The original and only genuine Compound Oxygen Treatment, that of Drs. Starkey & Palen is a scientific adjustment of the elements of Oxygen and Nitrogen vaporized; and the compound is so easily used and so portable that it is sent all over the world.

It has been in use for over twenty years; thousands of patients have been treated, and over one thousand physicians have used it and recommended it—a very significant fact.

"Compound Oxygen—Its Mode of Action and Results," is the title of a book of 200 pages, published by Drs. Starkey & Palen, which gives to all inquirers full information as to this remarkable curative agent and a good record of surprising cures in a wide range of chronic cases—many of them after being abandoned to die by other physicians. Will be mailed free to any address on application.

Butler and His Organ.

Wilmington Star.

The Goldsboro Caucasian refers to the Star as an "organ of monopoly." If the Star were to express its candid opinion of the Caucassian it might refer to it as the organ of "a soft-handed son of toil" whose chief characteristics are treachery and scheming to advance his pecuniary and political fortunes by deceiving credulous people whose cause he hypocritically champions, but as this would not be in keeping with our ideas of journalistic courtesy, we can only refer to it as the organ of a galvanized fraud who would as quickly desert the party which he now essays to represent as he did the Democratic party, if it promised to pay.

DELEON, TEXAS, July 23, 1891.
Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.
Gent:—I've used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the sole of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured diffeculty of breathing and smothering, palpitation of the heart, and relieved me of all pain: one nostril was closed for ten years, now I can breathe through it readily.
I had not slept on either side for two years, in fact, dreaded to see night come, now I sleep soundly in any position all night.
I am 59 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles: I feel proud I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.
Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE ROANOKE FARMS.

Extraordinary Crops Cultivated by State Convicts.

Raleigh Cor., of the Richmond Dispatch.

Your correspondent interviewed Mr. A. Leazer, Superintendent of the penitentiary, who has returned from a visit to the State farms on the Roanoke. These are the largest farms in the State, over 800 convicts being employed on them and some 6,000 acres being under cultivation. Mr. Leazer said: "I will have to use a great many adjectives in describing our crops this year, for never in all my life have I seen anything to equal them in North Carolina. We have a corn-field four miles long and half a mile or more in width, containing 2,000 acres. In all this there is not a missing stalk and so luxuriant is the crop that it appears almost black. We expect to get 100,000 bushels, if there is no overflow, and we expect to sell 40,000 bushels. We intend to compete with Chicago in this line. I never saw such a superb crop of corn anywhere. We have 1,000 acres in cotton which is also fine, though the cold weather in the spring did it some injury. We look for 1,000 bales. We had 50 acres in wheat sown broadcast, and we threshed 950 bushels from that field. Our whole wheat crop turned out 3,930 bushels. It must be particularly stated that on our corn, cotton, and wheat not a particle of fertilizer of any kind was used. Another thing particularly to be mentioned is that in all the cotton and corn not a cart-load of grass can be found.

SALES MADE.

"We have 1,500 acres in peas. We have recently sold 10,000 bushels of corn in this section and we will make very large sales of forage. Fodder we have already sold in quantities. We have 140 acres in sorghum and expect 10,000 gallons of syrup from it.

It is as fine sorghum as was ever grown in Louisiana. I want to say again that the finest sight in the way of a growing crop I ever saw in my life is that field of 2,000 acres of corn. In all the penitentiary we have only 220 convicts. Of these about 125 are making brick. Some of the others are in the iron-Shops making iron-work for rail-way cars under a contract with a Raleigh firm."

For The Housekeeper.

The Journal of Chemistry gives the following as an infallible vermin exterminator: "Dissolve two pounds of alum in three or four quarts of boiling water, then apply it with a brush, while boiling hot, to every joint or crevice in the cupboards where ants and cockroaches congregate, to all the pantry shelves and to the joints and crevices of bedsteads. Brush all the cracks in the kitchen floor and in the baseboards with this mixture. A cement of chloride of lime and alum, used to stop rat holes, and the walls and cracks and corners washed with hot alum, with borax added, will drive away rats and mice as well as insects."

This Is Sensible And Just.

Senator Vance, to use the language of the street, "hasn't gone anywhere," nor is he endeavoring to deceive any one. His present silver views are those he has always held, and while his friends had hoped that in deference to the platform he would agree to vote for the repeal of the Sherman act, they found in his letter occasion for surprise not in his views but in the manner of their statement.

In all comments upon the letter it needs to be borne in mind that it announces no financial doctrine that he has not announced many times before.—Charlotte Observer.

Wishing to become rich without worthy effort is wishing that others may become impoverished without an equivalent.

"Hard Times Gone Away."

If one had believed much that has been said and written about the depressed condition of agriculture, and the poor down trodden farmer, he might with safety have calculated upon a universal reign of starvation and death by this time, but what do we see? The country is absolutely flooded with plenty. Throughout the country every man woman and child is luxuriating in an abundance of fruits and melons of all kinds. Vegatables of all kind, fresh and fenier, are ready for every table. The crop of wheat was the best in years. The fields are green with one of the finest corn crops we ever saw and which is now safe from any calamity. The tobacco and cotton crops, while not the best we ever saw, are good and at reasonable prices will bring in a large amount of money. The large corn crop will cause the feeding and fattening of many more hogs than would be the case if corn were scarce. The coming year will find the country with an abundance of everything to eat, and consequently the necessity for spending money will be much less than heretofore. It is true that money, now, is exceedingly scarce, but it is no worse with the farmer than with men in other callings, and the fact is the farmer can weather a financial storm much more safely than the merchant, manufacturer or banker. When there is a panic, the farmer is the last man who feels it. It has generally spent its fury before it reaches him. Before much harm is done the producer by the present panic, we believe it will be a thing of the past and the whole country be ashamed of itself for letting it exist. Our farmers have every reason for feeling hopeful of the future, and the fellow who goes around mouthing about hard times ought to be spanked.—Warrenton Record.

