SIXTY DOLLARS PER CAPITA.

The cotton crop of Fannin county this year will bring the farmers about $3,000,000. This is $60 each for every man, woman and child in the county. Even a Populist will admit that this is a pretty good "per capita circulation," and it's "sound money" at that. But now that our farmers have so much money in their hands, what will they do with it? Well, let us just take for example one man that we know of, for he is an average Texas farmer so far as methods are concerned. He has a wife and four children. They make six in family, so he is entitled to $360 as his pro rata of the money. He got a little more than this, but we just use this amount as his share of the entire crop. He raised a big cotton crop on rented land, and he had a large yield per acre. He first sold five bales for which he received $112.70. He took this money and went to his grocer, who had furnished him supplies for the year, and he was rather a careful man, he asked for an itemized account of his bill. He was furnished with one, and he saw by glancing at the total that his $112.70 would not pay his grocery account. He was a little nettled and not quite a little surprised at this, and he looked carefully at each item to see why his bill was so large. There was not an item but was correct. Now what do you suppose was the biggest item of that bill? Why it was meat and lard. The next was flour and meal. And strange to say there were items for potatoes, and a few apples, and some baled hay and corn. By the time he paid all that account, settled his bill at the hardware store for the implements with which he raised his crop, and paid for picking the cotton had $64.30 left out of his $360 with which to buy his clothes, his drugs and other necessary expenses. He had worked hard, had raised no provisions for the coming year, had but little money left, and consequently he felt pretty blue.

Now let us suppose that he had planted only half as much cotton as he did, but had raised his own meat and lard, his own flour and meal, his potatoes and corn, and had enough to do him the coming year. Then with his $180 that his cotton brought him he would have to buy his clothes, medicine, etc. Still would he not be in a much better condition than he is now? He would have to go in debt for nothing next year, and have a little ready money, where-as he is, he must depend on his grocer, his dry goods man and his hardware merchant for whatever he gets. The money he got for his cotton has all gone North and East to pay for his living, and there is no money left to circulate here until the next cotton crop comes in.—Bonham News.

Four Cent Cotton.

Farm and Ranch. Texas Farm and Ranch has for years advocated the policy of farming to save as well as to make money, for a dollar saved is as good as a dollar earned, and a good deal better than a dollar earned by selling 25 pounds of cotton and spend for 8 pounds of bran. No argument is needed to show that too much attention has been given to cotton, and that the policy is nearing, if it has not already reached, a point of great danger. Let the observant farmer look about him, and see that those of his neighbors who raise a "little of everything," from cattle to cabbage, from hogs to honey, and from poultry to peanuts, are the ones who live best, are the nearest out of debt, have the most money at all seasons, and are most exempt from financial adversity in all its forms. "But," says the cotton crank, "there is no reliable market for anything we can raise but cotton." This is an error, and will be, until we cease to import food products from other States. Bacon, lard and other bog products, beef and the preparations thereof, butter, cheese and even ordinary garden vegetables and fruits, not by carloads, but by entire train loads, seek our principle markets every day in the year, and sold to consumers on the ordinary terms, and afford a profit to producers and middle-men. All these things farmers should produce not only for the home market, but for export, for the extreme Southwest has advantages of soil and climate that ought to command at least the early markets of the North and West.

The experience of cotton farmers this year makes it absolutely necessary that something be done and that speedily, to supply the place of a large portion of our annual cotton crop. Four cents a pound, with a prospect for still lower figures, an enormous crop, and a big surplus, are the facts to be considered. There is nothing in the visible future to change these conditions but a reduced production. Manufacturers will not, as they once did, stock up for many months ahead. It is not suitable financial weather for such practices to prevail; and for the same reason speculators will not invest in millions of bales to be held for a rise. The course of our farmers heretofore has not been such as to encourage the hope of higher prices, based on a reduction of acreage. Hereafter, in a more marked manner than heretofore, will the farmer who gives much of his time and labor to improved live stock, and to the production of what himself and his neighbors want, and much less of cotton, be independent and prosperous. In Texas, where almost every agricultural and horticultural product of the Temperate Zone can be raised in great abundance, no man need be the slave of King Cotton, unless he bows his head and voluntarily assumes the yoke.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Gallonette, Druggist, Reaserville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. I was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use, and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We once all who are afflicted to procure it. Get a free trial at Aycock & Co.'s Drug Store."

He Knew Where to Go.

"Can you match this piece of calico?" said Farmer Oldtime as he entered Cobwebb's dry goods store. "Guess so," replied Cobwebb, as he reached for the roll of dust covered goods on the shelf. "Give me a quarter of a yard. Mandy wants to make over a dress she bought nine years ago and a clerk at Wholesale's told me I could find it here because you never advertised any."

