MY CALLERS.

As I was in my hammock one midsummer day, Carelessly dreaming the long hour away, First came a big bumblebee, noisy and bold, Elicly dressed in a suit of black velvet and gold.

And next a gay butterfly came sailing by,
With wings edged with polka dots, blue as the sky.
Then I heard a moment to bid me "Good day," Then lightly and gracefully fluttered away.

The last of my callers, an impudent chap, Persisted in spelling my afternoon nap.
In vain all my efforts to drive him away,
The ill-mannered fellow determined to stay.

He lit on my cheek and he muzzled in my ear.
"You don't like the song of mosquitoes, that's clear,
But invite me to dine and then you'll perceive How quickly your troublesome caller will leave."

This seemed a strange way to get rid of a guest!
Do you think it would prove the wisest and best?
What effect would it have on some callers you know?
If you asked them to dine, do you think they would go?
—New England Kitchen Magazine.

BETTER THAN A NOVEL.

Because It Is Shorter, and It May Be Just as True.

In the year 1802 the land that now comprises Delaware county, O., was the hunting grounds of the Delaware Indians. The Sachem Nochestrea, Moon That's Full, had two wives. Laughing Brook, who had a daughter named Wild Flower, whose lover was a young chief of the Wyandot tribe. The second wife was named Old Woman That Scolds.
She also had a daughter, Fleet as the Wind, who was also in love with the Wyandot chief, who preferred Wild Flower.

The old sachem possessed a great treasure, the secret of which he confided to Laughing Brook. Old Woman That Scolds and her daughter attempted to murder Laughing Brook and Wild Flower to get the secret.

Laughing Brook died, but before her death told her daughter that the treasure was buried in a cave on the east bank of the Scioto river, about one mile south of where the village of Bellepoint now stands. Wild Flower fled after her mother's death, married the Wyandot chief and went west with him.

In the fall of 1872 she adopted a white girl baby that the tribe had stolen from a wealthy family in Illinois. The baby never knew her parents and believed herself to be a true Indian until the fall of 1893, when Wild Flower told her the story of her birth and also the story of the treasure cave, which she had never before told to a living soul.

The girl's name among the Indians was Deermeeida, meaning Like the Dove, but the name her parents had given her was Nellie King.

After hearing the remarkable story of Wild Flower, Miss Nellie made up her mind she would in the spring seek out the cave on the banks of the Scioto and with the money try and find her parents among her own people.

Nellie had a good education, having attended the Indian school for many years, and was besides very pretty. She had a friend, an Indian about 65 years old, who had been her companion from childhood. He would not listen to her going alone, so she told him of the treasure cave, and they came to Delaware on April 7, 1894.

After resting in Delaware for a day or two Miss Nellie and her old friend, the Indian, went to the country in the vicinity of Bellepoint and procured board and lodging at a farmhouse close to where the supposed hidden treasure was to be found. They spent most of their time on the river in a canoe, examining the banks and looking for the cave until they were regarded with suspicion by the good country folks, for they kept their secret. One morning after a heavy rain they went in their boat on the river as usual, hunting for some trace of the cave. The river had risen to a great height and was bank full. A floating log demolished the frail craft. The Indian was thrown out of the boat, and striking on his head against a floating log met his death.

Nellie would have been drowned had she not been seen by one of a party of campers, who had strayed from his camp at Millville, to boat down the stream in a boat watching out for wild ducks. Before she sank the second time the hunter pulled her into his boat. Her companion introduced himself as Dave Norton of Delaware. He took her to his boarding house and promised to find the body of the Indian, but was unsuccessful.

Dave's acquaintance with Nellie ripened into love. Nellie reciprocated.
They took up the hunt for the cave together, but the high waters had washed away all traces to the cave, and to this day the treasure is unknown. Shortly after this Dave and Nellie were married, and with the assistance of Ben S. Lee she has been able to find her relatives, who are prominent and wealthy people of Chicago. —Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

No Respect For the Lawmakers Anyway.
"There seems to be very little respect for the law in this place," the tourist ventured to remark.
"Stranger," said the native saddy, "this here used to be the law abid-est place in 17 states till Bill Jones he went to the statehouse an seen what sort of fellers runs the government. Why, friend, they wasn't a one of 'em that didn't hev blackened shoes an a collar on." —Indianapolis Journal.

The Lioness' Friend.
At one time a lioness in the Dublin zoo was troubled by rats nibbling her toes while she slept. A terrier was placed in the cage, and on seeing his efforts to drive rats away the queen of beasts literally took the ferrier to her breast, in which position he reposed every night. —Cleveland Leader.

Great Showing.
"When I first took hold of this place," said the new proprietor of the grocery store on the corner, "it was doing absolutely nothing, and now the business has doubled." — Chicago Tribune.

THE OLD MINER'S STORY.

Arizona Crickets Seem to Travel Eight Miles an Hour.

The truth of the following tale cannot be vouched for. It ought to be true—probably is, as it was told the other day to a small party in an up town club by an old mining engineer from Arizona who has heretofore always borne a reputation for veracity.

"You know," he said, "that one of the most troublesome qualities about giant powder which we use in our work is the fact that the concussion caused by one explosion explodes any other powder which happens to be near at hand. Fatal accidents are often the result. And yet this same quality allowed me to ascertain what I often desired to know—just how fast crickets migrated. They travel eight miles an hour, gentlemen. I found it this way. Last summer an old miner and myself were making our way across one of the plains near Prescott to a claim some miles distant.
Night came on before we reached our destination, and we were compelled to build a fire on the trail and fix ourselves until daylight came.
We had with us three sticks of giant powder, which, for safety's sake, we carefully laid on the trail about 100 yards from our fire.

