Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

WHAT IS IT DONE FOR?

The original and only genuine Compound Oxygen Treatment, first of Drs. Starkey & Palen is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen magnetized, and the compound is so condensed and made portable that it is sent all over the world. It has been in use for over twenty years; thousands of patients have been treated, and over one thousand physicians have used it and recommended it—a very significant fact. Compound Oxygen—Its Mode of Action and Results, is the title of a book of 200 pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information, as to this remarkable curative agent and a good record of surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Will be mailed free to any address on application. Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 120 Sutter Street, San Francisco, Cal. Please mention this paper.

That "Black John Brown."

The negroes of Boston and vicinity have recently held an indignation meeting. They assembled in Tremont Temple and adopted strong resolutions denouncing the white men of the South who lynch negroes for raping white ladies. Something was said against lynching in New York but the South was mainly held up for scorn by these incendiary deists. One negro, named Bryant, favored the immediate finding of a "new Garrison" for a leader, "but if one could not be found up this way to lead us, then there will be found a black John Brown in the South." Very well. The fate of the white John Brown is before those who would undertake another murderous errand. There is plenty of strong hemp in the South yet, and negro ravishers are occasionally proving that it is strong enough for practical purposes. Another negro speaker, called Walker, declared that "the time for fighting had come; that to save our people from being murdered in the South you must get off your knees and kill the men who did it." And so the white people of the South are to have among them a "new Garrison," or a "black John Brown," unless the negroes are allowed to despoil, with impunity, the wives and daughters of the South. Let it be noted that the first meeting to favor such a crusade against the South was held in Beeton by negroes, and yet some white men in South are thinking about voting for the Third party candidates, which will probably enable the negroes to get control of the governments of many of the Southern States. What then will be the condition of affairs in the South? With negroes and bad white men in control of our State government and Northern negroes whooping up a raid on Southern virtue, and the Republican party ready to pass a force bill to keep white Southern democrats from voting, and the Third party the willing or unwilling ally to both factions, the condition of affairs within Southern borders would indeed be horrible. Now, when thus confronted, will the white men of the South shut their eyes to the importance of united action? Can they remain blind to the danger ahead? And are not the love of home, the sacredness of female virtue; political purity and the advantages of good laws sufficient causes to inspire a renewed effort in defense of Anglo-Saxon supremacy? If the white voters of North Carolina will look one way and vote one way, Democratic success, which means the safety of the State, will be assured in November.—State Chronicle.

Tale-Bearing.

Before repeating a bit of gossip it would be well to ask ourselves three questions. First, 'Is it true?' second, 'Is it kind?' third, 'Is it necessary?' This practice would save us many bitter memories and regrets.

The pious Philip Neri was once visited by a lady who accused herself of slander. He bade her go to the market, buy a chicken just killed and still covered with feathers, and walk a certain distance still plucking the bird as she went.

The woman did as she was directed, and returned anxious to know the meaning of the injunction.

"Retrace your steps," said Philip, "and gather up, one by one, all the feathers you have scattered."

"I cast the feathers carelessly away," said the woman, "and the wind carried them in all directions."

"Well, my child," replied Philip, "so it is with slanders. Like the feathers which the wind has scattered, they have been wafted in many directions. Call them back, now, if you can."

Household Hints.

To purify water, hang a small bag of charcoal in it.

Vinegar bottles may be cleaned with crushed egg-shells in a little water.

For toothache, try oil of sassafras, and apply it frequently, if necessary.

Scorched spots may be removed from cotton or linen by rubbing well with chlorine water.

If the color has been taken out of silks by fruit stains, ammonia will usually restore the color.

A good liniment for inflammation, rheumatism, swellings, etc., is olive oil well saturated with camphor.

To brighten carpets, wipe them with warm water in which has been poured a few drops of ammonia.

Acids, wine or fruits may be extracted by first being moistened with ammonia, then washed in chlorine water.

To clean straw matting boil three quarts of bran in one gallon of water, and wash the matting with the water, drying it well.

To remove brown spots from black fabrics, pour spirits of ammonia on the spot, drop by drop, and rub gently round and round with the finger.

