quent friend, Hon. Jonathan P. Dolliver, junior senator from lowa, spoke on the subject of trusts in Chicago not long ago. When Hon. James Gillespie Blaine wrote his once famous letter from Genoa, a disgusted patriot declared, with beads of perspiration and agony on his brow, that he had read that mystifying document right side up, wrong side up and catawampus, and then didn't have the remotest idea as to what the magnetic man from Maine was driving at. I am in the same frame of mind with reference to Br'er Dolliver's remarks as to trusts. He speaks, like the ancient oracle, in a double sense. He owes it to a suffering world to publish a diagram with his remarks. He must believe in the celebrated mot of Talleyrand that language is intended to conceal thought. for he most effectually concealed his thought, if any he has, on the subject of trusts. Senator Dolliver appears to have taken a lesson out of the book of his senior. Senator William B. Allisou, who rivals the famous Earl of American Products Abroad. Some Americans wonder how the American manufacturers can best the foreigners in their own markets, underselling the Germans in Berlin, the English in London and Liverpool and the French in Paris, and yet have to be protected here at home by a high tariff wall. When Frank A. Vanderlip wrote his widely quoted article on "The American Invasion of Europe," showing that American manufacturers can go into free trade countries and "protected" countries alike and distance all competitors, it was read by millions of people. It started a long train of articles and editorials of the same character in magazines and newspapers. It made Americans proud of America's achievements, but it did more than that-it awakened every thinking man, even in the Republican party, to the knowledge that American industries that can beat the opposition on its own ground certainly do not need "protection" here at home, and that the only

It seems a very great injustice and im-position for American citizens to be forced to pay such high prices here when foreigners secure the same things at a much lower rate. It is the high tariff that is to blame. The American manufacturer says that he must be protected against the foreigner. This is not true. He has nothing to fear from the foreign manufacturer, because he is successfully invading the fereign market. Neither is it true that the American goods which are sold abroad are surplus products. The American manufacturer is selling his goods at a fair profit abroad and at a tremendous profit at home. It seems to me that it would be very easy to lower the tariff, which would give the American consumer an opportunity to purchase American goods at a decreased price, and, if necessary, the American manufacturer could raise the price slightly abroad. Something, however, ought to done. The present condition of affairs is not just to the American consumer, and I do not believe the American people will stand it much longer. Something radically wrong when I can buy American shoes abroad for less than I pay for them here, notwithstanding the fact that

At the Mercy of Pierpont. To this extremity bath it come at last. Morgan is now in such a post-

tion, placed there by a government that permits the formation of trusts and the merging of vast railroad interests, that the financial world has to fall at his feet and ask for relief when riotous speculation and inflated valuations have brought Wall street to the verge of panic. Of course if panic were threatened while a Democrat sat in the White House we are free to guess as to whether Morgan would come forward with the advance payments. The Associated Press chronicles the event in the following:

New York, Sept. 26 .- J. P. Morgan & Co. today notified the shareholders of the vacompanies and corporations which they act as fiscal agents that they would anticipate October interest and coupon payments next Monday, two days in advance of the required time. These payments, it is estimated, will approxi-mate $14,000,000. This action is taken to help relieve existing financial conditions.

The United States Steel corporation anpounced today that it would mail checks tomerrow for the quarterly dividend on its common stock, due Sept. St. and that the checks would be payable Sept. The sum of the quarterly dividend is $5,083,025, and that sum will be released to
