Afternoon Ruminations.

"Tis a sultry afternoon. In the blazing month of June. When we've scanned our papers o'er. And thought our stars there are no more.

Much of work we've done to-day. Sent out bills and got no pay; But the whistling of the train Makes our heart beat light again.

Scripture blanks are worth but aught Not a penny have they caught; Wasted stamps a neighbor dunned. And our coming he has shunned.

Hop on hisken still we hold. For we know where there is gold; All our columns closely scan. There's the patent medicine man. —Democrat.

RELIGION AND BASEBALL.

THE GAME ENDORSED AND LESSONS OF LIFE DRAWN FROM IT.

Philadelphia Enquirer: Rev. Forest E. Dager, of Holy Trinity, R. E. Church, preached a sermon last Sunday evening upon the "Moral Lessons of Baseball," taking his text from Ecclesiastes 1:9. The sermon is one of a series that Mr. Dager is delivering upon the amusements of youth, and contained many unique parallels on the national game. He declared that the game of baseball on a general principle was a good thing, and said: We cannot afford to ignore anything that has taken such a universal hold on the lives of our young men as baseball, and there are many lessons to be learned from it. First the umpire, the most important personage about the game, is the umpire. Great difficulties are experienced in securing competent umpires. And there are not a half-dozen in the whole country. From this we can draw the inference, if man is not competent to settle disputes arising between man and man he certainly is not to settle those between God and man. In the great game of life with God as the umpire, you are bound to have fair play.

A second feature is the need of skilled and temperate players. All the big clubs have found it necessary to have men who have had long practice, and who are willing to abstain from strong drink. This is also necessary to make a success in the great game of life. What one error may cost! It can be safely said that the great majority of all games were lost by one or two errors. So it is that one misstep in life may mean everlasting defeat. Another thing urged is the great need of sinking individuality and obtaining success in general team work. The best results in the church are obtained in this way. Finally, the enthusiasm when the home club wins and the silence when it makes an error. So it ought to be in life. We should always be ready to render praise for good works and refrain from criticism and mistakes.

The Death of the Churn.

Albany (N. Y.) Argus.

A woman of West Nyack has made a discovery, which, if it can be put in successful operation, will result in the abolition of the other method of churning and revolutionize the art of butter making. She put the cream of several days milking from her pet Jersey cow in a thick cloth one day, as it was too warm to churn, placed the bag in the ground in a cool place, throwing a shovelful of earth over it. She left it there until she came home next day. When she took the bag from the ground she found that the cream had turned to a great yellow lump of butter and the only thing left for her to do was to salt and work it. The butter-milk had entirely disappeared but there was a third more than the usual amount of butter obtained by churning. She has tried the experiment a dozen times since, and always obtained better butter than by churning.

A Defaulter.

Ex-Sheriff Black of our neighboring county, Moore, on an investigation by the county commissioners, has been ascertained to be a defaulter to the amount of $11,022.33. county funds for the year 1888. He owes assets, it is believed, to the amount of $5,000, and therefore the payment of the remainder of his defalcation will fall upon his securities. Black had been sheriff of Moore county for a number of years prior to his defeat for re-election last November. He is a Republican and it is said that his administration was an extravagant and voluptuous one. —Ashboro Courier.

How to Make Farming Pay.

"Does farming pay?" I emphatically say it does. I was born and raised in a city, learned a useful trade and always commanded the highest wages; and now leave the farm and get $3 dollars per day, but that does not pay near so well as the farm. To make farming pay it requires as close attention in every detail of the business as is necessary in every branch of merchandise, and it must be strictly borne in mind that all food supplies for the family and stock, as far as possible, should be raised at home, and, too, it should be considered that it is not what is consumed at home, but the surplus that is sold, and don't get up, and don't think the amount too small to take care of, and you will soon see that farming pays and has a snug amount of cash in hand.—A. H. Jones.

A Little Heroine Rewarded.

N. Y. Star. The Court of Appeals has just decided a case which recalls a remarkable instance of heroism on the part of a little girl.

In the summer of 1884 Ethel Spooner a lovely child of 8 years, accompanied her parents and some friends to East Orange, N. J., to spend the hot months. The house in which they were visiting was located a short distance from the tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad. One day little Ethel wandered near the tracks, and as she approached she saw three little children playing on the ties. Looking up the road, Ethel was horrified to observe a train approaching at high speed. She called to the children, but they paid no attention to her, and after hesitating a moment the brave girl stepped between the tracks, and, taking two of the children by the hand, dragged them out of danger.

