Mr. Babcock Is Learning a Few Things.

NO PLACE FOR REFORMERS.

Trust Ridden Republican Party Has No Use For Them.

ROD BEING PICKLED FOR "BAR."

Assertion Made That He Will Be Forced to Besign as Chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee and Also Lose His Place or the Ways and Means Committee. Washington Post Sees Breakers Ahead-Tom Johnson's Fight In Cleveland-The President's Warning-Harvard's Nonsense.

[Special Washington Letter.]
My good friend from Wisconsin, Mr. Babcock, is rapidly learning that of which I forewarned him-that a reormer has no business in the Republean party. It is not his natural habitat. There are two important things which Republicans are constitutionally incapable of doing-to economize and to reform. The leopard cannot change his spots nor the Ethiopian his skin. Babcock is seeking the unattainableso long as he remains in the Republican party. If he is in earnest about cutting down the tariff, he had best reounce his allegiance to the tariff ridden, trust ridden old Republican party and join the Democratic party. There is the proper place for him and all others who want to relieve the people of

To show that I am right about this t is only necessary to state that the Republican magnates are talking of punishing "Bab" for his presumption. They do not propose that anybody shall poach upon their preserves. They will give "Bab" such a bitter dose that he will serve as a sad example to all Republican statesmen of this generation who aspire to the title of reformer

"Bab" to Be Disciplined. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat is on of the ablest newspapers in the land. It is a thick and thin Republican journal—an organ grinder of the most viru-lent type. It indorses enthusiastically all that the Republicans do. In a carefully worded Washington dispatch it says: "Within the past few days there has been much discussion of the programme outlined by Congressman Babcock for revision of the tariff. Conferences with those of influence with the administration and among the leaders of the Republican party have been held, and preparations have been made to end the ambitious project of Mr. Babcock. It is asserted that Mr. Babcock will be forced to resign as chairman of the Republican congressi committee and may be forced to give up his place in the ways and means mittee unless he decides to abanion his idea of revising the tariff and educing or abolishing the duty on products of the steel trust.

"There is a belief that Representative Babcock attempted a coup d'etat which failed of its purpose. He introduced his measure a few days before the close of the last session of congress with an apparent intention of creating something of a sensation. He comes from a district which is admittedly a Republican stronghold and by his long term of service in the house of representatives has reached a position of prominence and influence. His management of the affairs of the Reing the last campaign and his promihas been assigned led him to the belief that a radical departure from existing tariff regulation would be received throughout the country as a sort of political bombshell. In this he was disappointed. Brief reference was made to the measure which he introduced, but it was not taken seriously by the Republican press of the country, which seems to view it in much the same light as other 'request' bills

which are introduced in the closing hours of the session. No Tariff Changes. "The determination of the Republic an managers not to permit a revision of the tariff during the next session of congress is freely expressed here at Washington. The party is unreservedly the champion of the protective system, and its present managers do not propose to go before the people on any theoretical idea of revision. The same managers will make it equally apparent that the party does not chan the trusts or big commercial combina tions, and it does not propose to allow the two things to become involved in the pet issue. It has even been suggested that this attitude means posi-tively that there will be no tariff revision during the present administration No man in public life today is better in-various reforms in conducting the affairs of that growing and ambitious formed on such questions than Presilent McKinley; no man in public life conditions existing here and abroad, and the president has decided against tariff changes in the next congress, while the managers of the party can see very strong reasons why, if there is to be a change in the tariff schedules, it should come early in the administration. It a tariff change was pers on the part of the city council of seriously considered, it would be the Buffalo made Grover Cleveland gov-J P Massenburg Propr the next presidential election. The majority in congress will not attempt tariff changes unless the necessity for the majority in congress the necessity for the majority in congress the necessity for the next presidential election. The majority in congress will not attempt the next presidential election. The majority in congress will not attempt the next presidential election. The majority in congress will not attempt that the necessity for littical preferement than Cleveland had in 1881, because this fall there is a government. it is much more apparent than at present.

"If Mr. Babcock continues his present attitude as a tariff reformer and is forced to resign from his position as on the floor of the house, and, whatever the outcome of the Babcock movement it is supported by the property of the property o trongly the big majority which they will have in the next congress."

ters, but the circumstances justify it, for it is more important than any comcould make at this particular juncture, as The Globe-Democrat speaks as one with authority in Republican councils.

The Hog Tariff View, Now, that's the radical Republican trust advocates.

Post, high tariff shouter, but indeers ahead, backs up Babcock most valorously and lifts up a warning voice as tives in congress from 13 to 18 months before we begin to use them our congressional campaigns usually begin about as soon as the life of a congress ends and long before its immediate sucressor has assembled. The Fifty-seventh congress, elected in 1900, will not meet, unless called in extraordinary session, until next December, but the campaign for the election of the Fiftyeighth congress, which will be elected in 1902 and meet in December, 1903, has already begun; in fact, it began in the Fifty-sixth congress, in February last-began in earnest at that early day when Representative Babcock, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, introduced his epoch marking bill for the abolition of duties on iron and steel products. "That was the opening gun of a fight that may be long, but ought to be short. Whether the conflict is to rage inside the Republican party or between the two great parties is not yet decided, but there is no doubt that the tariff. in its relations to trusts, is the question of greatest moment today in the estimation of the shrewdest politicians of all parties.

