Lend a Hand.

Men and women are coming more and more to recognize that they are not living solely for themselves.

The man who grunts and gasps as he gobbles up his soup, and at every other mouthful seems threatened with a choking fit.

The man who, having by an accident been thrown once in your company, makes bold to haul your name out, and to shake your hand profusely when you pass him in the street.

The man who artfully provokes you to play a game of billiards with him, and though he feigns to be a novice, produces his own chalk.

The man who cannot sit at your table at any set occasion without getting on his legs to propose some stupid toast.

The man who, thinking you are musical, boros you with his noxious on the music of the future, of which you know as little as the music of the spheres.

The man who wears a white hat in winter, smokes a pipe when walking, and accepts you as 'old fellow' just as you are trying to make an impression upon some well dressed lady friend.

The man who, knowing that your doctor faces him at the table, turns to talk so as to set him talking doctor's shop.

The man who, with a look of urgent business, when you are in a hurry, takes you by the button hole to tell you a bad joke.

The man who, sitting just behind you at the opera, destroys half your enjoyment by humming all the hours.

The man who makes remarks on your personal adornment, asks where you buy your waist-coat, and what you paid for your dress-boots.

The man who lards his talk with little scraps of French and German after his return from a Continental tour.

The man who spoils your pleasure in seeing a new play by applauding in wrong places and muttering in stage whispering his comments on the plot.

And, to finish with, the man who, when you draw back slightly to appreciate a picture coolly conns and stands in front of you, and then receding also trends upon your toes.

A WONDERFUL RECOVERY.

Mrs. Geo. P. Smoot, a highly cultivated and estimable lady of Prescott, Ark., writes under date of April 22, 1889: "During the summer of 1887 my eyes became inflamed and my stomach and liver hopelessly disordered."

Several years ago my health failed me and I was compelled to give up my business. I was in constant agony caused from excruciating pains in my back, liver and stomach.

Rheumatism and catarrh are both blood diseases. In many severe cases they have yielded to treatment with H. B. H. (Botanic Blood Balm), made by Botanic Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. Write for book of convincing proof, sent free.

My wife had catarrh and nothing did her good. Her condition finally failed and poison got into her blood. I placed her on a use of B. H. and to my surprise her recovery was rapid and complete.

Mrs. Maudie Nicol, Knoxville, Tenn., writes: I had catarrh six years and a most distressing cough, and a most distressing cough, and my eyes were much swollen. Five bottles of B. H. H. cured me.

John M. Lewis, Tyler, Texas, says: "I was subject a number of years to a species of inflammatory rheumatism, which six bottles of B. H. H. cured me. I have not felt the slightest pain since."

All words are chaff that are not criticisms for ideas.

No need to take those big cathartic pills of Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Pills is quite sufficient and more agreeable.
