Champ Clark's Letter

Editor Crumpacker's Big Campaign is a beautiful example of Unselfishness.

According to his philosophy, the entire archipelago should be turned over to the sugar barons at once. The post office scandal, which smells of heaven, does not stand alone. There are others—the public lands, for instance, which bids fair to rival, if it does not exceed, the sugar fraud in its magnitude. It is said that the steel could not have been carried on without the connivance of high officials in the interior department, especially in the general land office at Washington. Indications are given of several land commissioners who have resigned. The trail is getting hot. What the country needs most is a thorough investigation of all the departments, and that which will not get until a Democratic Congress is elected.

Not Admitted to Lucidity. In view of the fact that Senator William B. Allison is going to write the Iowa Republican platform, this year and in view of the further fact that there has been a good deal of friction among the Hawkeye State Republicans concerning the Iowa idea, the following article, which has been floating around, becomes apropos: "No member of Congress is so successful in keeping his views out of the papers as Senator Allison of Iowa. His dexterity in this matter has long been a matter of public knowledge. Some time ago he dictated to his secretary a reply to a letter asking for his opinion on a certain matter. When he had concluded, the senator asked his secretary what he thought of the answer. 'Well, sir,' said the secretary, 'it is hands-off with you, I can't make out just what you do mean.' 'That's it, that's it,' said the senator approvingly. 'I don't want him to know either.' Since the senator took the Senator to the top of a high mountain and offered him the dominion of the world to fall down and worship him there has been no such manifestation of gall as that exhibited by General Brayton, the Republican boss of Rhode Island. Last year the people of that diminutive commonwealth grew weary of Republican domination, Republican corruption and Republican maladministration; consequently they elected a Democratic governor and a Democratic House of Representatives. But the Republican senate, under the Republican boss, has blocked all reform legislation. Not long since the Democratic governor Garrison said that the Republicanism was introduced into the Little Rhode only by bribery, whereupon the Republican boss defiantly replied, 'Of course the governor is right' which sounds very much like Boss Tweed's defiant 'What are you going to do about it?' 'You best find out to his sorrow.

Health in Mother Earth. The children of the present generation have in many things great advantages over their predecessors, but the latter also had certain advantages of their own, among them that of going to Mother Earth. In a burst of eloquence the New York Press says: 'You never heard of a wild animal that had rheumatism until it reached captivity and was kept off the earth. You can't get a horse that had rheumatism until it was shot with iron and kept off the earth. You never heard of a dog that had rheumatism until it became a household pet and was pampered—kept off the earth. The Southern of Africa and Pacific Islands never had rheumatism, so far as we know, until they got to wearing sandals of straw. I could name a fox who whenever he got sick would dig a trench in his garden, lie down in it and live until he was cured. He would remain there for an hour or two, and then get up and say, 'Mother earth! It looked like the resurrection, and it was. Let all the boys get pamphlets that one back to the fairland of childhood.

A Republican Organ's Unselfishness. The Washington Post, which professes to be independent, but which believes in a high tariff, gold bugger and other Republican doctrines, goes after the St. Louis Globe-Democrat in the following vigorous and racy manner: 'It is essential to witness such an exhibition of unselfishness as the esteemed St. Louis Globe-Democrat gave us a day or two ago. "Says the Washington Post, 'Senator Gorman is by far the ablest man in the Democratic party and the best man it can nominate for president.' Unfortunately for Gorman and likewise for the Republican party, the Democratic convention of 1904 will not think this way. It is pretty easy to say that Gorman will never be able to get any considerable number of Democrats to treat his presidential aspirations seriously. Our valued contemporary then went on to explain that Gorman has no strength anywhere outside of a few southern states, that he would have no following at all in New York and none to speak of in that section; that he has no following in the Mississippi, while west of the great river the Democratic world has heard of him by all the Cleveland faction and the Bryan faction, while either in detesting or admiring him. He is not the eloquence or the magnetism of Bryan; neither is he gifted with the magnetic power of Cleveland. On his return to the senate last March he was once more the party's leader with dissenting votes, but that according to the Globe-Democrat, 'nothing has happened since then to give him any credit at all. If his wishes were obeyed, save his party in the senate from the disgrace which would befall it if he were elected and weakened it in the past few years. It didn't mean that the Democratic leader, who was once regarded as the wisest, noblest and most useful public servant in the history of the party. As we say, these exhibitions of unselfishness for the welfare of the adversary are very touching and delightful. The

COMMENCEMENT.