"Toward 10 o'clock we began to be disturbed by a great number of those big Arizona crickets, which were following the trail across the plains. They came by thousands, solemnly walking in single file. We knew that it was no use to disturb them, and so let them go by undisturbed. An hour passed and still they came.

"At length I reached out to throw a stick of wood into the fire, and as I did so I brushed a cricket into the flames. Instantly there was a loud explosion that scattered the ashes all over me. Then came another and another—bang! bang! bang! My companion and I jumped to our feet and gazed down the trail. It was simply a line of fire as explosion followed explosion. It kept up until we could no longer hear the reports, but we could trace the devastation by the fishes of light. The last died away in about 20 minutes. We hurried back to where we had left our powder and found but a small stick, all gnawed, left. Then we knew the crickets had dined on it as they passed. The fire and concussion had done the rest.

"On the next day we kept along the trail and found it strewn with the legs and heads of dead crickets.
The last corpse was found just eight miles from where we had camped.
An hour had intervened between the arrival of the head of the line and the disaster. Hence my conclusion that crickets travel eight miles an hour." —New York Evening Sun.

A Technique of Pen and Ink.
It is easy of course to understand how pen drawing should have come to be so largely employed and elaborated. It is a matter of reproduction for illustration. An etching will not print with type nor with a steel engraving. This led in the early part of the century to the imitation of steel engravings by wood engravers, who did the business most skillfully with immense labor.
The drawings for them were mostly made in pencil. But photographic process rendered the intervention of the wood engraver needless if the artist made a pen drawing that would photograph and process well.
A purely technical difficulty can be overcome by large numbers of craftsmen. Large numbers accordingly have learned to make pen drawings to supplant wood engravings. But it should be noted that to do this is itself a kind of reproductive process.
Few elaborate pen drawings are made without a studious foundation in some other material. The pen line must frequently be traced or drawn over the pencil line, very much like the engraver's tool.

The point about the moderns and ancients, then, resolves itself into the imitation by the moderns in a new medium of the technique of an old. It is certain that the ancients could have performed this feat if they had chosen. —London Spectator.

An Egg of Indian Corn.
"Poultry" is authority for the statement that a pigeon in the possession of a correspondent recently laid an egg which on being broken was found to contain nothing but Indian corn. The same correspondent also stated that he had a hen which was crop bound. On opening the crop he was surprised to find, in addition to a ball of long grass, a full grown mouse. —Detroit Tribune.

Cautions.
Mr. Sharpley—Mr. Candee said that you had a sweet tooth.
Miss Oldham—"Tis false!
Mr. Sharpley—That's what I thought, but I was afraid to say it.
—Yonkers Statesman.

We consume our lives in providing the very instruments of life and govern ourselves still with a regard to the future, so that we do not

Cotton States and International Exposition,
ATLANTA, GA.
VIA THE
SEABOARD AIR LINE.

VESTIBULE LIMITED TRAINS
Upon Which no Extra Fare is Charged

Leave Washington, D. C., daily, at 8:40 P. M., upon arrival of the "Congressional Special" from New York, and reach Atlanta at 4:00 P. M., the next day.
A second train, with through sleeping cars from New York, leaves Washington at 8:30 A. M., arriving at Atlanta 5:20 A. M., the next day.
Both trains leave from the Pennsylvania railroad station and land passengers in the Exposition grounds as through passengers via ANY line are landed.
At Portsmouth and Norfolk, Va., the Seaboard Air Line has other connections equally as important as those at Washington, namely: From New York and Philadelphia, the Cape Charles Route; from Baltimore, the Bay Line steamers; from Washington to Norfolk, and Washington steamships; from New Orleans, the Old Dominion steamships; and from Boston and Providence, the Merchants' and Miners' Steamships. Close connection is made at the steamer sides with through trains and Pullman Drawing Room, Buffet sleeping Cars operated through from Portsmouth to Atlanta without change. Each of these routes takes the passenger via Old Point Comfort and through Hampton Roads.

EQUIPMENT.
These trains are composed of the handsomest Pullman Drawing Room, Buffet Sleeping Cars and Day Coaches. The 8:40 P. M. train ("The Atlanta Special") is vestibuled from end to end and is OPERATED SOLELY FROM WASHINGTON TO ATLANTA WITHOUT CHANGE.

POINTS OF INTEREST ALONG THE LINE.
The route from Washington is through Fredericksburg, Richmond and Petersburg, Virginia, Weldon, Raleigh and Southern Blaine, North Carolina; Chester, Clinton and Abbeville, South Carolina and Elberton and Athens to Atlanta, Georgia.

RATES.
Excursion tickets will be sold to Atlanta and return, via the Seaboard Air Line, as follows:
On Tuesdays and Thursdays, September 17th to December 24th, inclusive at $14.00 from Washington, and $12.00 from Portsmouth and Norfolk, limited to ten days from date of sale.
Daily, September 16th to December 15th, inclusive, at $19.25 from Washington, and $17.35 from Portsmouth and Norfolk, limited to twenty days from date of sale; and $29.25 from Washington and $27.65 from Portsmouth and Norfolk, good until January 7, 1896.

THE EXPOSITION
surpasses, in some respects, any Exposition yet held in America. Here you find, side by side, exhibits from Florida and Alaska, California and Maine, the United States of America, and the United States of Brazil, Mexico and Canada, and so on until nearly every civilized nation on the globe is represented. On the terraces are found, among many other attractions, Arab, Chinese and Mexican villages, showing just how those people have their "daily walk and conversation."
Ask for tickets via "THE SEABOARD AIR LINE." Pullman Sleeping Car reservations will be made and further information furnished upon application to any Agent of the Seaboard Air Line, or to the undersigned.
