HESTER IN THE GARDEN.

Fringed with stately garden stalks,
Cut in strips by narrow walks,
Mistress Hester's garden has Firm as Quaker parades.

Not a blossom past and gay!
Faded leaves and withered
Modest violet and pea,
Keep Miss Hester company.

Morn and eve, in soft ray even,
Walks she slowly up and down,
With her eyes upon the page,
Of some quaint old saint and sage.

What a picture—old she know—
Of the simple long ago!
Eow her very garments stir
With the scent of lavender!

MORE SALTY THAN THE DEAD SEA.

A Ton of Great Salt Lake Water Holds About 314 Pounds of Salt.

Water of the Great Salt Lake varies greatly in its contents of dissolved solids, depending upon the relation between the supply of water through streams and the evaporation. A fair average of total solids dissolved in the water of the lake at its present mean level is from 19 to 20 per cent by weight. But not all of this is common salt, for besides this ingredient the water contains sodium sulphate (glauber salts), magnesium chloride, calcium sulphate (gypsum) and potassium sulphate. A detailed analysis of water taken from the lake in August, 1888, was made by Dr. Talmage. This contained in all 19.56 per cent dissolved solids, of which 16.74 was common salt. Such water would yield 30 per cent by weight of common salt to the ton, and of common salt about 314 pounds to the ton.

The Dead sea contains a greater proportion of solid matter dissolved in its waters than does the Great Salt Lake. Much discrepancy exists among published accounts of its contents, the fluctuations in composition being due to the same causes that prevail in our lake. The ratio between the supply through inflowing streams and loss by evaporation. A sample taken from a depth of 1,110 feet carries 25.4 per cent of dissolved solids. This corresponds to 528 pounds to the ton, but of this only 7.56 per cent was common salt, or 161 pounds per ton.

Therefore, though the Salt lake carries a lower proportion of dissolved solids of all sorts than does the Dead sea, the latter contains more than double the proportion of salt. The chief solid constituent of the Dead sea water is not sodium chloride (common salt), but magnesium chloride. Strictly speaking, the water of our lake is much "brinier" than that of the Dead sea, common salt being the chief solid dissolved in the lake. Nevertheless the Dead sea is much more highly saturated with solids.—

Meringue Glace "Without Ants."

A man went into the cafe of a Broadway hotel the other day and sat down on a stool in front of the lunch counter. He had been in many of the eating houses, or "bancaries," in the Bowery and Park row and thought he was familiar with the various terms which waiters employ when repeating a customer's order, but he had a surprise in store for him. When he had finished his luncheon, he told the waiter he would like a meringue glace by way of dessert. The proud and haughty person behind the counter stiffened his spinal column, and in loud and commanding tones said:

"John, meringue glace!"

One of the men outside the counter sped on the errand with lightning-like rapidity, and after apparently making the delicacy returned with it. On close examination by the customer it was found that numerous small red ants were racing over it. He mentioned the fact to the waiter.

"What," he exclaimed in a horrified tone, "ants? Dear, dear!" Then he called again: "John, John, come here. Look at this! Get a meringue glace without ants!"

"What?" said John in a dazed way, while every man in the room turned his head and snickered.

"Get a meringue glace without ants," repeated the proud and haughty one, with emphasis, "and hurry up about it too."

So John removed the small convention of insects and soon returned with a meringue glace "without ants."—New York Tribune.

Lord Chesterfield, being one day asked by Sir Thomas Robinson, familiarly known as "Long Sir Thomas," to write some verses upon him, produced the epigram:

On my subject, now shall be my song,
It shall be witty, and it shall be long.

This individual was noted for being a bore and made himself very troublesome to the Duke of Newcastle, continually calling on the minister, and when told that his grace was gone out he would ask to be admitted to look at the clock, or to play with the monkey, in the hope of seeing the duke. But one day the porter, without waiting for what he had to say, dismissed him with these words: "Sir, his grace has gone out, the clock stands and the monkey is dead."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Foreign News From Afar.

By way of a London paper it is learned that an American woman has lately received what must be termed the most original of wedding presents. It is a magnificent service, of which such plans begin to play a part when put upon the table. The soap plates are accented with marbles as during the temper of the guests at that moment of solemnity, but as dinner progresses and the wine and courses do their enlivening work the hazy mists brighten accordingly till at dessert the covers are ringing out the maddest of polkas and galops.

He Kept Late.

"Yes, sir," said the clerk briskly, "we have lace of all kinds. Would you like to see valenciennes or point lace?"

"It's a shoo-lace I want," explained the customer.—Detroit Free Press.

That a Democratic administration has restored over 2,000,000 acres of land to the public domain, and that the House passed a bill restoring 54,000,000 acres.

That a Democratic administration has reduced the tariff on every item, and thus reduced the cost of necessities to the people.

That a Democratic administration imposed an income tax, which requires wealth to pay its proportion of the burdens of taxation.

That a Democratic administration taxed all money, thus putting a stop to a favorite way of escaping taxation. All money is made equally taxable.

That a Democratic administration has passed the most stringent anti-trust law ever put upon our statute books.

That a Democratic administration gave a death blow to anarchy by putting down mob law.