The train by that time was within a quarter of a mile of the children, and thundering along at a great speed. Nothing daunted Ethel, again stepping upon the track to secure the other child, but as she did so her foot caught in a "frog," from which she vainly tried to release herself. Finding her efforts useless she called to the child, who realized its danger in time to get off the track.

Ethel, instead of fainting as many older girls would have done, shouted and waved her hands at the engineer of the oncoming train, but the latter paid no heed. Nearer came the train, and at last it was almost upon her when the little heroine threw her body outside of the rails and the train thundered by, crushing her foot and ankles into a shapeless mass. It was found necessary to amputate her leg just below the knee. On her return to Brooklyn, A. W.

Tenney, who was engaged as her counsel, began an action against the Railroad for $50,000 damages, alleging negligence on the part of the engineer and of the company in the construction of the plank at the crossing where the accident took place.

The case was tried before Judge Bartlett and a jury in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, in 1886 and a verdict was rendered for the plaintiff for $20,000 and $500 additional costs. The company appealed to the General Term, which affirmed the verdict, and the defendants then took the case to the Court of Appeals, which has just affirmed the verdict. Now Ethel will get her damages, which will amount together with the interest to $25,000. The case, outside of its romantic incidents, is of interest, as $20,000 is the largest amount ever awarded for the loss of a leg, and it defines the law regarding the proper construction of planking at railroad crossings.

A FEMALE PARADOX.

A lady, old and growing older still, (As ladies will grow, you know,) became, In spite of age, as young as youth—but ill, And old, and wretched, feeble, lame and sore. A lady young became in spite of youth, As ladies will, and why? Because the truth, That keeps a lady young, they fail to grasp. And yielding to disease die in its fatal clasp. That truth is that woman's weakness may be Subdued by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The Points of Good Butter Cow.

A good butter cow should have a long face, wide between the eyes, the eyelids and expressive, and placed a long way below the horns. A cow with eyes near the top of her head does not know any more than a man with an eye so placed. She should have a large muzzle, a slim neck and yellow skin, especially inside the ears, the breathing should be regular, the neck and abdomen strong, the udder wide where it connects with the body, the teats squarely placed, and the tail slim. Over and above all these points, she must have the dairy form. The points, at best, are only indications. The dairy form is inseparably connected with a good butter cow. The desirable dairy form is always seen in the best types of Jerseys, Guernseys, Ayrshires and Holsteins. The beef form is presented in the Shorthorns, Herefords and most of the polled breeds. The intelligent dairyman, with a knowledge born of experience, desire and capacity for the business, never makes the mistake of choosing his cow with the beef form.

While it is not difficult for a dairyman with a knowledge of his business to select a cow that will make ten pounds of butter per week, provided always such a cow is within the drove or herd he is inspecting, cows that will make four to ten pounds of butter per week are not to be found in the droves that are driven about for sale. Such cows are seldom for sale except at breeders' prices.

A novice might by chance select a cow that was making ten pounds of butter per week under the right treatment, yet if he kept her in a cold stable, and gave her ice-water to drink, and fed her on timothy hay and ground barley and corn meal, all of which are lacking in protein, the cow would soon run down to three and one-half pounds a week and stay there, or make less and less. Another man who kept his business might have selected the same cow and kept her in a warm stable, given warm water, warm enilage made from sweet corn well matured, two or three pounds of clover hay and a plentiful supply of wheat bran or middlings, ground oats and peas, or a little oil meal or any other food containing protein in liberal proportions and the cow would probably have increased to twelve pounds per week if her limit permitted.—American Agriculturist.

G. M. Scott, of Okolona, Miss., writes to Dr. Shallenberger: "Your Antidote for malaria is certainly the best thing for chills and fever that has ever been sold in the South. I have been selling it for twelve years, and know it to be the best medicine I have ever dealt in. It is perfectly harmless and a sure cure in every case. Sold by druggists.

Thankful for Small Favors.

Col. O. H. Dockery has been appointed by the President to the position of Consul General to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. The salary of this position is $6,000 per annum. There are also fees ranging from $2,000 to $5,000; but these go to the government, and not to the Consul General. This is hardly such recognition as the friends of Col. Dockery thought him entitled to. The Consul Generalship to London, for which he was recommended by the Republican Legislative Caucus, having compensation attached about three-fold to that of Rio, and the same position at Liverpool to which Col. D. aspired after that at London had been filled, being far preferable, both as to pay and location. But perhaps we should be thankful for small favors.—Greensboro North State.

Farm and Garden Notes.

Don't forget the dust bath. Don't plant corn that will not grow. Be sure and test your corn before planting.

Don't plow the land when wet or sticky. One of the essentials of soiling is a fertile soil.

