IN SEPTEMBER.

Been hard on us—this summer time—on folks as well as stock.
The very fodder in the fields is feelin' of the heat.
But we remember, in September, when the "head" is on the corn—An' likewise on the squirrel, and you hear the hunter's horns—
You'll be happy that you will in the valley
—on the hill.
Thar'll be pleasure to your credit when you settle up the bill.
The sun—'s been a scorcher 'o' the mountain and the plain.
An' the craps—they got so that they almost died for rain!
But remember—in September, when the craps air gatherin' in Thar the candy-pullin' comin' an' the dancin' days begin!
on the hill.
settle up the bill!

MR. BRYAN TO THE POPULISTS.

He Accepts Their Nomination at Topeka—He Justifies the Co-operation of the Parties to Obtain Practical Results and Again Proclaims Imperialism the Paramount Issue.

At Topeka, Kan., last week, Mr.
Bryan was notified of his nomination for the presidency by the Populist national convention held at Sioux Falls, S. D., some months ago. Senator Butler, chairman of the Populist national committee, was not present.
The speech of notification was made by Mr. Patterson, of Colorado, who was permanent chairman of the convention. Mr. Bryan accepted the nomination. Following are extracts from his speech of acceptance:

"It is sometimes urged by partisan Populists that four years more of Republican misrule would so aggravate economic conditions as to make reform easier. No one can afford to aid in making matters worse in the hope of being able to make them better afterward, for in so doing he assumes responsibilities which he may not be able to remedy.

TO ATTAIN PRACTICAL RESULTS.
"No Populist, however sanguine, believes it possible to elect a Populist President at this time, but the Populist party may be able to determine whether a Democrat or a Republican will be elected. Mr. Chairman, the Populist convention, which your committee represents, thought it better to share with the Democrats in the honor of securing some of the reforms desired by your party than to bear the odium of remaining neutral in this great crisis or of giving open or secret aid to the Republican party, which opposes all the reforms for which the Populists contend.

"Those who labor to improve the conditions which surround their fellow man are apt to become impatient; but they must remember that it takes time to work out great reforms. Let me illustrate by calling your attention to the slow growth of public opinion in support of a proposition to which there has been practically no open opposition.

GROWTH OF SENTIMENT ILLUSTRATED.
"President Johnson, in 1868, recommended a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people, but his recommendation met with no response.
About 12 years later General Weaver, then a member of Congress, tried to secure the passage of a resolution submitting such an amendment, but his efforts were futile. In 1892 the resolution recommended by President Johnson and urged by Congressman Weaver, finally passed the House of Representatives, but it has not yet reached a vote in the Senate, and now, after eight years more of public discussion, the proposition for the first time received the indorsement of the national convention of one of the great parties.

"If the fusion forces win a victory this fall we shall see this reform accomplished before the next presidential election, and with its accomplishment the people will find it easier to secure any remedial legislation which they may desire. But how halting has been the progress! Holland has said:

Heaven is not gained by a single bound, We build the ladder by which we rise From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies.
And we mount to its summit round by round.

"And so it is with great social and political movements. Great problems are solved slowly, but struggling humanity marches on, step by step, content if at each nightfall it can pitch its tent on a little higher ground.

CO-OPERATION IS JUSTIFIED.
"I have called attention to the issues which brought the Democrats and Populist together and which justified the co-operation during the last four years. Let me now invite your attention to new questions which would justify co-operation at this time even though we differed upon all economic questions. It is not our fault that these new questions have been thrust into the arena of politics; it is not our fault that the people have been called upon to consider questions of ever-increasing magnitude.

"In 1890 the tariff question was the principal subject of discussion and the Democratic party contended that the masses were carrying a burden of unjust and unnecessary taxes. In 1892 the tariff question was still the principal issue between the Democratic and Republican parties, although in the West and South the money question was assuming greater and greater proportions and the populists were contending that our monetary system was more responsible than the tariff laws for the depression in agriculture and the distress existing among the wage-earners. In 1896 the whole question of taxation became of secondary importance because of the increased boldness of those who opposed the gold and silver coinage of the constitution.

"When the Republicans declared at St. Louis that the restoration of bimetalism in this country, although desirable, was impossible without the aid of leading commercial nations of the Old World the populists and Silver Republicans joined with the Democrats in asserting the right and duty of the American people to shape their financial system for themselves, regardless of the action of other nations.

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE.
"The failure of the Republican party to secure international bimetallism and its open espousal of the gold standard still keep the money question in politics, but no economic question can compare in importance with a question which concerns the principle and structure of government. Systems of taxation can be changed with less difficulty than financial systems, and financial systems can be altered with less danger and less disturbance to the country than the vital doctrines upon which free government rests.

"In the early sixties, when we were engaged in a contest which was to determine whether we should have one republic or two, questions of finance were lost sight of. Silver was at a premium over gold and both gold and silver were at a premium over greenbacks and bank notes, but the people could not afford to divide over the money question in the presence of a greater issue. And so to-day we are engaged in a controversy which will determine whether we are to have a republic in which the government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed or an empire in which brute force is the only recognized source of power.

"In a government where the people rule every wrong can be righted and every evil remedied, but when once the doctrine of self government is impaired and might is substituted for right there is no certainty that any question will be settled correctly.

EFFECT OF A COLONIAL POLICY.
"A colonial policy would so occupy the people with the consideration of the nation's foreign policy that domestic questions would be neglected.
'Who will haul down the flag?' or 'Shall by the President' would be the prompt response to every criticism of the administration and corruption and special privilege would thrive under the cover of patriotism.

