[Special Washington Letter.] S stated in my last letter, I have been attending the clos-"Poor Tom's A-celd." As a specimen of human credulity nothing more amusing has appeared in ing exercises of the Naval academy at Annapolis, which gave me an unusually good opporprint lately than the following tunity to learn the political conditions torial from the Detroit Free Press. in Maryland. There is little doubt When Platt yells "Enough?" sensible among well informed persons-regardpeople will believe that his creature, Governor Odell, has walloped him, and less of race, sex or previous condition of not before. Benjamin Odell would political affiliation—that the Democrats will sweep the state, electing a governor, state ticket and legislature which mit him so to do. The Free Press says: will elect a Democrat to succeed Senafor McComas, who was so confident that the Republicans would hold "My Maryland" that he relinquished a life position on the bench to nab a United States senatorship. The chances are that he wishes he had not done it, for he realizes that his senstorial career is drawing to a close. The next time he is appointed to a life position he will probably have gumption enough to keep it. His quarrel with Congressman Mudd has been his undoing-a petty quarrel about patronage. Mudd appears to have the upper hand.

A surprising thing about Maryland Republican politics is the recrudescence of ex-Senator Wellington. A year ago everybody thought he was dead as Julius Cresar, dead as a smelt, deader than a doornail. Now he is favorably mentioned for chairman of the Republican state committee. Verily, verily, politics makes strange bedfellows! The defeat of Congressman Wachter for mayor of Baltimore has ripped Maryland Republicans up the back generally and irreparably. They are gone fawnskins; they are done for; they are ausgespielt.

The successor to Senator McComas will probably be Hon. Isidor Rayner. now Democratic attorney general of Marriand, who defended Schley with such eloquence. He is of Jewish extraction and of brilliant parts. Maryland Republicans are becoming objects of ridicule, as witness the following from the Cincinnati Enquirer: Ex-Governor Lowndes of Maryland would like to take the gubernatorial chair again, but declares that he will not fight for it. What Mr. Lowndes needs is a powerful friend like Senator Hanna to pick him up and set him down in the place, relieving him of the tedlous details of a state convention. Perhaps Mr. Lowades, though, is too well known to be successfully handled in that manner. Postal Scandals.

All Washington is in a great uproar touching the astounding scandals in the post office department. Of course a profound impression has been made in the whole country, but here in Washington, where nine-tenths of all the people are either in the government employ or live off those who are, any sensation in the official circle has a tremendous effect. Some lofty heads have fallen and others rest very uneasy upon the shoulders of their owners. Republicans are all a-quiver for fear that the partial exposures will whet the appetite of the public for more and that this hullabaloo is but the precursor of a political revolution. They shudder in terror when they think that the battle cry of Thomas A. Hendricks, "Let's see the books!" may once more become the shibboleth of a great party. While much of corruption and peculation has been shown up the average citizen is prone to believe that "the half hath not been told." The voters are now beginning to realize how much they missed by not electing a Democratic house in 1902. Had they done so we would have set investigations on foot in all departments of the government and would have drawn forth enough evidence to have sent the Republican party to the political morgue. It appears now that this jobbing, peculating and plain stealing have been going on for years, which emphasizes the necessity for a thoroughgoing investigation. Of course Generals Payne, Wynne and Bristow are playing politics in probing into the conduct of dishonest Republicans, but the common sense taxpayer will believe that Democrats would have gone deeper into the matter. In Washington only pity is felt for old Assistant Attorney General Tyner. There is a good deal of sympathy for Hon. August W. Machen, superintendent F. R. D., who was a most accommodating and capable official. Everybody will be glad if he can clear his skirts, but nobody in Washington mourns long for anybody. The Washingtonian cry is always: "Le roi est mort! Vive le roi!"

Royalty's Stage Play. Our more or less esteemed contemporary, the Cleveland Leader, thus remarks upon certain performances of the king of Saxony:

There is nothing very novel about the method adopted by the king of Saxony to prove that he is popular with his subjects. The issuing of a secret order to all government employees to appear with their wives, children er other relatives in gala attire in the streets of Dresden to wel-come the king home from his vacation trip to the Riviera smacks too much of the methods of government in free and It is in this way that some of the petty "rulers" of the American people maintain their popularity. In nearly every American municipality every man who holds a job as the gift of the man who rules the party in power is accorded. rules the party in power is expected to prove his loyalty to his chief upon all oc-casions. Whenever the chief does any-thing every job holder is expected to applaud, and when he is running for office the same job holders are expected to swell the crowds at political meetings and help to influence public sentiment in every way possible. That is how power is got and held.

The king of Saxony, who appears to be really one of the most unpopular monappiauz, and when he is running for of-fice the same job holders are expected to swell the crowds at political meetings and help to influence public sentiment in ev-ery way possible. That is how power is got and held.
