HOW THE NEW HIGH TARIFF BILL EFFECTS EVERYTHING.

We renew our illustrations of the effects of tariff increase by the Radicals as we gather them here and there. The silk industry is in a condition of dry rot by reason of the Radical tax for Monopoly. The tyranny and oppression of the new tariff law can be only seen by the way it operates. It is a system of taxation that grinds the faces of the poor so that the already rich may grow richer.

Here is an illustrative item, which we take from the Baltimore Sun. It shows most conclusively the viciousness and injustice of the new law as to one article of general household use. On the 7th of October a New York importer paid the duty on 1,478 gross of pearl buttons that cost him in Vienna $628. The duty under the old law on this invoice was $157. The additional duty imposed by the McKinley tariff was $75, bringing the total cost of the buttons to the importer up to $1,539. Mark, this is for imported foreign buttons. How is the home made button market affected? A recent circular of Newell Bros., of Springfield, Mass., tells the story: Till the McKinley bill was passed their prices were 26 and 30 cents for a certain number, but now they are 33, 35 and 45 cents for the same number. Under the old law the wire of which clock springs are undrawn taxed three cents a pound, but under the new law the tax is $1.03 per pound, an outrageous addition to the price.

Boomer & Pease, of New York, in a circular, inform their customers that they have been compelled to advance their price of letter-copying books at least 25 per cent. and other goods, with few exceptions, 10 per cent. Collars, says Forsythe, of New York, in a posted notice, will be advanced 25 cents a dozen after November 1. And so it goes all along the line.

We wish our readers to calmly consider what such advances mean. They mean to take out of the pockets of the people a great sum and to hand it over to monopolists and manufacturers. They mean robbery under the forms of law. Even so thorough an organ of Monopoly as the New York Press notices an instance of the effects of the new law. It says, a purchaser of street lead was charged two and one-half cents a pound above the old figure, and on inquiring the reason, was told that the McKinley bill was responsible for it. On reference to the bill, however, it was found that the duty instead of being increased, has been lowered from three cents to two and one-half cents a pound. This shows how ready dealers and manufacturers are to take advantage of a bad law to skin the buyer. Hayes brands of cigars in New York have gone up $10 a thousand all round. So say E. C. Brown & Co., distributing agents. The new rate on cigars, cigarettes, cheroots of all kinds is $4.50 and 25 per cent. against the old rates of $2.50 and 25 per cent.

Dealers in Boston are serving notices on buyers of advances in goods. The prices are up on goods, but there is no advance in wages of laborers that we have heard of. Note that. Even Wanamaker takes advantage of the tariff to send out an inviting circular.—Wall Street Journal.

Very truly yours,

This letter leaves no doubt as to Senator Vance's desire to help the farmers and what he will do in regard to the substituting bill when the time for action comes. We hope this letter will put an end to all doubt about the matter.

WANT GUL FOIK SAYS.

The men oppose any Democratic candidate for Congress in this State, the men who would cause division in the party ranks to-day, and bring about a split or division, are allies of the Republicans, co-operating with Reed's Congress to oppose and injure the South. Let them be known for what they really are.—L. L. Folsom.

SHANOFF Chalmers L. Dick, who made himself a terror to the hordes of plunderers that descended on Johnstown, Pennsylvania, in the days succeeding the Conemaugh flood, and is said to have shot a man who was trying to rob a drowned woman's body, is dead. He was only thirty-four years old, but was a leading lawyer, and had been Mayor of Johnstown—Harrisburg Weekly.

Some Fruits of the Republican Tariff.

If you want to buy a gun that you could get a month ago for four dollars, you will have to pay six dollars for it; one that could be bought for eight dollars, now costs you twelve; one that could be bought for twelve dollars now costs you eighteen dollars. If you are a rich man and want to buy a gun that would cost you a hundred and fifty dollars a month ago, it will only cost you six dollars more now than it did then.

