Liver and Croutons.

A delicious breakfast dish is calf's liver hashed and served with croutons. This hashed liver is an excellent dinner dish served as an entree or with the main dish, such as broiled chicken or chops. Get a calf's liver of some reliable dealer and have it well trimmed. Boil it gently in water slightly salted. Add two onions cut in halves, two bay leaves and half a lemon. When the liver is done, set the kettle in a cool place and let it get quite cold before taking the liver out. Then chop it as fine as possible, put it in a saucepan with a generous quantity of butter and enough hot water to keep it from sticking to the pan. Season slightly with salt and red pepper and let it cook ten minutes. Serve on a hot platter; ornament with great fun. long or diamond shaped croutons.

I was very much afraid, but I could not sit there and act a lie when I knew who was to blame. You may punish me as you said you should. And with all the firmness he could command he held out the little hand, never for a moment doubting that he was to be punished. Mr. Walters was very much affected. "Charles," said he, looking at the erect form of the delicate child who had made such a conquest over his natural timidity, "I would not punish you for the world. No one here were mashing it in the skin, being doubts that you spoke the truth."-

A Useful Dog. There was once a little boy who lived on a farm in the far east. He had a dog of the name of Watch. One day as his father was going to market, a distance of ten miles, the dog wanted to follow. His master tried to drive him back several times, but the dog was determined to go. After traveling about three or four miles the boy's father found he had lost his overcoat. So he turned the horses around and drove back. There, to his great surprise, he found Watch lying on the over-coat in the middle of the road and the teams turning out in the deep snow to pass him. Pan-Europeaniem le Rubbish.

Nothing less than the supreme realization of the commercial side of empire will be needed to plunge England and America into a war of tariffs. For the rest Englishmen laugh at pan-Europeanism. The weapon has been used against themselves, and even in the grasp of a master hand it snapped like a twig. What Napoleon could not effect against England the concert of Burope is hardly likely to effect against America. Such, at any rate, is the English view, both popular and official. England will have no hand in forging the new weapon; still less will she direct it. One may even go further and with not less assurance. Were united Europe in some freak of madness to attempt, as it has actually been suggested she might attempt, to prohibit American exports by force England would be compelled by sheer national necessity to join with America in frustrating it.-Atlantic.
