SOLDIERS MEETING.

The Franklin County Veterans Association met in the Court House in Louisburg, July 4th. P. G. Alston Jr., was called to the chair. The meeting was opened with fervent and appropriate prayer by Rev. B. Cade. The Chm'n, then explained the object of the meeting. Messrs. C. D. Malone and J. A. Thomas were requested to act as Secretaries. The roll was called and a large number of the members were found to be present. Veterans present who had not been enrolled, were requested to hand in their names for enrollment, and several new names were

The plan of organization as suggested by J. S. Carr, State President, was adopted, except as to terminology, the Franklin County Association retaining its officers under the names as formerly adopted, viz: Commander, Vice-Commander, Secretary, &c; instead of President, Vice-President, &c. The election of officers for the ensuing term was then gone into and resulted as follows: Commander-in-chief, C. D. Malone; Vice-Commander, P. G.

Alston Jr.; Secretary, A. S. Strother. The committee on monuments appointed at last meeting, then, at the request of the presiding officer, made their report as follows:

TO THE FRANKLIN COUNTY VET-ERANS ASSOCIATION:

We, the committee appointed to take under consideration the erection of monument in commemoration of the soldiers of the county who lost their lives in the war, respectfully report that after due consideration and much deliberation with many of the citizens, we come to the conclusion that because of the hard times and general scarcity of money, it would be best to postpone the matter until our next meeting; this being the next meeting we very respectfully submit this report.

> H. C. KEARNEY. P. G. ALSTON JR., J. J. DAVIS.

July, 4th, 1889. On motion the chair appointed committee of five to designate five veterans who should constitute the executive committee, and two ladies from each township who should constitute the soliciting committee for the county organization. During the absence of this committee gentlemen were called upon to make speeches. Mr. F. S. Spruill being repeatedly called, "said that he was sorry that he could not say to them, 'brother | ful menstruration, prolapsus, falling of comrades,' it being that he was unfortunately too young to have been a Confederate soldier, but he stood there as proxy for four uncles and a father who had sealed their devotion to their country by their blood. That the purpose of this meeting was one that lay very near his heart, and that he felt 'his inability to convey the sentiments of love and reverence with which he regarded the heroes in gray who fought for the cause that was lost at Appamattox. He said that too high a meed of praise could not be paid to these who died on the hills and in the valleys of Virginia, but we owed a duty far more urgent to the crippled and indigent survivors of that disasterous war. He then urged the members of the As-

made a strong defence of the Southern cause, saying that it was a mistaken idea to call it a lost cause, that it lived now and entered into the political philosophy of every political campaign. Mr. Cade's speech was appropriate and effective.

Prof. S. D. Bagley, in response to repented calls, said that he was ' heart and soul identified with every movement towards bettering the condition of the living veterans. He then made a strong plea in support of the Soldier's Home

Dr. J. E. Malone, in response to calls, said that he asked for a commission. He desired to be a committee of one to solicit aid and contributions for the purpose of erecting a monument on the Court House square to the memory of the Franklin county dead who were slain in the war. Heassured the association of his sympathy and aid.

The committee to name the executive committee made the following reand annually thereafter on such date as may be fixed upon. Hon. J. J. Davis was elected Orator of the day, and on motion a committee of five, consisting of Dr. J. E. Malone, F. S. Spruill, Rev. B. Cade, C. M. Cooke and G. G. Gill was appointed to invite other speakers, arrange toasts

AN UNHAPPY HOME.

"I wish my wife would get well-or something," said a husband who had been sorely tried with an invalid wife. It seems a heartless speech, but who can tell the discomforts of a home where the wife is always slok. Poor food, crying children! No wonder the man grows desperate. But if he would get Dr. in accordance with the adopted plan of | Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the wife, he would find that the sunshine would return to his home. The weakest point in the character of the average North Carolinian is the spirit of unrest which characterizes him; a discontent with his surrounding and a longing for new and untried fields as soon as he grows to early manhood, without any real cause for the change.

Any business entrusted to us will be of his ability in aid of the project.