While the farmer and the farmer's boy have to pay FIFTY PER CENT more for a gun now, than they did a month ago, the rich man can buy one at an advance of only four percent.

This is the result of the Republican tariff bill just passed, and proves what a lie the radical is who claims that the Republican party fosters the interests of the people.

But this is not all.

Thanks to this same bill a pocket knife that could be bought a month ago for a dollar will now cost you a dollar and fifty cents; and the price of shoes has advanced from 25 cents to 50 cents a pair.

The Republicans claimed that the McKinley bill would lighten the burdens of the people. Instead of doing that, it increases the taxes SIXTY MILLIONS of dollars a year, or adds one dollar a year on the expenses of every man, woman and child in the United States; it has shut the markets of the world against every product of the American farms; it has enabled the rich manufacturers of the North to charge still higher prices for their wares to our home people and gives them every facility for selling to foreigners at half the prices they charge us.

And yet there are a few white Republicans who barker so awfully for office that they have the audacity to ask a thinking man to vote with them and the negroes for maintaining in power a party that is doing its best to tax the people of this country death!

SENATOR VANCE'S POSITION.

Senator Vance's position on the treasury bill is a matter of deep concern to me and thousand voters in North Carolina, and it is with pleasure that we print a letter from him to Secretary Beddingfield of the State Alliance expounding it. The letter is dated at Raleigh, October 10, 1890, and reads as follows:

My Dear Sir:—since reaching this city to-day I have learned that there is a misapprehension here about my position in regard to the Sub-Treasury bill, as explained in my speech in Raleigh on the 23d ult. I said then as plainly as I could after it, that if the bill should be demonstrated to be unconstitutional by my decision of the Supreme Court, or otherwise, I would cheerfully support it notwithstanding my objection to its practicality, if the farmers desired it. That position I still maintain. I further have stated upon all occasions that I would gladly co-operate with any friend of the measure in Congress to put it in such shape, if possible, as would make it constitutional to the constitution.

In my letter to Mr. Carr, the President of the State Alliance, I declared my friendliness to the purpose of the bill and stated that I would do anything to relieve the farmers from the unjust legislation by which they were compelled that the constitution of my country would permit. Surely nobody can misunderstand this. I trust you will correct this apprehension so far as you may be able.

Very truly yours,
Z. B. VANCE.

CAROLINA CULLINGS.

AS CULLED FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

Another tobacco factory will be erected at Leaksville.

Oxford has six tobacco warehouses in operation this season.

The Bank of Hickory has been purchased by Gaston capitalists.

There are more freshmen at Davidson College this year than for many years.

Railroads run through all but twelve of the ninety-six counties in North Carolina.

It is believed that the Stokes county tobacco crop is the finest ever grown there.

It is said that the Democratic ticket in Wake county will be elected by a safe majority.

The finest crop of sweet potatoes ever seen in Guilford county has been grown this year.

There are sixteen North Carolina boys attending the John Hopkins University this year.

The enrollment of the Davis Military School in Winston is said to be the largest in its history.

The Oxford Orphan Asylum broom factory is turning out one hundred and fifty brooms per day.

Arrangements have been made whereby the street railway of Wilmington will run by electricity.

The contract for illuminating the new Trinity Church buildings at Durham with electric lights has been let.

Letters that relate to guessing matches are unavailable, and cannot go through the postoffice; but they can be sent by express.

The Oxford Land and Improvement Company has decided to build a mammoth cotton factory at that place to cost $100,000.

Five thousand four hundred and eighty pounds of paper were consumed in the publication of the Wilmington Messenger during the Sam Jones meeting.

Senator Z. B. Vance was asked by a Greensboro man how heavy he was. He replied that he did not know his exact weight in pounds, but he was heavy enough for any lad, he had met.

Dr. H. B. Battle has at the State Experiment Station a specimen of the wonderful "Venus Fly Trap"—that curious piece of vegetation which catches and feeds on insects. It is something interesting and very worthy of study.