Subservient to Trusts. "If the Republican majority in the Fifty-seventh congress should promptly take up the work of tariff revision on the line marked out by Mr. Bablistic combinations of their tariff protection, the Democrats would be deprived of an issue on which they expect to win. If the Republican majority should reject the Babcock propsition and the policy which it is intended to initiate, the Democrats would find in such rejection a rich endowment of party capital. That is what Chairman Payne of the ways and owing. But of all the men in the United States no man understands better than does Mr. Babcock what is demanded of the Republican party as a to the people. He says, and he is as much a protectionist as any man in ongress, that the question, 'Why do you permit a tariff to remain on articles which can be produced here cheaper than elsewhere? will be put square ly to his party in the congressional canvass of next year. "There is no answer to that question but a plea of guilty to the Democratic charge of subserviency to the trusts. Protection has magnificently vindicated itself by fulfilling the promise of its ad rocates that it would build up industries to such a position that they could dispense with it and defy the world in etition. Such is the condition of the industry with which the Babcock bill proposes to deal. There is no more stance, than there is for a duty on coal oil. -The true protectionists and the people generally are with Mr. Babcock. They are weary of the abuses of protection. The monopolists are with Mr. Payne. But the Republican party can never win another national victory until it ends this conflict in its own ranks by taking the duty off all 'articles which can be produced here cheaper than elsewhere. "Even with a united front-united in the right way—our Republican friends will have enough to do to retain control of the house of representatives. Divided on the question of antitrus tariff legislation, they will be routed." There you are. There are both sides camp of the high tariff propagandists, the radicals led by The Globe-Democrat and Mr. Chairman Sereno E. Payne the moderates led by Mr. Babcock and It's a very pretty fight as it stands. There is an old saying to the effect that when certain persons get at loggerheads bonest men get their dues. Out of this tariff war may come som relief to the people from being plunder ed by the tariff barons and the trusts.

Tem Johnson. Is history about to repeat itself? The Republican city council of Cleve-land is doing its everlasting best-unwittingly and purblindly, of course-to bring about that result. Tom Johnson is the Democratic mayor and propose city by the lake. The city council has started in to oppose and thwart him at every turn. They are playing into Tom's hands, for he is in his element when in a fight, and, as he is in the right, the more the council fights him the stronger he will become. It will be remembered by those of reasonably sound memory that similar caattitude as a tariff reformer and is forced to resign from his position as chairman of the congressional committee, he can still make a fight for his theories inside the ranks of the ways and means committee, but in doing so he will appear solely as an individual and not as a party leader, such as he has been recognized in the past. He is now abroad, and it is known he expects to make a study of foreign commercial conditions and hopes to bring back with him some figures to show that the products of the trusts are sold cheaper abroad than in this country. He will "Look Out!"

Cy in money matters; but, worst sign of all, the decline in the volume of our exports would seem to indicate that we have reached the topmost wave of our much vaunted prosperity and are now descending into the trough. The Spring-there is one drug that I can recall that are worth their weight in gold (about $20 an ounce), while $2, $3 or $5 an ounce are quite common prices in pharmacy. I filled a prescription the other day that cost $25. But there is one drug that I can recall field (Mass.) Republican says:

ment of the foreign trade for March high tariff view the whole hog tariff ago, but smaller than two years ago. amounting to $34,973,735 against $44,-109,231 in March, 1899. This fall pendent and conservative, sees break- away in the particular branch of the export trade upon which so much stress is laid has continued since October and affords a remarkable com-mentary on the assertions of the impeinlists as to the commercial value of their policy."

Ben Voyage! All good citizens, without reference to political affiliations, will wish the president and his compagnons de voyage a pleasant trip and a safe return to the capital. Mr. McKinley is by no means the first president who has "swung around the circle." Indeed George Washington set the example and made journeys hither and thither about the country as much to increase the interest of the people in the central Of course Mr. McKinley's trip has no such purpose, for everybody within the confines of the republic is interested in the national government. In Washington's day the infant republic was on trial, just learning to walk, leaning on his mighty arm for support. Now she has grown to be a giant and holds the center of the world's stage. Mr. Me-Kinley is on pleasure and recreation bent, and let us hope that he will have a jolly good time and return refreshed for his duties.

Till the end of the world some men dressed in a little brief authority will cut fantastic capers before high heaven. The latest caper likely to provoke much merriment is the controversy which raged in Harvard university as to whether that venerable institution William McKinley, now serving his second term as president of the repub-lic. Why there should be a rumpus about that, like the peace of God, pass eth all understanding. He certainly did not seek the honor. It would add nothing to his renown. Nobody would call him doctor if all the colleges and it conferred the degree upon him. Henon his shoulders a marvelous hea refused the degree from some college rational ground that such action was us, as the people had already named him doctor!

Mr. McKinley won for himself title of major, and the people gave him both the office and title of presidenttwo titles entirely bonorable and by one or other of which he will always be known while living and even after leath. Some college made Andrew Jackson an LL. D. Does anybody ever speak or think of the iron soldier of The Hermitage as Dr. Jackson? I trow not Talk of Dr. Jackson, even in the most telligent circles, and nobody will know whom you mean. Speak of Presdention General Jackson, and it will be taken for granted that you refer to be permanent. The case has convinc Jacksons, one of whom, "Stonewall," filled the world with his acciaim and was a marvelous soldier. So the good cople of Harvard might as well bave saved themselves all their worry, for the people know President McKinley and Major McKinley and don't want
