Champ Clark's Letter

(Special Washington Letter.)
The people of Ohio have an opportunity of giving to the Salvation Army a person of world-wide renown as a preacher.

Senator Marcus A. Hanna, attended the dedication of a fine new Salvation Army chapel in the city of Cleveland. He not only attended—he presided. He not only presided—he delivered a speech half an hour long. One of his remarks was more important than all the rest that he said in thirty minutes. He said that if he had time to preach he would help the Salvation Army with his votes. Now, that is the cue for the Ohio people to do the Salvation Army a good turn. If they will only defeat Senator Hanna for re-election he will have plenty of time to preach and to help the Salvation Army with his votes.

A Dog Fall.
The result of the Republican convention in Iowa appears to have been a dog fall. The "stand pat" party had the platform committee to 5, and the "change" party to 6. The platform committee to 5 and the "change" party to 6 and defeated Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson for permanent chairman with 5100 votes.

Everybody in the United States wishes the Mexican republic well. It is glad that General Diaz has consented to "surrender" another year. He is the Washington of Mexico and has done as much for that country as the Father of His Country did for ours. This is not an emotional statement or one intended in anywise to minimize the standing of George Washington, who, all in all, was the greatest man that ever lived.

That platform is set, like the negro's soon trap. To catch the eyes of the people, it is necessary to call particular attention to that remarkable utterance, "Duties that are too low should be increased and duties that are too high should be reduced." A self-evident proposition. How the Iowa Republican leaders must have laughed in their sleeves when they perpetrated that huge joke on the convention and on the country! How can they look honest men in the face? As matters they are entitled to the blue ribbon.

A Bourbon Republican.
My venerable and virtuous friend, General Charles Henry Groves, of Ohio, is a Bourbon Republican who learns nothing. It will be remembered that not very long before President McKinley's death General Groves was interviewed at the mouth of a coal mine and nominated McKinley for a second term. He was interviewed with some very laudatory remarks on him and some decidedly left handed compliments for one George Washington. The Groves interview from the mouth of a coal mine was having a great run and many people recognized as the mouth-piece for the administration, and by all such the interview was taken and accepted as a "feeler" put out by McKinley through Groves or to see how the public would regard a third term.

During the year immediately preceding a presidential election there is no form of mental exercise more popular than making or suggesting tickets for the two great parties. Nearly every fairly intelligent citizen of the United States indulges in it. Every possible combination is suggested and many that are impossible. This intellectual work possesses a perfect fascination. It is an unending delight. If it does not improve the intellect, it certainly does no harm. Among those who are exercising their fancy and ingenuity in this regard is Harry Walker, one of Missouri, now of New York. Under the fetching caption of "A Ted and Tom Ticket" he has written a paper which has been widely distributed in the large cities and for the most part has been well received. The free distribution of garden and flower seeds will not be stopped until the free delivery of mail is stopped in the cities. These papers are as if the government out of the world's wealth to give garden and flower seeds to the farmers. Nothing could be further from the truth. How much of wealth has the government anyway? Not one red cent of its own. It has many millions locked up in its vaults, but it simply acts as a banker for the people—as a custodian of the public funds. Why, then, should not senators and representatives vote to furnish the farmers—who own half the money—locked up by the treasury in a few packages of garden and flower seeds? It is simply giving back to them a little—very little—of that which the government has taken from them in taxes. It is about all that they get from the government at Washington.

It is my judgment that both sides of the Republican ticket for 1904 met in St. Louis at the late election were the best of the world's fair. Therefore I take the liberty to formally place in nomination as good Republican candidates for President and Vice President the Honorable of New York for president and Thomas H. Carter of Montana for vice president. I am sure that the people will concur with me. If the Republicans will search the four corners of the United States and back every true man who is a Republican, they will find a ticket which will carry them to the White House. There is no man in the United States who is more devoted to the cause of the people than the Honorable of New York for president and Thomas H. Carter of Montana for vice president. They are the best of the world's fair. Therefore I take the liberty to formally place in nomination as good Republican candidates for President and Vice President the Honorable of New York for president and Thomas H. Carter of Montana for vice president. I am sure that the people will concur with me. If the Republicans will search the four corners of the United States and back every true man who is a Republican, they will find a ticket which will carry them to the White House.

HOW ONE TEACHER BRAUGHTED A COUNTRY REGION, HOUSE.

A Letter That Tells an Interesting and Profitable Story.

The following letter, dated April 27, 1903, was written to Miss Edith I. Rogers, of Raleigh, North Carolina, by a Wake County teacher, Miss Rogers is president of the Wake County Woman's Association for the Promotion of Better School Homes. The letter is as follows:

"When I took charge of the Kagle Rock school in September last I found a house in the midst of a large yard grown up in briars, weeds and tangle. Just to the rear of the door was a small meadow with a few trees. I had been told that the house was a good one, but I found it was a very poor one. I had to begin with small things. I bought two nice, large volubers, and hung one in each room. I also told the trustees that there were black boards were needed, and these they willingly gave.

"I had learned that one of the trustees had a large map of the United States. I went after the map and got it. Indeed, he lent it with pleasure when I told him how much it was needed. Shortly after the County Superintendent visited the school, and I asked for a globe to be paid for by the county. He replied that it would be a pleasure to present the school with one, which he did. It has been of great service. I had the yard given up for the school and called upon them for help toward a new order of things. Then I appointed December 13 as work day on the yard, and sent requests to several persons to be there on that day, and in the notes specified the tools each should bring.

"When I drove up with my wagon loaded with tools and workers on the 13th there were waiting for me a strong force of hands and eight volubers and snails. They plowed, and chopped and dug, and hauled, and laid of walks, and when we left things were marvelously changed. The following Friday was appointed Arbor Day, and all the people of the community, whether parents or not, were invited to bring trees. Nature recognized her friends, and gave a lovely day, and the people came. The children rendered some appropriate selection. Miss Rogers followed with an address, and then we went out and planted the trees. There were but seven planted, mostly elms and maples.

"One gentleman sent word that it was impossible for him to be there, but to have three places marked, and when I began the new year his trees would be there. His wife, I learned, had been in the hospital, and the preacher—my friend—had died, and the teacher, as was to be expected, are holding their own. Out of the fifty trees forty six lived.

"The map trustee had some rye, and volunteered to see it on the ground and so prepare the soil for grain next fall.

"A letter to our Congressman telling about the work and asking for trees brought seven choice varieties from Washington, which have been treasured with great care.

"I sent a little sketch of our Arbor Day to the Youth's Companion, and by way of encouragement, this paper sent the school a set of historical pictures and a handsome United States flag. What a happy time that was.

"The five pictures were neatly framed and gilded through the effort of five little girls, and do brighten the walls to much. Each picture was allowed to choose the picture she wanted to frame, and her name and the date were written across the back. This gladdened their little hearts and was, at the same time, an object lesson showing that effort brings results.
