or game, vou draw out your miserable newspaper and begin to read. And you read that paper all to yourself, word for word, and line for line, straight through from editorial to market reports, as if it contained the secret of youth, wealth and eternal salvation! In the same way one might drink soda water by the pailful, or consume caramels by the Newspapers, read by husbands in selfish solitude, are answerable for many wifely heartaches. How many good stories and racy anecdotes do you tell your wife to make her laugh? How many roses do you pin on your coat and how careful are you of your appearance in the long evenings, when there is nobody but her to be captivated by your charms and bewildered by your manly beauty? There is just exactly as much excuse for her (and a little more, it may be,) if her dress is slatternly and her hair untidy as there is for you, and there is precious little for either of you.

You excuse your indifference and neglect and the withdrawal of fond and foolish attentions, just as dear to her at forty as at twenty, with the thought: "Oh, well, she knows I love her; what's the use of spooning at our age?" By and by there shall come a time when you shall see her lying in her coffin, and perhaps, you would sell your soul that day to be able to shine away long years of cold neglect with the manifestation of the love that was always in your heart, certainly, but carefully kept on ice. Call it "spooning," if you like, or any other name of contempt, but I tell you there is nothing so sad in all life's history as the vanished opportunity to manifest a love for which some friend went, hungry through slow years of undemonstrative and stupid reserve.

Business Hints,

A few hints, essential qualifications for the make up of a competent successful clerk, salesman or business man:

1. Always be at your post of duty at the opening hour. If detained from unavoidable circumstances make satisfictory explanation to proper authority. 2. Get down to your work at once so that everything under your immediate supervision will be in smooth working order by the time business opens. 3. Unless a position is assigned you be near the entrance to your place of business to welcome your customers. Greet them quietly and kindly and ask them their wants, and conduct them to the department where these wants can be supplied, or if few clerks are enployed wait upon them yourself. 4. Make yourself familiar with the line of goods you handle so that you can give information regarding them and not have to receive it. In dealing out this information do it in a manner as will please, not offend. Thereby gaining the entire confidence of your customer, who then implicitly relies upon nonesty and integrity, and you will find it easy work to make sales and yourself popular.

5. Never wait to be told everthing. Study the interests of your business. keep ahead of it, push it; don't let it push you.

Be neat in your appearance without being flashy or loud. Nothing disturbs the equanimity of a true lady or gentleman more than snobbishness.

7. Never sit on the counters, stand in the doorway, smoke, chew or spit all over the floor.

8. Do not congregate together. Keep apart, be busy all the time, and impress your customers with the fact of doing a arge business. The details of any business systematically arranged, will keep hands busily employed.

9. Never attempt to overdraw your account. Live within your means and save money if you can.

10. Never ask favors of employers such as signing bonds, standing security

11. Let your conduct be irreproach able after and out of business hours as during them. The inefficient and dontcare salesmen will say these are hard rules to live up to. These hints are not thrown out to them but to those who are deserving and striving to get along in

12. The guarantee of a firm whose successful business men is hereby given that the young man who follows these rules will become a necessity to his employers, and will receive nominally his own peice as salary and eventually become a successful and wealthy business man .- H. C. D. in Old Homestead.

are as a rule, possessed of happy dispositions; but when these sweet dispositions become soured and irritable, in consequence of the long strain of distressing features peculiar to female complaint, they are then not companionable to say the least. It is the duty, not only of little women, but all women so afflicted, to bring about the subjection and immediate removal, of these painful maladies. This is easily accomplished by the use of Dr. Pearce's Favorite Prescription, the great specific for "female weaknesses." It is a positive care for the most obstinate and complicated cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapus or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weak ness," antevertion, retroversion, bearing-pown sensations, chronic conges-tion, inflamation and ulceration of the womb, inflamation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, and kindred ailments. IS CONSUMPTION INCURABLE

