Democratic Prospects Are Bright In Many Western States **********

[Special Correspondence.] ECENTLY I have been on a lecture tour to the Pacific coast, and my observations make me believe that Democracy is once more on the up grade throughout the Rocky mountain and coast states, a fact by reason of which good Democrats will rejoice every-

In Colorado the efforts of the Republicans to steal the seat in the senate of that illustrious patriot and statesman Henry M. Teller have left a bad taste in the mouths of honest folks of all shades of political belief and have given the Republican machine in the Centennial State a severe if not fatal joit. The strange antics of Governor Peabody have split the Republican party of Colorado in twain and give tlie fusionists a fine opportunity to redeem the state. Consequently they are not disheartened by their defeat last year, but are already lining up for the great contest of 1904.

In Utah Democrats are taking heart, and confidently expect to swing that young state into the Democratic column at the next election. In Nevada we have the governor and other state officers, the representative in congress, the legislature and one United States senator. The Democrats of Nevada are waiting impatiently for the next election of a senator of the United States so that they can retire "Santa Claus" Stewart to the shades of private life. He would not have been elected the last time if he had not pretended that he was a better silver man than Francis G. Newlands. Soon after he was re-elected he went back to the Republicans bag and baggage, horse, foot and dragoons. "Ickabod" is inscribed above his senatorial habitation, and his finish can be easily foretold: Francis G. Newlands. The most prominent man in Nevada oday is Francis G. Newlands, who, after ten years of distinguished service in the house, on the 4th of last March succeeded Hon. John P. Jones in the senate of the United States, where he will cut a wide swath. He is the father of the Newlands irrigation law, a fact which has endeared him to the population of the arid region. President Roosevelt did Newlands and others a rank injustice by stating that Mr. Mondell of Wyoming deserved the lion's share of the credit for passing the irrigation bill, and that Mr. Reeder of Kansas, whom he was pleased to denominate as "Irrigation Bill Reeder," was second only to Mondell. I would not detract from the just fame of Mondell or Reeder in the estimation of a hair-they are good men and did what they could; so did many others-but the truth should be told though the heavens fall, and it is this: The men who deserve the most credit for the irrigation scheme are Francis G. Newands of Nevada and John C. Bell and John Shafroth of Colorado. Others aided them in an able manner, but they were the head and front of the enterprise, and were so recognized by everybody conversant with the facts. Able, insistent in season and out of season, vigilant, tactful, courageous, harmonious, they won what five years ago seemed a hopeless fight, and should have their due mead of praise. President Roosevelt has the ear of the country, and his praise no doubt helped Mondell, while the nickname he bestowed upon the Kansan of "Irrigation Bill Reeder" made that brawny statesman's political fortune, being a thing that will stick. Newlands, Bell and Shafroth are the men who led the movement to a successful conclusion.

Everywhere in California I found the Democrats in fighting trim. Last year they came within a few hundred votes of electing a governor and took three representatives in congress away from the Republicans. The truth is that had the ballots been counted according to the intention of the voters. the Democratic candidate for governor would have been elected, but by reason of some peculiarity in marking the ballots enough Democratic ballots were thrown out to give the election to the Republican candidate, with whom there is now great dissatisfaction among the Republicans. Therefore the Democrats are anxious to get at them again, feeling confident that they will in the next heat pull under the string winners by at least a neck. At Les Angeles I addressed the Iroquois club, and I never saw a more enthusiastic set of Democrats. Those who count the electoral vote of California certainly in the Republican column next year reckon without their host. Party lines rest loosely and lightly upon Californians, and the Democrats are as apt to carry the state

Everybody knows that Oregon is Republican by about 10,000 majerity; nevertheless she has a most excellent Democratic governor in the person of that splendid citizen Hon. George E. Chamberlain, who appears to bear a sician to President McKinley. He becharmed life politically and who is came colonel of the rough riders, of a veritable Democratic mascot. When which President Roosevelt was fleutenever things political in Oregon get so bad that they are intolerable enough decent Republicans turn to Chamberlain as a political purifier and vote for him to elect him to some big office, In doubt. There will be a tempest in a that way and for those reasons he was teapot, but it will soon blow over, for raised as decoys, elected attorney general of the state

Conse-quently Governor Chamberlain must be taken and accepted as, a man of great likal- to come true. Already, accordpossibilities. He is in the flower of his years, a tiptop campaigner, a first rate lawyer and the idol of the northwestern Democrats. The national convention could go farther and fare much worse than to nominate Governor places and on sundry dates the Burton Chamberlain for president or vice president.
