Nobody. Republicans Stand by the Trusts.

Who sympathizes with my pain?

There are thirty-five Democrats in the United States Senate who stand for tariff reform. There are nine Democrats who are traitors to their party and to the people. The nine traitors would not have the power to put one nickle in the treasury of a thieving tariff trust were it not for the fact that thirty-eight Republican Senators stand in solid phalanx in defense of the trusts. Yet the Republican press is trying to make party capital out of the situation .- Chicago Herald.

His favorite clerk was somewhat of an amateur sport, and 8 o'clock in the morning was often too early for his comfort. His charming personality, undoubted business abilities and success as a salesman placed him high in the estimation of his employer, who overlooked his slight but frequent digressions from the straight path of punctuality oftener than he did with the other clerks and salesmen.

BETTER THAN COTTON.

Necessity is the mother of inrention. The necessities of our farmers will compel them to find another money crop more profitable than cotton. No one crop is likely to supplant cotton, but a most highly protected ?- Louisvariety of agricultural products must and will. With cotton at 5 cents no farmer in North Carolina can get along unless he makes what he consumes at home. The only salvation for our people is to make everything they consume

> But the question arises, how are clothing and education to be provided, and debts to be paid? This is indeed a perplexing question which time alone can fully answer. At this juncture, we would unbesitatingly advise our farmer friends to give more attention to the breeding of stock and hogs, and especially hogs. While cotton is quoted at 4 and 5 cents a pound pork is quoted in the leading markets at 12 and 13 cents. There is no question at these prices which pays better. At present prices bogs are a good