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with abscess of lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery tor Consumption, am now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of lung troubles. Was given up by doctorp. A bit of cotton saturated with ammo nia is recommended for an aching Physicians say that the fashionable boa is responsible for many ailing throats. A raw cranberry cut in two and half of it bound over a corn is recommended as a cure. Lemonade is not only an appropriate temperance beverage, but is a corrective of villousness. Coarse, tough beef may be improved by being run through a sausage cutter and broiled in cakes like pan sausage. Cherry wood can be dyed to imitate mahogony by dipping it in a coloring fluid made by soaking logwood chips in vinegar for twenty-four hours or longer. For chapped lips dissolve beeswax in small quantity of sweet oil and heat carefully. Apply the salve two or three times a day and avoid wetting the lips as much as possible. A good way to cook or heat hash to pack it in a buttered baking dish and let it bake brown in the oven, or brown it in a hot buttered skillet or spider and then fold over like an omelet.

Don't neglect your finger-nails just because you have to do so much rough work that cleaning and polishing seem to make little impression on them That is an additional reason for taking care of them.

A Warning to Girls.

There is a certain youung lady in Americus who will not eat much supper if a young man eats with her on an invitation to do so; but when she retires for the night, will take a buiscuit or peace of bread and munch it after lying down. One night last week she had a visitor and didn't eat. On retiring she took a large number of sweet cakes, and when she cat enough fell asleep How long she slept no one knew. awakened the house screaming at a heart-breaking rate, and the people thought she was being murdered. In rushed a big-brother and a married sister, the latter with a lamp. The young lady was in bed yelling, "Oh. don't" and other articulations of terror. The brother ran and pulled off the covering, when out jumped two or three rats and down fell pieces of cake. She was frightened nearly into convulsions and gave vent to her terror in ear-splitting screams. She says she is always going to eat her supper at the table hereafter, if there are a dozen young men

The Women Praise B. B. B.

The suffering of women certainly awakens the sympathy of every true philan-thropist. Their best friend, however, is B. B. B (Botanie Blood Balm.) Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., for proofs. H. James W. Lancaster, Hawkinsville Ga., "My wife was in bad health for eight years. Five doctors and many patent medicines had done her no good. Six bottles of B. B. B. cured her."

hiss S. Tomlinson, Athens, Ga., says:
"For years I suffered with rheumatism, caused by kidney trouble and indigestion, I also was feeble and nervous. B. B. B. relieved me at once, although several other medicines had failed."

Rev. J. M. Richardson, Clarkston, Ark., writes: 'My wife suffered twelve years with rheumatism and female complaint. A lady member of my church had been cured by B. B. R. She persuaded my wife to try it, who now says there is nothing like B. B. B., as it quickly gave her relief."

Advantages of the South.

The great crowd of immigration from this country has hitherto turned westward from Castle Garden. We cannot but be thankful that certain classes of immigrants have relieved the South of their presence, but at the same time one must admit the fact that there are coming constantly to our shores many worthy foreighners who would be valuable acquisitions to any community. The superiority of the South as a field !

Friday at our women's missionery meeting. The leader of the meeting had just finished reading a most affecting appeal from our lady missionary in Kaffraria, and there was a solemn pause of expectant attention till some sister should feel moved to speak.

Presently a white haired old fady-a mother in Israel -rose slowly and feebly to her feet. All eyes were turned apouher, and we waited to see whether she wished to make a few remarks on lead in prayer. One hand encased in its wrinkled black kid glove, went groping among the folds of her skirt. After long pause she drew out a clean handkerchief, still in its folds, and then with an air of relief, alowly sat down again She had only risen to find her pocket .-New York Star.

"The secret of the success of our country during the past five years is that we have paid high wages-that is, higher than those paid in any other country. The result has been that the consumptive power has kept us moving. Yes one million laborers were said to be idle last year. Three hundred million dollars were said so have been lost by this means. Had these men been at work we would have gained all this. How can we keep these laborers employed? you ask. We must diversify our labor. We must open every avenue to people as far as possible. The first duty of a nation is to reduce its pauperism. To do this a man must be given employment at fair wages in the line to which he is best adapted. You must pay a tax one way or the other. Either you must pay good wages or pay more for the paupers of your country. Laborers should be paid high wages, because it will be of the most benefit to them-