Louisburg Female College closes another successful session. Beginning with Sunday May 24th the commencement exercises of Louisburg Female College opened with the Baccalaureate sermon. The Methodist church was filled to its full capacity on this occasion and the music by the choir, composed of young ladies from the College, was very appropriate and most graciously rendered. Dr. W. W. Day, of Salisbury, N. C. preached the sermon before the graduating class. No effort was made to give even an outline of this truly remarkable discourse. The amount of thought, the range of information and the abundance of quotations were also beyond the ordinary. Indeed the abundance of words put beyond the range of memory. There is a limit to human capacity. The discourses taught concerning woman were sound and wholesome and should be proclaimed again and again from sea to sea for the benefit of our national life. The speaker was not at all best, physically lacking to the fire and fervor that often characterize his sermons. Still his sermon was far above the average and will be remembered for days to come. The Alumnus Banquet took place on Monday night. A lady friend who was present gives us the following account of it: 'Should Alumnus be brought and never brought to mind? At such May-time brings a re-union of the old girls (?) of Louisburg Female College, we feel that our Alma Mater grows nearer and the friends of 'Auld Lang Syne' dearer. This was never more clearly shown than when on Monday evening the Alumnus Association of Louisburg Female College met in its grand hall more than to greet our 'venerable friends,' talk over old College days and to be together again. The nine-course banquet, served by Dugli in the crowning event of the evening. The following menu was served and most thoroughly enjoyed by the joyful crowd: Cracked fish, salmon, hot of point a la poivrade, drawn butter, cream asparagus, broiled trout, sliced tomatoes, potatoes, omelette, sauté almonds, tenderloin of beef with mushrooms, green peas, Louisburg Female College punch, vanilla wafers, chicken salad in bird's nest, strawberries, sliced water, ice cream a la Van, assorted cake, young ones, can cheese, crackers, cake, etc. After each course our very graceful and efficient Toast Mistress, Mrs. J. S. Harrow, gave us the following: 'Should Dugli,' responded to by Mrs. Mabel Davis, 'Roses from the Cambridge Parlor,' by Miss Yarbrough, 'Alma Mater,' by Miss Edna Watkins, 'Class of 1903,' by Mrs. Lena Hollar, 'How to manage a man,' by Mrs. J. E. Malone, 'Alma Mater,' by Mrs. M. J. Jones. Mrs. Harrow proposed that we drink a toast to the bright and sparkling waters of the old well 'that has never run dry,' by Mrs. S. T. Beckwith in the 'forenoon and cordial help always rendered on these occasions, and also to the honored President and his very efficient corps of teachers, which was most heartily responded to, then after giving 'Three cheers for Dugli the Prince of Caterers,' we adjourned to the chapel to enjoy a rich treat on the Medical Recital given by the three graduates in music. At the next meeting of the Alumnus Association we will take steps to establish a scholarship to be given to a daughter of an old pupil of the Louisburg Female College. Girls of Louisburg College, who shall see this Rally to your Alma Mater, and do not let our sister colleges blame us for the work they are doing for their 'mother.' It will be our next meeting, for the entire evening was one of peculiar delight and those present will look forward with pleasurable anticipation to the next annual meeting. If the Alumnus, who were present, are a fair sample of the graduates of the institution, Louisburg Female College has a record of which any institution may well be proud, for a brighter more brilliant aggregation of women would be hard to find. In the words of the famous Rip Van Winkle we say to our Alma Mater 'may she live long and prosper!'

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption." Provide for yourselves that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption, that is so often incurable. At the latest statistics of consumption, get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular use. The use of Scott's Emulsion of cod liver oil, instead of the inferior fish oils, is the only way to cure consumption. Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is used. Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption." Provide for yourselves that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption, that is so often incurable. At the latest statistics of consumption, get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular use. The use of Scott's Emulsion of cod liver oil, instead of the inferior fish oils, is the only way to cure consumption. Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is used. Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.