Tomato Confections.

A very delicious confection may be made of tomatoes. The single or pear-shaped tomato is the best for this purpose. Take six pounds of sugar to one peck of the fruit; scald and remove the skin, sprinkle the sugar over the tomatoes, and let them stand two days in stone jars; then cook them in this juice until the sugar penetrates, and they look clear; take them out, spread on dishes, flattening each tomato, and dry in the sun; a small quantity of syrup should be occasionally sprinkled over them while drying; when dry, pack them down in boxes with powdered sugar between each layer. The syrup is cooked down and bottled for use. When treated in this way the flavor of the dried tomato is much like the best quality of figs.—Margaret Ryder, in Harper's Bazaar.

The End of the World.

A VIVID SCIENTIFIC PICTURE OF THE FINAL CATASTROPHE.

The nebula in Orion, Saturn, and the moon are indeed suggestive of change—tropes, day may be filled, of the first stage, the middle, and the last that matter passes through in the long process of the evolution of worlds.

And, of all changes that change has most interest for us which affects our own planet, the earth; it has reached a later stage than Saturn, though not so late a stage as the moon, but only in long ages and by minute effects will further changes be noticed.

Agés hence it may be discovered that there is some slight change in the earth's orbit; or Mercury, yet nearer to the sun than we, may be seen to pursue a smaller orbit than now, and the terrible fact may come to man that we are drawing nearer to the sun. Times goes on, and the tropics become too hot for existence, and colder regions find a welcome change to warmth.

Age by age goes by, and the end is visibly no nearer; but the figures of astronomers only too surely tell their tale.

Now the tropics are an impassable desert, and all the life congregates around the poles; Spain has lost her vineyards, and the Alps their snow;

England is a burning desert, and Greenland teems with the vegetation of the tropics; in smaller and smaller circles the inhabitants gather round the poles. "All," to quote the words of Mr. Keyhey Miller, "the narrowed limits of the inhabitable earth can no longer support this vast increase in population, and famine begins to mow down its victims by millions."

Now, indeed, the end of all life on the earth draws on apace.

The heat and drought becomes more and more insupportable; rain and dew fail no longer. All springs of water fail, and the rivers dwindle down to streams, and trickles slowly over the stony beds, and now scarcity of water is added to scarcity of food. Those who escape from the famine perish by the drought, and those who escape from the drought are reserved for a fate more awful yet.

For a time the few remaining inhabitants are partially screened from the overwhelming power of the sun by a dense canopy of clouds formed by the evaporation of every lake and sea.

But soon the sun scorches up these vapor banks, and dissipates them into space as fast as they can form. Then the fiery orb shines out in unutterable splendor without the lightest cloud wreath to interpose between himself and his victims. Then the last denizens of the world are stricken down and consume; the last traces of organic life are blotted from its surface—Langman's Magazine.

State Press.

Sam Jones attracted large crowds to Wilmington; and by his fearless denunciation of sin and bold pinning of wrong doing to the breasts of even the most humdrum, aroused men's sleeping souls to a realization of the pit over which they lie. The sermons, as reported by the Messenger are the strongest and least objectionable in expression of any we have ever read from him.—Orford Orphan's Friend.

Concerning polygamy, the Globe would be as energetic as the Messenger in condemning it, the same as it would any other crime, but as the Government has its watchful eye turned in the direction of the Great Salt Lake, the Globe believes that a greater sin is found in tolerating the heretics which exist in all our principal cities, where girls—handsome, comely and all skin eruptions and positively cure pills, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box.

To Whom it May Concern.

My term of office will soon expire, and I have a large number of papers in my possession—deeds, mortgage deeds, chattels, &c., belonging to different ones, all of which I have taken care of and protected since my first term of office. In order that the owners of these papers may have trouble and expense, as well as myself, I would be glad for them to be sure and tall and get them as early as possible, thereby protecting their own interest as well as obliging your obedient public servant and friend,