Rev. B. Cade was then called for and without any real cause for the change.

and enterprise, believed the new world to hold out better prospects than the old. No doubt they were right; and no doubt their children came houestly by the feeling that one ought not to plod along sleepily in a poor country when a richer region beyond holds out illuring arms to him. The feeling is good enough in its way, but the person blessed or cursed with it should be sure he can do better in some other place than that in which Providence has cast his lot before he renders the substance he has for the attractive shadow. This feeling of untest and dissatisfuetion impells many North Carolinians to listen too readily to the proposals for political as well as personal change: They seem to think that any change must bring improvement-that any overturning must bring reform and that reform is always good.

The wise thing is to sit down quietly and examine a proposal before accepting it. It is as unwise to reject everything as to accept everything—as un-wise to refuse all change as to be continually on the move. The really enterprising man seeks to prove all things and to hold fast only to that which is good. We believe that the average man who is willing to work for a living can do as well in North Carolina as in any other country in the world. Our disadvantages are few, while our advantages are great and varied. Our climate is mild and equalbe all the year round. and our soil will produce nearly everything in the vegetable kingdom.

Stick to the Old North State, young man, until you are absolutely certain that better opportunities are offered you in a strange State, and 'we think you will live and die a citizen of this grand old Comonwealth.-Rocky - Mount Plaindealer.

Scotland Neck Democrat. The spirit of progress has swept over many sections of the South, indeed almost every section of the entire coun-What we mean by "progress" a new life of industry, enterprise and energy. Machinery hums and spindles buzz and activity quickens in thousand places to-day where but a decade agowas just waking from a Rip Van Winkles sleep.

But many places and communities have not yet caught the spirit.

And if, indeed, some one does deavor to stir up the people to put on new life and try the experiment of manufacturing, some croaker begins the song of poverty and dins it into the ears of his neighbor until it becomes a kind of chorous in which all join when the leader gives the nod.

Now, such nonsense as this is simply ridiculous. Let the history of the majority of the great men of this nation and of the world shame such a plea into voiceless silence forever. The greatest men and the best men that have lived on the American continent and that have had the most honored records and that have left the brightest and most untarnished names in the great biography of American manhood, have been the men who grew from obscurity into fame and position and power and greatness.

The burning desire got held upon them-the consuming desire and heaven sent ambition to rise and to stand on the high plane of well developed manhood; and to that ambition they made subservient every impulse and power of their capacity, and after years of toil and persistence they stood upon the high emineuce that commanded influence and that brought good to their fellows.

We admire such men. We honor such meh. We esteem such mea We delight to think of such men. We often long to be such men; and it is right that we should think of them in this way. Indeed, their heroism ever chalenges our idmiration.

How many active, noble, powerful young men in this country to-day have made their own education by dint of their own individual energy and perseverance, without the assistance or encouragement of a father even! Many an orphan boy—such a few yearg ago—stands to-day in the front ranks of his

And now shall any town or community in this sunny Southern land whimper and grumble at the disadvantages and say they have no money? If one single poor boy could make such a man as Henry Clay or Abraham Lincoln by himself alone, what excuse is there for a whole community to set up the pessimistic plea of inability to start a small manuacturing enterprise of a few pul-leys and belts and wheels that require but a few thousand dollars to set them

Read the following notice to pensioners and applicants for pensions. AUDITOR'S DEPARTMENT.

RALEIGH, N. C. June 28. To pensioners and applicants for pensions under the pension act, and to others whom it may concerns

The following information is published for the benefit of all concerned: 1. The new pension act does not ge into effect before next year, 1890, except so far as relates to determining the character and classification of those who are to receive its benefits, see 1st proviso, 19th section, of the new act, copies of which will be furnished on application to this department. Pensions will be said this year from the appropriation ($30,000) provided by the old act of 1885, as amended by the laws of 1887, and according to the requirements of the act so amended. This sum is required to be paid pro rata and is likely to be very small, owing to the large in-sage of the new pension act. 2. Pensioners whose names are already on the pension roll will not be required to file new applications, at least not until the new pension act goes fully ints effect, and most probably not then. Further information will be furnished at crease in the pension roll since the pas-