Onions, should not be cooked in an iron pan; if they are very strong, boil a turnip with them. They are always best scalded before chopping for gravies or sauce.

All vegetables are improved by laying them in a pan of cold water before cooking. They should be put to cook in boiling water, and quick boiling in an uncovered pan will preserve their color. Never allow them to stand in the water after they are done.

For soft frosting, use ten teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar with one egg; beat thirty minutes. Lay the frosting on with a knife, which if frequently dipped into cold water, will give the icing a gloss. A little cream of tartar will hasten the hardening.

That Pretext.

When a Democratic paper advocates Democratic doctrine, in opposition to the St. Louis third party platform, there are one or two papers in this State prompt to cry out, you are driving Democrats into the Third party. Such an assertion is unworthy of an honest man, and will not be made by anyone who is honest by nature. The Democrats of North Carolina want no pretext for their political action. They will vote the entire Democratic ticket, as heretofore, when they understand the political situation correctly, and it is not within the power of those who have been detected in their treason to Democratic principles to besmirch the character of voters who would not aid in disrupting the Democratic party.

If a voter wishes to join the Third party let him do it in open day light, and because he prefers its principles. There is nothing more despicable than a sneak, except the person who is always trying to find a pretext for doing what his conscience tells him is wrong. These are the kind of fellows who are going to be buried in oblivion regardless of the sources of revenue—these pretext sneaks.—Chronicle.

A Bright Reply.

The Currency Question.

News-Observer.

The Financial Chronicle meets the currency question very fairly in its last issue, it says: "No difference of opinion can exist with reference to the need of currency reform." After discussing the various phases of the matter, it reaches the conclusion that "the national bank note with any kind of a bond security at the back of it, is an instrument of exchange which has had its day and can never exist again." The question in its opinion "is reduced substantially to this simple alternative—Shall the country have government banks for note issues hereafter, or shall it have state banks and local issues?" The able editor of that paper says, "We would greatly prefer state instead of national issues of paper notes. He continues: "Have we not endured enough, and have not industrial interests suffered enough from a central power, a central disturbing power for our currency, to make us willing, and may we not say desirous to secure relief?"

"Is it not time to begin to teach the people that the government is not a currency machine?" This frenzy (for it has got to be such now) must be abated some time and some how. In that endeavor a state bank note system would serve as a useful and impressive lesson."

We entirely concur in the ideas contained in these extracts—and would print the entire article, but that it is too long, although so valuable. The government of the United States has been invested with no power to regulate the currency of this country. It can regulate the value of coins, but that is all. In order to regulate state bank issues, it had to pretend that it was raising revenue! All our financial woes have come from that assumption by congress of a right to prohibit the issue of state bank notes as a means of raising revenue.

One effect has been to foster a habit among the masses of looking to congress for all sorts of things that the federal government has nothing to do with under the constitution. The right of local government, of the sovereign states to manage their own concerns, has been subordinated to their fetish of a supreme national government. Massachusetts and New York have thus given the law to North Carolina. They have become our masters. And a lot of demented cranks and miserable demagogues refuse to seek and obtain the practical relief, to which the people are entitled, of having their own currency preferring instead to beg these northern states for what they will never grant. Out upon such false leaders and blind teachers!

Third Party Births and Deaths.

A Texas exchange has been looking up the history of third parties for the education of its friends who have strayed away with the "People's" party, so called. Here is the list:

1. The Clinton Democracy, born 1812, and died the same year.
2. The anti-Masonic party, born 1826 and though such men as Seward, Fillmore, Weed, Clay and Wirt were identified with it, its existence ceased in 1832.
3. The Liberty party born in 1840, died in 1844.
4. Free Soil or Abolition party, born in 1848, died in 1852.
5. The Southern State's Right party, born in 1852, died in the same year.
6. The American or Know-Nothing party, born in 1852, died in 1860.
7. The Liberal Republican born in 1872, died the same year.

Organization.

The time has arrived for the most perfect party organization.

There is no time for delay. The nominating conventions are just at hand, and in a little while it will be known under whose leadership the different political hosts will muster.

From its formation the shibboleth of the Democratic party has been "principles not men."