"It is not strange that the populists should oppose militarism and imperialism, for both are antagonistic to the principles which populists apply to other questions. Looking at questions from the standpoint of the producer of wealth rather than from the standpoint of the speculator, the populist recognizes in militarism a constant and increasing burden. The army worm which occasionally destroys a field of wheat is not nearly so dangerous an enemy to the farmer as a large standing army, which invades every field of industry and exacts toll from every crop.

"If 100,000 men are withdrawn from the ranks of the producers and placed as a burden on the backs of those who remain, it must mean longer hours, harder work and greater sacrifices for those who toil, and the farmer, while he pays more than his share of the expenses of the army, has no part in art-y contracts or in developing companies and his sons are less likely to fill the life positions in the army than the sons of those who, by reason of wealth or political prominence, exert influence at Washington.

WHO GETS THE BENEFIT?
"Soon after the Republican leaders began to suggest the propriety of a colonial policy the papers published an interview given from San Francisco by a foreign consul residing at Manila. He declared that the people of the United States owed it to themselves, to other nations and to the Philippines to hold the Philippine Islands permanently.

"At the conclusion of the interview "here appeared the very significant statement that the gentleman was visiting the United States for the purpose of organizing a company for the development of the Philippine Islands.
A few days later, on his way East, he gave out another interview, in which he explained that the company which he intended to organize would establish banks at Manila and at other places throughout the island and build electric light plants, water plants, street car lines, railroads, factories, etc. It seemed that the plan of his syndicate was to do all the developing and leave the rest of the American people nothing to do in the matter except to furnish an army sufficient to hold the Phi-lipinos in subjection while they were being developed.

"At the present rate we will spend annually upon the army approximately half as much as we spend for education in the United States, and this immense sum is wrung from the taxpayers by systems of taxation which overburden the poor man and undertake the rich man. In the presence of such an issue as militarism it is impossible that any populist should hesitate as to his duty.

BLOW AT POPULAR GOVERNMENT.
"But even the menace of militarism is but a part of the question of imperialism. The policy contemplated by the Republican party nullifies every principle set forth in the Declaration of Independence, strikes a blow at popular government and robs the nation of its moral prestige. Already the more advanced supporters of the colonial idea point to the economy of a system of government which entrusts all power to an executive and does away with the necessity for legislation."

CHINESE PROVERBS ABOUT WOMEN.

Respect always a silent woman; great is the wisdom of a woman that holdeth her tongue.

A vain woman is to be feared, for she will sacrifice all for her pride.

Trust not a vain woman, for she is first in her own eye.

A haughty woman stumbles, for she cannot see what may be in her way.

Trust not the woman that thinketh more of herself than another; mercy will not dwell in her heart.

The good honor her who thinketh long before opening her lips. Pearls come from her mouth.

A woman that is not loved is a kite from which the string has been taken; she drives with every wind and cometh to naught but a long fall.

A woman and a child are alike; each needs a strong, uplifting hand.

A woman that respects herself is more beautiful than a single star; more beautiful than many stars at night.

Woman is the ease for that which pains the father; she is balm for his troubles.

A woman who mistakes her place can never return to where she first was; the path has been covered up from her eyes.

A woman desirous of being seen by men is not trustworthy; fear the glance from her eye.

Give heed to her to whom children have come; she walks in the sacred ways and lacks not love.

When first a woman loves she fears; she fears not that to which she has become accustomed.

A mother not spoken well of by her children is an enemy of the State; she should not live within the kingdom's wall.

A woman without children has not yet the most precious of her jewels.

Give heed to the voice of an old woman; sorrow has given her wisdom.

A beautiful woman knows not her charms, therefore is she beautiful, more so than the colors of the sea.

Speak not ill of any woman; if a woman be not righteous what she is speaks for itself.

Like sheep that be leaderless are many women come together for much talk.

Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea After Thirty Years of Suffering.
"I suffered for thirty years with diarrhoea and thought I was past being cured," says John S. Holloway, of French Camp, Miss.
"I had spent so much time and money and suffered so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble from the effects of the diarrhoea that I could do no kind of labor, could not even travel, but by accident I was permitted to find a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that it be in reach of all who suffer as I have."

MR. BATTLE'S ORATION ON

VANCE.
He Was the Noblest Roman of them All—His Statue Should Be Placed in the Capitol at Washington.

Hon. R. H. Battle, who delivered the oration at the unveiling of the Vance statue in Raleigh Wednesday, was Vance's private secretary when the latter was war Governor and knew him intimatly and well. Following is the conclusion of Mr. Battle's excellent oration:

"As we look at the statue we shall see him as I knew him, the qualities of his great mind, soul and heart in his beaming face and shining in every lineament of his countenance. Let us analyze those qualities. There is courage, moral and physical, unborn and argu-mented by three score years of conflict with the hardships and the battles of life; skin to courage, her twin sister, Truth, will speak from his lips; truth which his direct mind sought as the needle the pole, and was very life, it was ever part of his very life. He valued it as a priceless jewel, and his honest heart impelled him to display it to the world for its guidance and improvement. He is speaking words of truth now. And honesty you will see, a development of truth, its expression in the life of the man as he dwelt with his fellow-men, taking only what was his and freely according to others what was fairly theirs. And you can see benignancy and charity beaming from that face, tender kindness for his friends and indulgence for the faults of his adversaries. (I say not enemies, for few could be enemies to one of so open and genial a nature as his.)
And there is wit and humor—keen wit, twinkling from his eye, and racy humor bubbling from his half-open lips. And behind them a friend can see the playful irony with which he met the sophistry of a good natured adversary, and the cutting sarcasm for the malicious charge of one who would traduce his people.

"Here again is the pose and confident power of the orator—not the eloquentist merely, but the orator whose words carry