That a Democratic administration has done many other things which tend to bring back an era of economy and justice in the affairs of the government, free from sectionalism and favoritism, and which will make living cheaper, thus insuring to the benefit of the whole people.

Will It Help?

Under the McKinley Tariff, ploughs, tooth and disk harrows, harvesters, reapers, agricultural drills and planters, mowers, horse-drawn cultivators, threshing machines and cotton gins, were taxed 45 per cent, i. e. every hundred dollars' worth of these farmers' goods must pay $45.00. Now the farmer imports them FREE. They only cost him $100.

In the last three months 1,830,000 silver dollars have been coined under the direction of John G. Carlisle, the Democratic Secretary of the Treasury. From 1789 to 1873 only a little over 8,000,000 silver dollars were coined. How then has the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law hurt silver? It certainly has not stopped its coinage.

One hundred and six articles that were heavily burdened with taxation by the McKinley Bill have been put on the free list by the Democrats. Among them may be enumerated lumber, copper, tin, wool, binding twine, bags and bagging, salt, cotton ties, and agricultural implements. The farmer is benefited by all these.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to merchandise good all the advertising remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery, for consumption, coughs and colds, each bottle guaranteed.—Electric Bitters, the great remedy for Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them and the dealer whose name is attached herewith will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at Aycocks & Co.'s Drug Store.

Carpets were taxed under the old Tariff 50 per cent, under the new 30 per cent. Will this help us? It is a saving of $20 on every $150 worth of carpeting bought.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderson, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction, she was brought down with Painsmnia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Aycocks & Co.'s Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

The new Tariff will give the people cheaper glass, cheaper crockery, cheaper iron and steel, cheaper woollens, cheaper clothing and cheaper cotton and linens. This is all in the interest of the masses.

Some Facts.

The total amount of taxes collected in North Carolina for the year 1873 was $1,895,809.73. Out of this amount the farmers paid only $550,000. In that year $775,000 was expended for public schools. The farmers received more money for public schools than they paid in taxes.

Again, The Executive and Judicial departments of the State were supported by the fees &c., paid in to those departments. They were thus self-supporting.

When we consider these facts soberly and earnestly we must see that we have a splendid State government. North Carolina is undoubtedly one of the best governed States in the Union. Our government is honest, frugal, economical and true to the people. It would be folly of the worst sort to now turn the Old North State over into the hands of the Radicals and their allies. We cannot believe that this will be done. Our people are too true to themselves to thus sacrifice all that they have gained since the days of reconstruction.

HINTS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

What to Do and What to Be—Helpful Suggestions of Successful Men.

Wisconsin Journal of Education.

Mr. Charles Dudley Warner, a famous writer, once wrote the following story:

"If I owned a girl who had no desire to learn anything, I would swap her for a boy. If then the boy did not desire to learn I would trade him off for a violin, or a Rockwood vase. You could get something out of a violin, and you could put something into the vase. The most useless of things is that into which you can put nothing and from which you can get nothing. The boy or girl who has no wish to know anything is the one and becomes the other."

The boy who doesn't care what other people think of him, or whether he amounts to anything or not, is in a very bad way indeed. In the first place it shows a lack of pride. Now there are two kinds of pride—the true and the false. False pride is that kind which makes a boy ashamed to carry the market basket for his mother; ashamed to wear old clothes when his father can't afford him any better; ashamed to say "no" when he ought; and ashamed to ask questions that he ought to know about but doesn't. A boy who is all that is very likely to argue "what's the use" when he is advised to stick to his studies, to be thorough in his work and conscientious in all his dealings.

There was once a little boy who became interested in earthquakes, and he asked questions of everybody on the subject of earthquakes, until he was old enough to read about them himself. Then he became so interested in the subject that he began to study the cause of the disturbances; from that he went into the study of electricity, and began to study machines, and finally learned to put up electric wires and bells. Before he was old enough to go to high school he was able to earn a lot of money doing these things, and had several men working under his direction.

That boy was too proud to go through life without learning something of the world he lived in. The golden rule that should guide a boy through life is "what ever you do it well."

One of the richest men in the country gives the following advice as to the road to success:

"I want to impress upon you boys the necessity of punctuality. If you engage to do anything at a certain day or hour do not fail to do it. And if you find you can not, notify the person you have promised so that they will not be disappointed. I regard punctuality as one of the very cardinal rules of a successful business career. In the store or shop be promptly on hand the very moment you are expected to be there, and do not hurry off in the evening before the proper time. Boys who work by the clock are soon found out, and are not generally in demand when promotions are to be made and salaries increased."

Cyrus W. Field once told me that he considered half of his success in life to be due to his punctuality. He was always at his office at the very minute each morning, and if he made an appointment to talk business to a man, he never failed to keep it.

"I have made thousands upon thousands of dollars by being on hand at the right moment, and I consider punctuality as strong a point in a business man's favor as,—well, it is second only to honesty."

"Once that your employer understands that you are faithful in getting to work at the hour he has engaged you to begin, he will have more confidence in you, and your chances of promotion will be far better than those of the boy who sneaks in a half hour late each morning with some poor excuse for his tardiness."