The friends of Cleveland, ardently as they may desire his nomination, must be ready to give the nominee of the party a cordial support, whoever he may be. So must the friends of every other aspirant for the Democratic nomination.

The old enemy, the Republican party must be defeated.

In North Carolina the Republicans are lying low and keeping dark. Their policy is to play the People's Party for all it is worth. If by any means enough true men can be seduced into the Third party to give Republicans a plurality in the State their end will be accomplished.

The State Chronicle well says: "From now until November every man in North Carolina, who believes that disaster would follow restoration of the republican party to power, ought to do what lies in his power in resistance to the effort to establish a third party. If the Republicans had been allowed to select a method by which to divide the white men of the South they could have named no surer medium than the organization of this third party."

"I am a Democrat!" is an exclamation of which every Southerner may well be proud. There is nothing in the history of the Democrat party to cause a blush on the cheek of any honest man, and to-day it is the hope of the oppressed and the fearless champion of private rights and public liberty.

Individual efforts in a just cause is always honorable, but in public affairs it is only by organization and united action that valuable results can be accomplished.

Throw out the flag; form clubs and associations, to the end that correct principles of Government may be vindicated in the election of the Democratic tickets, both State and National.—Newberne Journal.

Regard for Others.

Bits of Pasture.

We ought to think of other people's convenience more than some of us do. The home is the place where this thoughtfulness ought to begin and be cultivated. One who comes late to breakfast admits that he is guilty of an amiable self-indulgence but forgets that he has marred the harmonious flow of the household life and caused confusion and extra work. The other day an important committee of fifteen was kept waiting for ten minutes for one tardy member who came sauntering in at last without even an apology for causing fifteen men a loss of time that to them was very valuable, besides having put a sore strain on their patience and good nature. Common life is full of such thoughtlessness which causes untold personal inconvenience and oftentimes produces irritation and hurts the hearts of friends. We ought to train ourselves in all our life to think also of other people.

Mr. Scarborough is at present commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics. This bureau, it might not be amiss to say in passing is of no account on the face of the earth, and should be abolished. It was established by the Legislature of 1887 upon the demand of the Knights of Labor, who at that time threatened to overrun the State. Of course it is understood in this criticism of the bureau that no reflection is intended upon Mr. Scarborough, who is a most excellent gentleman.—Landmark.

The Third Party.

The Mountain Home Journal, of Asheville, a red-hot Alliance paper, under the above head had the following editorial in its issue of last week:

And now in this State the separation has taken place, and the goats of the Alliance have gone off to the left. The most of them before this have been well enough marked, but now when they are denied the leadership of the flock they distinguish themselves by scaling the fence, preferring the predatory existence which the highways, and byways afford. In doing this they only obey the instincts of a breed who are wanderers by nature and by preference. Few fences serve to hedge them about, for they climb like squirrels and jump like cats, and to follow their lead is unsafe. It may mean an unforbidden but indigestible dinner on old brooms and empty tin cans in a noisome alley, or an uncertain and unsafe supper by stealth amongst the rose bushes of the front yard. It means plethora today and hunger tomorrow and nothing but a goat's stomach can stand it.

With a State ticket made up largely from the best elements of the Alliance; with a platform which contains everything they could wish, the disappointed politicians in the order led on by certain men, sow the seeds of dissension by attempting to divide the electoral vote of the State. But the rank and file of the order, the good white farmers of North Carolina having obtained all they asked for, will not be led astray. They cannot afford to run the risk of Republican misrule and the loss of white supremacy. But it is comforting to know that the third party in North Carolina is confined to disappointed politicians.

It Should Be in Every House.

J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpshooter, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, coughs and colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of "la grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barter, of Cookport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for lung trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Mrs. LIPPAN BROWN, Savannah, Ga. Gentlemen—I had rheumatism about two months during last winter, was confined to my room most of the time, I saw an advertisement in the "Shiloh Courier" recommending P. P. P. as a cure for rheumatism. I bought three bottles, but before I got through with the third bottle I was cured and have not felt the least effect of rheumatism since. It is undoubtedly the best remedy for rheumatism I ever tried. I can cheerfully recommend it to the public. Yours truly, D. M. CRAWFORD.
