LESSON VIII, THIRD QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, AUG. 21.

Text of the Lesson, II Kings v, 1-14. Memory Verses, 13, 14 - Golden Text, Jer. xvii, 14 - Commentary by the Rev.

1. "Now Naaman, captain of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master and honorable." The verse goes on to tell why, but closes with the sad statement that he was a leper. The Word of God from beginning to end reveals God to us working in and through and for His people and for all who are willing to receive His mercy. Even by those who do not know Him He sometimes works as in this case, delivering Syria by Naaman. All the great and honorable men of Scrip ture, such as Boaz, the mighty man of wealth (Ruth ii, 1); Mordecai, who was great among the Jews (Est. x, 3), and others lead the believer to say with heartfelt gratitude, "I know a greater and more honorable than all others, and He can heal even lepers.'

2. "Brought away captive out of the land of Israel a little maid, and she waited on Naaman's wife." Thus did the Syrians with God's permission, but what about the little maid's father and mother, and what about her own poor little heart? It is very evident that God does not always seek the comfort of His people, but He does always seek the highest good, and the greatest eternal glory of each one. Consider Joseph and Daniel, etc.

3. "Would God my lord were with the prophet that is in Samaria! For he would recover him of his leprosy." But for the love of God manifested through the little maid we might never have had the story of Naaman. The faithfulness of the little boy Samuel and of this little girl are great lessons for all boys and girls. Jesus at the age of 12 was about His Father's business, and it is the business of all who know Him to make Him known to others.

"Thus and thus said the maid that is of the land of Israel." So said one to the king, and thus the message of the little maid is passed on to headquarters, even the words of a little boy or girl are worth being passed on and will accomplish God's ants who live unto Him. He will use any vessel that is willing to be used by Ilim that He may be glorified.

5. "And the king of Syria said, Go to, go and I will send a letter unto the king as a present 10 talents of silver, 6,000 pieces of gold and ten changes of raiment. His gifts, neither do those know Him as deed it is a positive misfortuneoffering.

6. "Now, when this letter is come unto | yourself. thee, behold I have therewith sent Naaman, my servant, to thee, that thou mayest recover him of his leprosy." Our messages for God often get twisted and perverted by those who hear them, but God will somehow accomplish His pleasure. It is not for us to worry if we have acted according to Jer. xxiii, 28. The little girl had said that the prophet, not the king, alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man of his leprosy?" Thus said the king of Israel when he had read the letter and imagined that the king of Syria sought to quarrel with him. True, he was not able either to kill or make alive, but he should have known the God of Israel and His servants, the prophets, and have been able to point people to the one to the Sea of Galilee, "Peace, be only living and true God.

"Wherefore hast thou rent thy clothes?" Let him now come to me, and he shall mand Himself to be quiet. know that there is a prophet in Israel." Thus sent Elisha to the king when he Here is a man conscious of the fact that he is on earth for God and that God is in the dividing of the waters, the healing of the waters and in the miraculous supply of water, in the increase of the oil, the raising of the Shupamite's son and the healing of the pottage. He knows God and feels free to expect whatever will glorify Him. 9. "So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariot and stood at the door of central will. If you wish your the house of Elisha." A wonderful sight truly to be seen at a poor man's door! It makes us think of the time when all kings bave plenty of coal in the grate shall fall down before Him whom Elisha served, when every high thing shall be and plenty of steam in the boiler. brought down and the Lord alone shall be But you must be master of the exalted in that day (Ps. ers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel?" The water might be as but they were not God's way for his cleansing. Cain's fruits were probably much more attractive than Abel's bloody lamb, but they were not God's way. Good works and a good moral character are very beautiful and all right in their place, but they are not God's way of cleansing the leprosy of sin, and therefore of no avail.

"How much rather then when he saith to thee, Wash and be clean?" His servants, wiser than he, thus reasoned and his words were a blizzard-a with him that he would gladly do some great thing, and why not this simple thing? There are many who would give because he had not learned one of much money and do many so called good works if thus they could be saved, but simply to receive Christ and depend wholly upon Him and to have all their righteousness count for nothing is too humiliating for some people, and they will not submit (Rom. x, 8). 14. "Then went he down and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according if you would find the best way to to the saying of the man of God, and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean." He cer- most of the varied experiences tainly was not worthy, but he was obedient, and he was cleaned. There is no other way but God's way (Acts iv, 12), and all, without exception, who accept the way (John xiv, 6) are made clean (John xiii. 10; Rev. i, 5, 6; I Cor. vi, 11; Isa. i,

In Quietness and in confidence shall our strength .- Isiah, xxx., 15.

In my early youth I watched game of chess played by two experts, and the lesson I learned has lasted me a lifetime. For a while the chances were even, and it would have been rash to prophesy the results. The victory hung in the balance, and I was breathless. At last I noticed that one of the players was losing his quietness, and then I made a startling discovery that in his case, at least, the loss of quietness was the loss of strength. Impulse and rashness took the place of calm wisdom. He made hasty moves when he should have been especially deliberate. In thirty minutes the end came. The quiet player won and the hasty player was defeated.

From that incident I deduced a general principle has served me a good turn in many an embarrassment and helped me to overcome many a temptation. In life, as in chess, other things being equal, the man who acts slowly, measuring the consequence of what he proposes to do, is apt to gain his pleasure if they concern Him or His serv- end, while the man who is governed by impulse rather than reason does himself very slender justice and fails in the advanceof Israel." So Naaman departed, taking ment of his ambition. One of the best things in life is to have un-God gave His Son freely and with Him disputed possession of yourself, freely all things (Rom. iii, 24; viii, 32).
