LESSON I, THIRD QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, JULY 3.

Text of the Lesson, I Kings zii, 16-25. Memory Verses, 16-19-Golden Text, Prov. xv, 1-Commentary by the Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1898, by D. M. Stearns.] 16. "What portion have we in David? Neither have we inheritance in the son of Jesse; to your tents, O Israel. Now see to thine house David. So Israel departed unto their tents." This was the result of the refusal of Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, to make the grievous service of his father lighter for the people, but it was all under God's overruling to fulfill His word by Ahijah the prophet (verse 15 and chapter xi, 30, 31). Because of Solomon's sin in forsaking the Lord and worshiping idols he was to lose ten parts of the kingdom, one tribe only being reserved for David's sake that he might have a light always before God in Jerusalem (chapter xi,

31-36). It was the purpose of the Lord that the 12 tribes should be one nation, a wholly righteous nation, in the land given to their fathers, and His purpose stands unchanged, for the gifts and calling of God are without repentance, and every purpose of the Lord shall be performed, but He sees the end from the beginning and is, through all seeming discouragements, patiently working out His plan (Rom. xi. 29; Isa. xiv, 24; xlvi, 9-11; lx, 21; Ezek. xxxvii, 22). 17. "But as for the children of Israel which dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them." Judah was David's tribe, to which he belonged, and the Son of David, who is to restore all things of which the prophets have spoken, is called the Lion of Judah and also the Root of David, for He is David's son as well as David's Lord (Acts iii, 21; Rev. v, 5; xxii, 16). Judah prevailed above his brethren, and of him came the chief ruler (I Chron. v, 2). It was well for Benjamin that they were willing to stay with Judah, even though seemingly absorbed in the one tribe of which the Lord spake. 18. "Then King Rehoboam sent Adoram, who was over the tribute, and all Israel stoned him with stones that he died." This Adoram seems to be the same as Adoniram of chapters iv, 6; v, 14. Perhaps by sending for the tribute Rehoboam was testing them to see if they had really revolted. The result must have thoroughly convinced him, but it was an expensive test for the collector. Not different, however, from that of Stephen, who for the sake of the Son of David was also stoned

19. "So Israel rebelled against the house from the house of David, and Jeroboam drave Israel from following the Lord." Jeroboam might have been blessed and made a blessing if only he had been willing to keep the commandments of God and to walk in His ways. But out of his own heart he devised evil things and established idolatry in Israel from Dan to Bethel (chapters xi, 38; xii, 28, 29, 83). 20. "And it came to pass when all Israel heard that Jeroboam was come again that they sent and called him unto the congregation and made him king over all Israel. Jeroboam was a widow's son and one of Solomon's servants, who had been promoted because of his industry. But when the Lord told Solomon of the division of the kingdom because of his sin then he sought to kill Jeroboam, but he fled to Egypt and was there till Solomon died (chapter xi, 28, 40).

21. "And when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem he assembled all the house of Judah with the tribe of Benjamin, an hundred and fourscore thousand chosen men." In II Chron. xi, 1, it is said that this army was from Judah and Benjamin. and in both passages it says that the object was to bring the kingdom again to Reho boam. This, however, was not God's way, and therefore the army was in a sense a vain array of power. We read of another king who hired 100,000 mighty men and paid them a hundred talents of silver. but was not allowed to use them, for they

22. "But the word of God came unto Shemarah, the man of God, saying, The name of this man of God signifies "Hearing Jehovah," and a true man of God is one who hears only the Lord and delivers His messages as faithfully as Samuel did the Lord's message to Eli. He that hath My word let him speak My word faithfully is a good message for every man and woman of God (Jer. xxiii, 28). The next chapter (I Kings xiii) is in some respects the greatest "Man of God" chapter in the Bible, for in it the title is used not less than 14 times, and it teaches us that if we turn from what God says to listen even to an angel bearing a contrary message we may be set aside as witnesses. Compare Gal. 1, 8 23. "Speak unto Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and unto all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and to the remnant of the people." The messages of God are plain, and those for whom they are intended are clearly designated (Deut. xxvii. 8; Hab. ii, 2). See also Hag. ii, 4, and note carefully the beginnings of all the epistles; note also in the utterances of He is speaking, and you will see among other things that the much misquoted words "The kingdom of God is within you" (Luke xvii, 20, 21) were never said to disciples, but to murderous Pharisees thirsting for His blood, and we must therefore take them as in the margin or the R. V. rather than as in our A. V. text. 94 "Thus saith the Lord. Ye shall not go up, nor fight against your brethren the his house; for this thing is from Me.' They hearkened and obeyed and did well in so doing, for obedience always brings blessing (Isa. i, 19). Man's goings are of the Lord; how can a man then understand his own way. O Lord, I know the way of man is not in himself; it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps. A man's heart deviseth his way, but the Lord directeth his steps (Jer. x, 23; Prov. xvi, 9; xx, 24). When Laban pursued Jacob with evil intent, the Lord appeared to him and stopped his evil purposes. Even satan had to confess that God had a hedge about Job 28, 32, and Ps. xxxii, 8. 25. "Then Jeroboam built Shechem in Mount Ephraim and dwelt therein, and went out from thence and built Penuel.' Shechem means "shoulder" and suggests Deut. xxxiii. 12. and Isa. ix, 6, 7, and penuel means "the face of God," but Jeroboam knew neither the one nor the other, for he turned away from the face of God and felt that he must manage things if they were to go right, according to his views. The very next verse shows that he did not believe God, and therefore he could not be established. See II Chron. xx, 20, and Isa. vii. 0.

through which he could not pass. Surely

we will be quiet if we believe Rom. viii,

During the summer of 1891, Mr. Chas. P. Johnson, a well known attorney of Louisville, Ky., had a very severe attack of summer complaint. Quite a number of different remedies were tried, but failed to afford any relief. A friend who knew what was needed procured him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colie, North Carolina Cholera and Diarrhoe Remedy, which quickly cured him and he thinks, saved his life. He says that there has not been a day since that time he has not had this remedy in his household. He speaks of it in the highest praise and takes much pleasure in recommending it whenever an opportunity is offered. For sale by W. G. Thomas, druggist,

ATTEMPTED ANALYSIS OF FRIENDSHIP

I sing of friendship. "Tis a word That's very, very often heard, One holds as friend the useful man Who at the timely moment can Do him a deal of good.

Another says a friend is he who's ready with his sympathy
And excellent advice,
And yet another deems him one
Who joins straight in the passing fun And adds his share of spice.

Again, you hear the only friend Is he who willing is to lend His money at the call. But none of these, though fair, will do. They haven't really got the true, Descriptive touch at all.

The friends, the bona fide friends, Are they who, when good luck attends Upon you for a season, Do not commence to sneer and flout And say the whole affair's without The slightest rhyme or reason,

Who do not lift their eyebrows or Their lips with envy curving Keep them, my bey! Such friends are rar But if you have them, know that they' The sole ones worth preserving.

There the fund of good material is apparently inexhaustible. Walter Wellman has been taking a turn at Vest and finds a story that is worth repeating.

The scene is located in Missouri, of course, and the preliminaries tell how Vest was employed by a man whose dog had been shot by a neighbor.
