the cost to the United States of the war in the Pail ppines has been $186, 678,080 in cash and at least 2 394 lives of American soldiers. The war with MRS. HOMER ATKINSON, Spain ended and that with the Philippines began February 1, 1898. This date can be used in calculating the expenditure in money, although it was not until February 4th that hostilities with Aguinaldo and his followers really began, and it was not until February 6th that the treaty of peace with Spain was ratified.

> The total of deaths given is compiled from a report made by the Scretary of War in reply to a resolution passed by the Senate and from Gen. MacArthur's death and casualty lists since the date covered by that report, May 24, 1900, up to and including Esti of the Treasury Department show that the beginning of hostilities in the Phil ippines has been $164,750,000 in ex same average rate of expenditures had been maintained that prevailed before the war with Spain. This, however, has not all been due to the hostilities on the islands. Especially is this true as to the navy, for it cannot be said ALL OF WHICH IS HELD FOR THE PRO- that the policy of ship construction has been materially affected by the Philippine situation, and about as many ships would have been kept in commission it the Philippines had been abandoned. It is doubtful if more than $7,ooo,ooo of the $37,000,000 apparent increase in the naval expenditures can properly be charged directly to the Philippine war.

With the army the situation is somewhat different. It is true that even if the Philippines had been abandoned upon the ratification of the treaty of peace with Spain there would still have been increased expenses on account of the military occupation of Cuba and Porto Rico, and the bringing home and mustering out of the troops then serving in the Phillippines would have been a considerable

On the other hand, at the termination of the war with Spain there were on hand vast quantities of military sup plies of all kinds, which have been available for the Philippine operations and which cannot properly be charged to the Philippine account but it is probable that one side would about balance the other. There are some items military expense which cannot properly be charged to the Philippines. These are the increased expenditures for fortifications in the United States and the increased expense due to the permanent enlargement of the artillery arm of the service. These are estimated at $15,000,000.

Subtracting from the apparent in creased cost of the army and navy $30,000,000 on account of new construction and other expenditures in the navy not directly due to the Philippines, and $15,000,000 for army expenses not connected with operations in the islands, there is left $159,750, ooo as approximately the cost of military and naval operations in the

WHAT HE PRAYED FOR.

A story is told of two worthy New England deacons, between whom bitter feud had long existed concerning some contested point. Neither would give in, and the matter threatened to be handed down to the next generation, when one day Deacon Smith appeared before his enemy and solemply "Brother Jones, it is a shame tha

WHY THE PEOPLE BELIEVE IN BRYAN.

There are many reasons why Wm. J. Bryan bas such a strong hold on the masses of the American people, a stronger hold even than be had in 1896, when he was less known than he is now. The Chicago Record, an independent paper politically, gives some of these reasons in the following brief edi-

"The explanation of Mr. Bryan's popularity must be sought in a cause which lies deeper than any political issue. That cause is to be found in a growing belief among the people that their government is slipping away from them into the control of powerful interests. In their view the tariff is the mother of trusts; imperialiem is the costly crusade for political and commercial spoils; the government itself is a citadel of special privilege. They see in the commercialism that has debauched our municipal, State and national goyernments the sufficient cause of our political ills. Mr. Bryan peculiarly represents the forces that seek to overthrow those who have tried to turn the flag into a 'commercial asset.' His admirers wish to destroy the influences that stand between the people and their government. He represents a ris ing tide of Democracy, in a kind like those of 1800 and 1828." This is true, every word of it but it is only part of the truth The American people are perfectly satisfied of the fact that Bryan is bonest, that he means what he presidency be will stick to it. gins on Saturday, September 1, 1900, Even those who are opposing him with increased facilities for thorough most vigorously concede this. And with all this the cleanness of his character stands out in bold relief under the full glare of the search lights, and no selfish interest or mercenary combine has ever been able to utilize his services or influence.
