LOVE TO THE END. "A basket of flowers, my darling,"

The dear old man said to his wife, "For one who has been for a lifetime The joy and the pride of my life. "They are not the flowers of our childhood

Or youth's tender roses of June, But the beautiful blossoms of autumn, With which our old hearts are in tune. "The beauty, love, never has faded For me since the first day, we met, Still softening a face full of kindness, And one the world scarce can forget. "This love is a true golden wedding-Good gold, that is free from alloy.

Our fifty year voyage has brought fruitage Our tenderness, comfort and joy. "Our bark has well nigh reached the harbor. Our anchor lies ready to cast. With hand clasped in hand, ever ready,

We'll love, still love on, to the last. "A backet of flowers, my darling," He said, with his gray head cast down. "Our dear little grandchildren clamor