Why Northern Girls Are So Popular.

Boston Globe's Washington Letter.

There's vast difference in Northern and Southern girls. Did you ever stop to consider it? Northern girls are as much more attractive to men than we are. I don't just understand why it is. But every once in a while some Louisville or Memphis or Virginia girl comes up here and fairly walks away with every eligible man she meets. She is usually pretty, but rarely as stylish as her Northern sister.

The former cares more for prettiness than style, though, and wears more dainty little curls and bows and bangles and gew gaws than Northern girls would in a lifetime. It isn't exactly good form, we think, but she doesn't know that, and if she did, she wouldn't care, for "she boys like N," and then her voice is so soft, and her Southern pronunciation is simply delicious.

Her manners are charming but rather gushing, never coldly conventional nor indifferent, as ours often are. And she does make such a fuss over men. She exerts herself so to please them and lays herself out to be charming to every man that comes along, be he old or young, rich or poor, married or unmarried.

And they all swear by the Southern girl. From grandpapa down to the beardless boy she captures all the masculine hearts. Her Southern blood gives her a spontaneous enjoyment of things, quick appreciation and ready laughter that refreshes a man because it's just what he loves to find in a woman.

The Mistaken Man.

The worst mistaken man in the world is the Third party man who thinks himself a Jeffersonian Democrat, or any other kind of a Democrat. There is nothing Jeffersonian in his creed, and nothing Democratic in his confession of faith.—Ex:

Suspect and watch the man who never makes a mistake.

BUSINESS PRINCIPLES.

It is as easy to be a rich man as a poor one. Half the energy displayed in keeping ahead that is required to catch up when behind, would save credit, give more time to attend to business, and add to the profit and reputation of those who work for gain. Honor your engagements. If you promise to meet a man to do a certain thing, at a certain moment, be ready at the appointed time. If you go on business, attend promptly to matters on hand, and then as promptly go about your own business.

Do not stop to tell stories in business hours.

If you have a place of business be found there when wanted. No man can get rich setting around stores. Never fool on business matters. Have order, system, regularity, liberality and promptness. Do not meddle with business you know nothing of. Never buy an article you do not need simply because it is cheap and the man who sells it will take it out in trade. Trade is money. Strive to avoid harsh words and personalities. Do not kick every stone in the path; more miles can be made in a day by going steadily on than by stopping to kick. Pay as you go. A man of honor respects his word as he does his bond. And, but never beg. Help others when you can, but never give what you cannot afford to, simply because it is fashionable. Learn to say "no." No necessity for snapping it out in dog fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully. Have but few confidents, and the fewer the better. Use your own brain rather than those of others. Learn to think and act for yourself. Be visible. Keep ahead, rather than behind time.

Young man cut this out. If you don't fully fix the arguments let me know.

Wise Words.

God always has a market.

A fool carries his name in his mouth.

It is easy to do, but hard to appear to be.

If you want to get happiness, try to give it.

There is no easy place on earth for a lazy man.

The man who makes his own God has not that to worship.

There is as much love in a warning as there is in a promise.

To give pain is the opposite to make happy is the true angle of beauty.

Choose rather to punish your appetites than to be punished by them.

Be still prepared for death, and death or life shall thereby be the sweeter.

Vast chasms can be filled, but the heart of man can never be satisfied.

He is the freeman whom the truth makes free, and all are slaves besides.

When to Cut Timber.

The best time to cut timber is undoubtedly during the summer. Experience has shown that hickory cut in July or August will not become worm-eaten and remains sound for a much longer time than when the wood is cut at other seasons. It is said that the same rule applies to all other kinds of timber. An authority on this question says the worm that most commonly infests hickory is the "Painted Clytus," a long horned beetle of a dark mottled greenish hue. It usually attacks wood in early spring, while another equally destructive insect deposits its eggs in the fall. Consequently if wood is cut at a time when it is free from these pests—that is during the summer months—it is likely to be in better condition.

Mr. L. T. Mitchener, of Indiana, denies, as a pure fabrication, the story that he is organizing a boom having in view the renominatjon of Mr. Harrison in '96.

FARM NOTES.

Give level culture and avoid hand labor on the potato crop and thus cheapen production. Sort thoroughly before taking to market to secure the top price.

The farmer makes a financial failure less often than any other business man. While he seldom achieves great wealth he has a pretty sure road to comfortable independence.

The worst idea that a farmer can get into his head is that he needs more land. We have seen a good many farms, but seldom one where more labor could not be better employed than more land.

A patch of rye sown in July or August will make good grazing during the fall, during the winter when the snow is off, and in the early spring, and it can be plowed under in May and will be a benefit to the corn crop.

The man that will scrub the hens thoroughly with kerosene once just before he hits them will hardly be troubled with vermin. Whitewashing the hen-house with thin white-wash, being careful to get it into cracks and corners, makes assurance doubly sure.

The best time to plow stubble ground for fall wheat is the earliest possible moment. If the roots drag for weeks after the plow, the partly cracked and loosened clods will not dry out and bad seasons thus will be left as they were from the plow, and the work of preparing the seed bed will be more expensive than if done as soon as the crop is removed.