Every farm ought to have its experiment patch. Mix the dry horse manure with wet cow manure.

Cooked rice, fed cold is good for diarrhoea in chicks. Don't breed a draft mare to a trotter or thoroughbred horse.

Don't feed sulphur to young chicks, it produces weakness. Hard boiled eggs and corn meal will make the first-class feed for ducks.

Don't breed to a mishappen, ungainly horse even if it has a long pedigree. Watch the young ewes for frequently they will not allow the lambs to suck.

It is a mistaken idea that a hen's nest ought to duty a year without reweaving. The early killed weed is the easily killed weed, and the weed that robs the crop least.

Don't breed to a horse that is accidentally good looking in spite of bad ancestry. If you are careful to keep the furrows straight, you will do faster and better plowing.

See that the hen is not setting in drafts, or she may be taken sick before the hatch is half done. The man who has all the money he needs is the only one who can afford to raise scrubs.

Young chicks may be put upon a cracked wheat diet after about three weeks of age. Never allow a boar to run with the herd or sow to have corn for two weeks before or after farrowing.

James Rankin says: "I do not wish to see a hen around in any other capacity than that of an egg producer." A diversity of crops distributes work, receipts and expenses more evenly through the year and through the year.

The fertility of eggs must obviously depend much upon the number of hens allowed to each cock, which will vary according to the breed and circumstances. Don't plant corn until the ground is thoroughly warm. By gaining a week in planting you often lose two weeks in harvesting and a large share of the crop.

GOOD SAYINGS.

[H. in Kernersville News.] When a man throws a stone at another he should see first that his own head is covered with innocence.

When a man tries to destroy confidence in another he is only trying to bring their name down on a level with his own.

When a man tries to take spite out of an enemy by trying to destroy his good name, he will make two friends for his enemy to come for himself in the estimation of his friends.

When a man is accusing and suspicious of others, he is only telling what he would do if he had the chance.

When a man circulates a bad report against another, not knowing whether or not it is true, he is worse than the man he is trying to injure. If he knows it is true he is no better. If he knows it is false he is a great deal worse.

Any man that tries to tear down another to build up himself will steal anything or do anything or even eat but of a blind child's bread or rob a grave yard.

A man that will speak lightly or disrespectfully of another in order to get the confidence of others, is a coward, a thief, and a fraud.

A WOMAN'S DISCOVERY.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption and was so much relieved on taking the first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz. Thus writes W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at W. H. Furman Jr.'s, drug Store.

Bureau boxes with red plush covers are the latest novelties in silver. To take advantage of another person's absence to do them harm or say evil of them is the meanest robbery on earth and is too cowardly to have a proper name.

THE VERDICT UNANIMOUS.

W. D. Salt, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles and was cured of rheumatism of 10 years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I ever handled in my twenty years experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the liver, kidneys or blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at W. H. Swift's Specific cured me of an ugly and very painful boil and rising. I had twenty-three on my back and neck at one time. I took S. S. S. and three bottles cured me. This was five years ago and I have had no boils since.

W. M. MILLER, Arlington, Texas.

W. H. Wight of Rogers, Ark., a prominent farmer and stock-grower, says that Swift's Specific cured him of tetter of twenty years standing. Of course in that time he had a great amount of treatment, and says the wonder is that he did not scratch the flesh from his bones. S. S. S. cured him quickly and permanently.

The continued use of mercury mixtures poisons the system causes the bones to decay, and brings on mercurial rheumatism. The use of S. S. The Invalid's Hope.

Many seemingly incurable cases of blood poison, catarrh, scrofula and rheumatism have been cured by B. B. B. (Bottic Blood Balm) made by the Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Write to them for book filled with convincing proof.

G. W. B. Reider, living seven miles from Athens, Ga., writes: "For several years I suffered with thinning ulcers, which doctors treated and pronounced incurable. A single bottle of B. B. B. did me more good than all the doctors. I kept on using it and every ulcer healed."

D. C. Kinard & Son, Towns, Ga., writes: "We induced a neighbor to try B. B. B. for catarrh which he thought incurable, as it had resisted all treatment it delighted him, and continuing its use he was cured sound and well."

R. M. Lawson, East Point, Ga., writes: "My wife had scrofula 15 years. She kept growing worse. She lost her hair and her skin broke out fearfully. Debility, emaciation and no appetite followed. After physicians and numerous advertised medicines failed, I tried B. B. B. and her recovery was rapid and complete."

Oliver S. Cor., Baltimore, Md., writes: "I suffered from weak back and rheumatism. B. B. B. has proven to be the only medicine that gave me relief."