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of Headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We cure all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only fifty cents at Aycock & Co.'s Drug Store.

Clever.

An actor now famous made his first appearance on the stage in a provincial city. He was young and nervous and failed dismally in the part he was trying to present and soon found himself the target for an assortment of disagreeable bric-a-brac. One of his disgusted auditors flung a cabbage head at him. As it fell on the stage the actor picked it up and stepped forward to the lights. He raised his hand to command silence, and pointing to the cabbage head said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I expected to please you with my acting, but I confess I did not expect that anyone in the audience would lose his head over it." He was allowed to proceed without further molestation.—Tit Bits.

HARPER'S WEEKLY. IN 1895. Harper's Weekly is a pictorial history of the times. It presents every important event promptly, accurately, and exhaustively in illustration and descriptive text of the highest order. The manner in which, during 1894, it has treated the Chicago Railway strikes and the China-Japanese war, and the amount of light it was able to throw on Korea the instant attention was directed to that little-known country, are examples of its almost boundless resources. Julian Ralph, the distinguished writer, and correspondent, has been sent to the seat of war, and there joined by C. D. Weldon, the well-known American artist, now for many years resident in Japan, who has been engaged to co-operate with Mr. Ralph in sending to Harper's Weekly exclusive illustrations and illustrations. During 1895 every vital question will be discussed with vigor and without prejudice in the editorial columns, and also in special articles by the biggest authorities in each department. Portraits of the men and women who are making history, and powerful and amusing political cartoons, will continue to be characteristic features. This Busy World, with its keen and kind comment on the lesser doings of the day, will remain a regular department. Fiction. There will be two powerful serials, both handsomely illustrated.—The Kenyon, a dramatic romance of olden days by Stanley J. Weisman, and a novel of New York, entitled The Son of His Father, by Brander Matthews—several novelettes, and many short stories by popular writers. Send for Illustrated Prospectus.

The volumes of the Weekly begin with the first number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of order. Clubs for each volume, suitable for binding, will be sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of $1.00 each. Title-page and index sent on application. Remittances should be made by Postoffice Money Order or Draft, to avoid chance of loss. Newspapers are not to copy this advertisement without the express order of HARPER & BROTHERS.

HARPER'S BAZAR. IN 1895.

Elegant and exclusive designs for our door and interior drapery, drawn from the most modern styles of Paris and Chicago, are an important feature. These appear every week, accompanied by minute descriptions and details. Our Paris letter, by Katharine Forest, is a weekly transcript of the latest styles and caprices in the mode. Under the head of New York Fashions, plain directions and full particulars are given as to shapes, fabrics, trimmings and accessories of the costumes of well-dressed women. Children's clothing receives special attention. The best man who takes Harper's Bazar is prepared for every occasion in life, ceremonious or informal, where beautiful dress is required. An American Beauty, Doctor Warrick's Daughters, by Rebecca Harding Davis, a strong novel of American life, partly set in Pennsylvania and partly in the South, will occupy the last half of the year. My Lady Nobody, an intensely exciting novel, by Marion Martens, author of "Glad's Foot," "The Greater Glory," etc., will begin the year. Essays and Social Chats. To this department Spectator will contribute his charming on "What We are Doing" in New York society. Answers to Correspondents. Questions receive the personal attention of the editor, and are answered at the earliest possible date after their receipt. Send for Illustrated Prospectus.

The volumes of the Bazar begin with the first number for January of each year. When no time is mentioned, subscriptions will begin with the volume current at time of receipt of order. Louisburg, N. C., Aug. 10th, '94.

LOUISBURG Carriage Shops,

H. C. TAYLOR, Proprietor. If your Carriage, Buggy, Wagon or anything in that line needs repairing and you want it done right, bring it to me, and if you want your Carriage or Buggy repainted in a first-class manner, bring it to me also. I have served my time under a first-class painter and wood workman, can therefore guarantee satisfaction in all work entrusted to me.

I have a first-class black smith in the blacksmith shop who fully understands everything about his business, from shoeing a horse to ironing a fine buggy.

It does not pay to have your work botched up, so bring it along to me where it WILL BE DONE RIGHT, my prices are reasonable.

I make Buggies and Wagons to order. If you want a good HOME-MADE Buggy or Wagon, give me your orders, and you shall have what you want.

Thanking my friends for their patronage in the past and soliciting the same in future, I am, Yours very respectfully,
H. C. TAYLOR.
